Economic Growth Improves to 4.4%

OTTAWA (CP) — The economy grew in the second quarter of 1978 at an annual rate of 4.4 per cent, Statistics Canada reported today.

The growth rate, a substantial improvement over the 2.8 per cent rate recorded in the first three months of the year, was largely due to a strong resurgence in investment and a continuation of moderate expansion in consumer and government spending, the federal agency said.

But the expansion in the economy, as measured by the gross national product (GNP) was still short of the five per cent pledged by Prime Minister Trudeau at last month's summit meeting in Bonn.

A major source of weakness in the second quarter was a marked decline in the merchandise trade surplus. Federal officials have been counting on merchandise trade as a leading component of growth.

The federal agency said a notable feature of the second-quarter figures was a significant increase in demand for goods and services within the country. That component of the GNP had been relatively weak since early 1977.

The growth of domestic demand, coupled with return to a more normal pattern of U.S. demand for Canadian exports, explained the fall in the trade surplus, Statistics Canada said.

Business machinery and equipment investment led the recovery in the investment sector.

The federal agency said the sudden resumption in growth of investment in machinery and equipment was reflected in sharp, widespread rises in imports of those goods.

POPE'S FIRST COMMENT

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul I told the cardinals who elected him, "God forgives you for what you might have done against me," Joseph Cardinal Hoeffner reported today.

Writing in a pastoral letter to members of his diocese in West Germany, Cardinal Hoeffner said the remark was the first commment made by the pope after his election Saturday. The cardinal did not elaborate.

No Future Unless . . .

Mankind has no future whatsoever unless the awesome proliferation of arms is curbed, pollution effectively combatted, the spiralling population growth stemmed, and there is a fairer sharing of resources and wealth realized, according to the World Federalists of Canada.

More than 200 delegates attended the national conference at Lester Pearson College of the Pacific during the weekend.

The conference called for more people to get involved in the political process, to question, for example, Canada's intended expenditure of $2.25 billion on new fighter planes, and to end timid, mouse-like approaches used by concerned citizens at present. See stories on Page 25.

SMALLPOX IN BRITAIN

BIRMINGHAM (Reuter) — A 42-year-old English woman has smallpox, the world's first official case in 10 months and the first in Britain since 1973.

Janet Parker, a laboratory technician at a Birmingham university medical school, was reported in satisfactory condition after being admitted to hospital here today.

AIRCAN, IAM TRY AGAIN

Canada, Europe Air Chaos Reigns

Times News Services

Air travel chaos continued in Canada and many parts of Europe today as Air Canada remained shut down and French air controllers worked to rule.

The Canadian Bar Association's experience reflected the general disruption in the nation's travel patterns. The association's annual meeting opened in Halifax today with fewer than half the expected delegates registered, most of the others having stayed home on account of the Air Canada shutdown.

Meanwhile, thousands of stranded passengers jammed European airports, their flights delayed as many as 26 hours by a slowdown strike of French control tower operators.

Hardest hit were London's Gatwick airport and Spain's Palma de Majorca. Palma closed three times Sunday and today it reported delays running up to 19 hours.

There appeared to be little hope of an early end to the Air Canada shutdown.

Representatives of the airline and ground-service workers began meeting in a Montreal hotel this morning in another attempt to resolve the current impasse over a new contract.

This is the third round of talks between the airline and the International Association of Machnists and Aerospace Workers (IAM), and the first negotiations since Air Canada reacted to wildcat strikes by shutting down its operations Friday.

Two earlier rounds of negotiations failed to produce an agreeement acceptable to the union rank-and-file, and both sides appeared to be digging in heels.

Air Canada president Claude Taylor has said the airline will not resume operations until it has assurances there will be no further work interruptions by the ground-service workers.

And Barry Shaw, head of the union's negotiating committee, said the 7,500 ground service personnel would not return to work today despite a resumption in contract talks.

"The only way we see right now to get Air Canada back in operation is with a contract agreement acceptable to our membership," Shaw said.

By midnight Sunday, Air Canada had laid off more than 5,000 of its non-essential staff, including pilots, flight crews and some office personnel.

In Victoria, however, all 51 Air Canada employees were still on the job today and district manager Glen Steeves said no lay-offs would be ordered unless the dispute continued for some time.

Steeves said Air Canada's Victoria operation is under contract to provide all ground services to Pacific Western Airline flights here, so maintenance and handling work is continuing.

PRIMITIVE ROCK ART in the form of a hefty, daubed boulder was the surprise awaiting Ron and Pam Cunningham, 6863 West Saanich Road, on their return from a Penticton holiday Saturday. Mrs. Cunningham, examining the rock with sons Troy, 7, and Randy, 11, says the culprits haven't been identified but she strongly suspects her husband's colleagues in the public works department of Central Saanich municipality — specifically trick specialist Al Jordan. The rock face may be Jordan's retaliation for finding for-sale signs around his house when he returned from holiday, she speculates. Cunningham will probably borrow a backhoe to move the rock. Victoria Shamrocks are in the national lacrosse final for the Mann Cup for the first time in 21 years. After escaping with an overtime victory on their home floor Saturday, the Shamrocks staged another comeback Sunday at Coquitlam, erasing a five-goal deficit and clipping the Adanacs 14-11 to sweep the best-of-seven Western Lacrosse Association playoff final. Loaded with high-priced stars from many nations, New York Cosmos delighted 74,901 fans at their home stadium Sunday by capturing their second straight North American Soccer League championship. The Cosmos did it this time with a 3-1 triumph over Tampa Bay Rowdies. Page 18.

Victoria professional Cec Ferguson took a run at the leader Sunday in the final round of the Alberta Open golf tournament with birdies on four of the first six greens on the last nine holes. Later bogey problems forced Ferguson to settle for second place, three strokes behind Toronto's Gar Hamilton. Page 19.

Nicaragua Revolt Spreading

MANAGUA (AP) — Nicaraguans seeking the ouster of President Anastasio Somoza clashed with National Guard in major towns across the country as a general strike gathered momentum and reports circulated of rebellious talk in the National Guard, the country's 7,500-man army.

Sources said there have been open discussions of revolt broadcast over radio stations controlled by the guard. But foreign diplomats said they believe Somoza will be able to retain control.

Officers of the guard are reported upset over Somoza's capitulation to the 25 Sandinista Liberation Front guerrillas who seized the National Palace and more than 1,000 hostages last week and forced the president to let them and 59 imprisoned Sandinistas go to Panama.

Managua was quiet Sunday, but demonstrators erected street barricades and threw bombs at troops in Jinotepe, Diriamba, Esteli, Matagalpa, Leon, Chinandega and Grenada, the largest towns outside the capital.

No deaths are confirmed but the Red Cross said there are dozens of injured and un-

Troops Storm Church

SAO PAOLO (UPI) — Riot troops firing tear gas and wielding clubs charged 2,000 anti-government demonstrators in front of Sao Paolo's Roman Catholic Cathedral Sunday, leaving more than a dozen people injured.

The heavily armed riot troops surrounded the cathedral in the afternoon with police dogs as 8,000 people inside held a meeting protesting the high cost of living in the giant South American nation.

When the meeting, organized by the church-supported Cost of Living Movement, was over, most of the participants left through the cathedral's side doors without police interference.

But a crowd of about 2,000 — mostly students — had gathered on the cathedral's steps, chanting "Down with the dictatorship" and "United, the people will never be defeated."

'Bomb' Diverts Jet to Vancouver

VANCOUVER (UPI) — RCMP today held an unidentified woman in custody after a United Airlines jet en route from Denver to Seattle was forced to land at Vancouver International Airport by a passenger who said there was a bomb on board.

The woman was arrested without a struggle by two officers when the plane landed in Vancouver shortly after 11 p.m. Sunday night.

There were no injuries and the DC-8 was refueled and the passengers were flown to Seattle a few hours later without incident, authorities said.

Officials said one of the 159 passengers on Flight 179 had sent a note to the captain saying a bomb was on board and demanding that he divert the plane to Vancouver.

The jet landed and taxied to a secondary runway northeast of the main passenger terminal, airport spokesman Allan Jay said.

Now Swimmer Cindy Eyes Juan de Fuca

The girl who was named Canadian Woman Athlete of the Year for 1977, swam from France to England in an excruciating 12 hours, 15 minutes, 2½ hours outside her own record.

That gave her six crossings and the Channel Swimming Association's Queen trophy which goes to the woman with the most successful attempts.

As things stand now, Cindy plans to take a break from the channel next year.

"Maybe I'll lay off for a year and try the Strait of Juan de Fuca or the Capistrano Swim (off California.)."

After the swim, Cindy said that despite her triumph, she is disappointed.

Cindy, who tied for the Queen title last year when she swam the channel round-trip, had hoped to lower her own record of nine hours, 46 minutes for the east-west trip.

"The tide didn't come through as it should have," she said in a telephone interview from Folkestone.

Captain Val Noakes, skipper of the guide boat, said: "We thought we would make it in about 8½ hours."

Somehow, a tide they had expected to swing Cindy back toward the English coastline didn't act the way they thought it would and the Toronto girl had to drop her hammering 90-strokes-a-minute tempo to 88.

Cindy feels her queen title is safe in that "there was one girl who had three crossings but she has retired."

The Toronto girl had been tied with Greta Andersen, a Dane who swam in the United States during the 1930s and who crossed the channel five times.

MAJOR BREAK IN BEER STRIKE

Members of the Canadian Brewery Workers Union will vote this week on a full contract offer from B.C. breweries.

If the proposal is accepted, the breweries could be back in business within a few days.

The offer, considered a major break in the protracted dispute, came Friday night after five days of intensive negotiations.

Union leaders decided over the weekend to put the contract proposal to the members.

It is believed most locals will vote Wednesday.

A company spokesman said today both sides have agreed not to reveal details of the offer until after the vote.

He said the proposal is for "full and final settlement of all unresolved issues."

The brewery spokesman also said that "Eric Harris, chief negotiator for the companies, says that in the event the offer is not accepted it is unlikely the dispute will be settled for some time to come."

The brewery shutdown prompted the B.C. government to import increasing amounts of American beer. Thousands of cases of a wide variety of brands have been shipped in.

U.S. Mail Talks Resume

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal mediators worked out an 11th hour agreement Monday to head off a midnight mail strike by resuming contract talks between the U.S. Postal Service and mail unions, labor sources said.

The sources said the Postal Service and three unions agreed hours before the strike deadline to go back to the bargaining table for a 15-day period.

"Our resolution calls for a 15-day period and I'm sure that's what it will be," one union source said.

Axe Misses G-G's $2.3M Second Home Annex

QUEBEC (CP) — One week after the announcement of federal spending cuts, excavation has begun on a new $2.3-million extension to the governor-general's second home at the Quebec Citadel, used two or three weeks a year.

The new building, to house a ballroom, kitchen and other facilities, will rise on the ashes of the old residence annex, destroyed by fire in February of 1976.

Next door, renovations worth an additional $900,000 have recently been completed on the governor-general's private quarters, damaged by smoke and water during the same disastrous fire.

Andre Cote, project manager for the federal public works department, says the residence and annex had 125 rooms prior to the fire, and the total will be about the same when the project is completed in 1980.

The governor-general's main residence is at Rideau Hall in Ottawa but there has been a second residence at the Citadel overlooking the St. Lawrence River since Confederation.

Former governor-general Roland Michener visited the home, on the grounds of the historic military base, about four times a year. Gov.-Gen. Jules Leger has come less often, in part because of health problems.

"Last year, he came twice, eight days one time and two days the other time," says Cote.

Gov.-Gen. and Mme. Leger are expected to visit again next month, when the renovated private quarters will be officially inaugurated.

The restoration of the quarters, built in 1826 as officers' quarters, involved replacement of windows, electrical wiring, heating, plumbing and installation of an elevator and sprinklers.

The interior has been tastefully redecorated, with meticulous restoration of furniture in the bedrooms used by the vice-regal couple and 60 staff members who accompany them.

"The fire had a certain advantage," says Cote. "All the furniture was in poor condition and it gave us the opportunity to restore it."

Cote says there has never been any question of rebuilding the destroyed annex, built in two sections, the first in 1895 and the second in 1926.

"It was irrecoverable," he says. "It was extremely ugly."

The second phase of the project is due to begin next February, but Cote says there is "a big question mark" over the balance of the work because of spending cuts.

A spokesman for the department in Ottawa, however, said that for the moment the project is scheduled to proceed until completion.

Once it is ready, consideration is being given to opening the residence and a new terrace overlooking the river to the public.

U.S. DOLLAR GETS ANOTHER BOOST

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Federal Reserve Board gave the United States dollar a further boost today by making it more attractive for U.S. banks to borrow dollars overseas.

The Federal Reserve, in a highly technical move, said it was eliminating the reserves U.S. banks have to keep on their foreign borrowings, primarily Eurodollars.

Previously, banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System had to keep reserves equivalent to four per cent of foreign borrowings in a non-interest-bearing account with the Federal Reserve.

By eliminating the four-per-cent requirement, the Federal Reserve hopes banks will borrow Eurodollars — dollars that are held outside the U.S. — instead of borrowing money at home.

The reserve requirement made it expensive for banks to borrow Eurodollars because the four per cent deposited with the Federal Reserve could not be loaned out and thus did not earn interest.

An increase in Eurodollar borrowings raises demand for U.S. dollars held abroad and helps maintain the currency's value on the foreign exchange market. If banks borrow dollars in the domestic U.S. market, this has no impact on the external value of the dollar.

The Federal Reserve has boosted the discount rate to 7¾ per cent, an increase of one-half of one per cent, while the Treasury has substantially increased the amount of gold it will offer at its monthly auctions, starting in November.

Knee Joint Transplant

PEKING (Reuter) — Surgeons in Shanghai have successfully transplanted a whole human knee joint complete with blood vessels and nerves, the New China News Agency said Saturday.

It said the five-hour operation was carried out on the left leg of Ha Chuanlung, 34, last year by surgeons of the Huashan teaching school of the Shanghai First Medical College.

Ha, who could not walk for four years following an industrial accident, now can walk without support and the knee is flexible and free of pain, the agency said.

It said that he received a plasic joint in 1975 and another of organic glass the following year but continued to suffer pain and had to use crutches.

All tests showed "that the knee joint graph has taken and that the bone has knit firmly with blood circulation running smoothly," the agency said.

Political opponents of Somoza predicted Managua would be paralysed today by the general strike after 34 of the country's 36 chambers of commerce voted Sunday to back the four-day old walkout. They urged their members to close down their businesses until Somoza resigns.

The strike, which has been more effective in the provinces than in the capital, was launched Friday by the Broad Opposition Front, a coalition of a dozen political parties and three labor groups.

Somoza is the third member of his family to rule Nicaragua since the U.S. Marines put his father in power in 1937. This first serious challenge to the family dictatorship began with a country-wide wave of demonstrations and strikes in protest against the assassination Jan. 10 of newspaper editor Pedro Josquin Chamorro, one of Somoza's most outspoken opponents.

A two-week general strike paralysed business and commerce after thr assassination and Somoza said during an interview in July he considered resigning then.

Socred Chief Coming Here

National Social Credit leader Lorne Reznowski will visit Victoria for the first time as party leader next month.

He will give a public address Wednesday, Sept. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Queen's Room, Queen Victoria Inn.

Begin Stands Firm On Peace Plan

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said Sunday he will enter talks with the presidents of Egypt and the United States next week "with good will, with an open mind," but with no changes in his Middle East peace plan, already rejected by Egypt.

Begin, talking to reporters after his cabinet wound up its debate on policy for the summit meeting at Camp David, Md., said he is standing by his plan for limited Palestinian self-rule on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip with an Israeli military presence.

"We don't have to have new options; this is the basis for negotiations," Begin said of the plan he wrote last December.

But he said a team of cabinet deputies, after studying all proposals made since the peace initiative was launched with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's trip to Jerusalem last November, has made several recommendations "and we will take the material with us."

He declined to detail those recommendations, but said the cabinet discussed "various formulations."

Begin said he will leave for the U.S. next Sunday and that the Sept. 5 summit has been rescheduled to Sept. 6 so Sadat could be in Egypt for the end of Ramadan, the Moslem holy month. Begin is expected to visit New York City before going to Washington.

However, in Washington, Pat Bario, speaking for the White House, said Sunday both leaders still are expected to arrive at Camp David, U.S. President Carter's Maryland retreat, the evening of Sept. 5.

Carter invited Sadat and Begin to Camp David last month to try to revitalize their on-again, off-again peace talks.

Begin said he will be accompanied by Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, Defence Minister Ezer Weizman and eight aides, including three generals.

Economy Up 4.4 Per Cent

chandise to other countries grew by 1.3 per cent in the second quarter, imports grew at a rate of 9.4 per cent. Large declines in exports of coal, nickel, copper, iron ore, crude petroleum, newsprint and woodpulp contributed heavily to the weakness in export trade.

There was a continuation of the gradual expansion in consumer demand which has been apparent this year after a poor performance throughout most of 1977. Consumer spending was strongest on such goods as clothing, footwear and household furnishings.

Purchases of new passenger cars, furniture and household appliances were up while spending on food, household fuels, alcohol and gasoline was down.

Wages, salaries and other labor income rose by 2.5 per cent in the quarter with the strongest increases in the goods-producing sector. Part of the improvement was due to an increase in hours worked, a component that had been low in the first quarter because of severe weather conditions.

Corporation profits rose three per cent and were 15.9 per cent higher than a year earlier. Manufacturing profits were weak but there were higher profits in service, mining and transportation industries.

Total spending of all levels of government increased by 2.4 per cent in the second quarter.

the weather

Today's weather map is unavailable

Cloudy conditions prevail on the coast while variable cloudiness was reported over the central Interior earlier today.

An area of low pressure continues to dominate the Eastern Pacific. A number of weak disturbances moving around this low pressure area are brushing the coast, giving a little precipitation to coastal districts particularly on the North coast and along the West coast of Vancouver Island.

Occasional precipitation is forecast over western portions of the central Interior tonight. More precipitation is forecast for Tuesday on the coast with a few showers predicted over western portions of the central Interior.

Over the southern Interior, sunny with cloudy periods are forecast on both days. Temperatures will be near seasonable levels.

ENVIRONMENT CANADA WEATHER OFFICE 10 A.M. FORECASTS

New Pope Has Had Hard Life

Times News Services

When Valnea Scardanzan of Edmonton first met Albino Luciani, she wondered why the man ever considered joining the priesthood.

Mrs. Scardanzan met Luciani, who became Pope John Paul I on Saturday, in 1960, the same year she married a cousin of the new Pope.

"Luciano was a big man . . . a beautiful man," Mrs. Scardanzan said Sunday. "I could not understand why he became a priest and not marry."

"But he has been a good priest and I would not like his job. It has taken a lot out of him; he looks old in his photographs now . . . He's had a hard life with a lot of hard work."

Scardanzan's mother, Rosa, is the sister of the Pope's mother, Bertola.

Scardanzan said: "We were both raised in northern Italy in small villages, but we did not often see each other. Our families often lived in separate villages and both families were poor so we could not afford to visit."

There was more than 10 years difference in their ages, he said, "so we were never really involved in the same interests."

"When he was a priest and later a bishop, he would often write and visit my mother and my old man. He was really fond of my mother, his aunt, and would stay for dinner."

Scardanzan recalls one day in 1959 when the Pope, then Bishop of Veneto province, arrived at his mother's house with four or five priests in tow, drawing a large crowd at the front door.

Scardanzan was surprised when Luciani was made archbishop of Venice and more surprised when he became a cardinal.

"But the biggest surprise was Saturday. I was out in the back yard working and my wife was watching the television and when she saw the news she sent out the children to greet me..I was almost crying."

Meanwhile, in Marysville, Mich., Silvio Luciani predicted two years ago his first cousin Albino would be the next pope.

"Oh, my arms were shaking when they said Albino was the new pope," the 79-year old retired handyman said.

Luciani moved to the United States from Italy in 1923 and has lived in the Port Huron and Marysville areas since 1930. He first met his cousin during a trip to Italy in 1965. The new pope was then the bishop of Vittorio Veneto.

"I'll never forget the first time I saw him. My wife and I went to Venice. He was living in a castle there. He said he wanted to give us . . . a good welcome, so he gave us Coca-Cola to drink. The new pope likes his Coca-Cola," he said.

ELECTION COST $9.2 MILLION

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — The coronation of Pope John Paul I, the conclave for his election and the funeral of his predecessor will cost the Roman Catholic church about $9.2 million, Vatican officials said today.

Vatican officials said heavy expenditure already has been incurred in converting the area around the Sistine Chapel to accommodate the 111 cardinals attending the conclave to elect the pope.

But $3.4 million have been recouped through the sale of specially-minted stamps and coins commemorating the death of Pope Paul VI, the officials said.

In his address to thousands of worshippers at his first noon blessing at St. Peter's Square on Sunday, the new pope used the first person "I" rather than "We."

Speedy Vote Remains Mystery of Conclave

Times News Services

"An unknown." "Only time will tell." "Half and Half," they said of the new pope of the Roman Catholic Church.

Since Albino Cadinal Luciani became patriarch of Venice in 1969, it has become a kind of ecumenical centre for meetings of Catholic officials with Anglicans, Pentecostals, Jews and Protestant and Eastern Orthodox representatives of the World Council of Churches.

How Cardinal Luciani emerged so quickly from far back in the field to be elected pope on the first day of balloting still is a conclave secret.

"It's a mystery to me, and to say he's a nice guy doesn't explain the mystery at all," said Rev. Robert Graham, a church historian and Vatican expert.

Some theorized the fact that he had not served in the Curia, the Vatican bureaucracy, was a factor in his favor with other bishops who have had their difficulties with Curia.

Some assessments of the new pope are conflicting. Terence Cardinal Cooke of New York called him "warm, friendly and smiling," a "humble, kind pastoral teacher who seems to be so open."

But John Cardinal Cody of Chicago said his impression is of a "very shy man." Asked about changes he might make, Cody said: "I don't see much change, but very effective continuity of program."

James Carney, Roman Catholic archbishop of the Vancouver diocese, said: "This early decision indicates that the cardinal electors had a common agreement on the qualifications and on the desirability of the new holy father."

He said there will be special observances today to mark the election of the new pope.

"It would have helped to have fuller preparations that would have been possible if the election had come, say, in the middle of the week," Archbishop Carney said. "We could have prepared better for the observance of the day but it will be marked in all the parishes in this city."

Asked if any major reforms in church policy would take place under the new pope, he said: "The fact that the cardinals agreed so early would indicate that he would be a middle-of-the road candidate, because he obvioulsy had the early agreement of two-thirds plus one which would indicate, I think, that he would be considered a middle-of-the road pope — carrying on the policies of Pope Paul."

Most Rev. G. Emmett Carter, archbishop of Toronto, said the election of Cardinal Luciani was refreshing.

Archbishop Carter was critical of the news media's predictions of the top candidates for the new pope. Cardinal Luciani was not among the frontrunners.

"There is a lot of lessons coming from that. What the media was feeding us was patently wrong," he said.

Archbishop Carter said the election of a pope without previous administrative experience shows the Roman Catholic Church wants to place more emphasis on the local matters.

"He's (Cardinal Luciani) not an administrative genius" but is known as a pastoral bishop, the archbishop said.

Archbishop Carter added that the choice of the name John Paul is significant because the new pope does not want to be branded as a liberal as was Pope John or a conservative as Pope Paul was considered to be.

Meanwhile, the first group to meet with Pope John Paul I Sunday were six cardinals who had been barred from voting in the papal election because they were over 80 years old.

The six, all residents of Rome, were among 15 cardinals banned by age from the conclave that Saturday elected John Paul to lead the Roman Catholic Church.

Among those who met with Pope John Paul and by his personal invitation attended the Mass celebrated in the Sistine Cbapel by the 110 cardinal electors was 87-year-old Pietro Cardinal Parente.

"It is a good choice," he said. "The ex-Cardinal Luciani is far from the extremists. He is a simple person, very personable, democratic and intelligent. A good, good choice. It filled me with joy to greet him this morning."

Also present in the Sistine Chapel in the morning meeting was the 85-year-old dean of the College of Cardinals, Carlo Confalonieri, former head of the Sacred Congregation of Bishops and the man who two weeks ago read the homily at the funeral of Paul VI.

"The church has chosen well," he said. "Luciani is a bishop who always fully did his duty."

MEXICO TRIP?

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul I might make his first trip abroad as head of the Roman Catholic Church when the Latin American Episcopal Conference convenes Oct. 12 in Puebla, Mexico.

The new pope, elected Saturday, reconfirmed Sunday the conference would be held but he gave no indication whether he would attend.

Vatican officials said Italian Cardinal Sebastiano Baggio conferred with the new pope on the subject Saturday night.

The conference will take place 10 years after the meeting of Latin America bishops in Medellinombia that was attended by John Paul's predecessor, Pope Paul VI.

Asked about the possibility of John Paul going to Puebla, Aloisio Cardinal Lorscheider, archbishop of Fortaleza, Brazil, replied: "I don't know. The pope hasn't even had the time to breathe for the moment."

Amazing Flavour Breakthrough

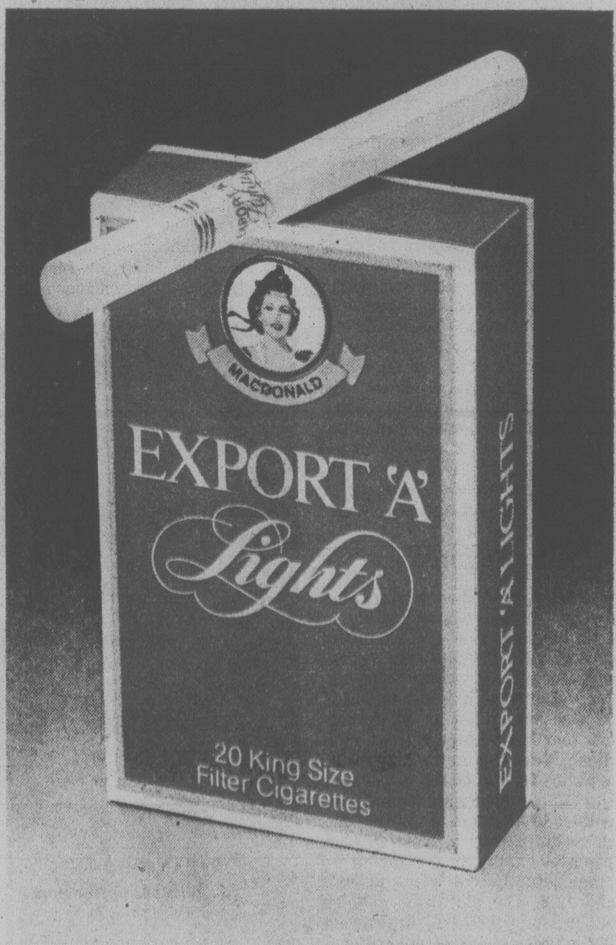
"Gentled Tobacco" gives Export 'A' Lights new dimensions of taste combining total flavour with never-before lightness.

They said it couldn't be done. No cigarette, they said, could combine complete flavour with a smooth light smoke.

This remarkable cigarette does it. The flavour is there, full and rich. But without a trace of harshness.

Fine, full-flavoured tobacco, gentled and blended as never before, make Export 'A' Lights unlike any other cigarette. A cigarette with a new kind of gentle strength. A cigarette that goes beyond words and must be tasted to be believed.

It's the one cigarette that's just right.



KING SIZE AND REGULAR

Export 'A' Lights.
The first just right cigarette.

Warning: Health and Welfare Canada advises that danger to health increases with amount smoked — avoid inhaling. 11mg. tar, 1.0mg nicotine.

Irresponsible Threats

In non-governmental circles they have a word to apply to people who threaten others with retaliation for the "crime" of trying to assert their legal rights. The word is intimidation.

Politicians generally are given slightly more latitude in what they say, so intimidation may not be the right word to apply to Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Rafe Mair's recent thinly-veiled threats against the Canadian brewery workers union. Mair's intention, however, seems remarkably similar, and his threats should be roundly condemned by the premier and by Labor Minister Allan Williams.

Mair made his threats in response to a warning from the brewery union that it was planning to charge him and his department with alleged infractions of a number of laws in regard to the mass imports of U.S. beer during the B.C. brewery dispute. They involved such technical matters as the kind of tops on the cans, the listing of alcohol content on the cans and French and metric labelling.

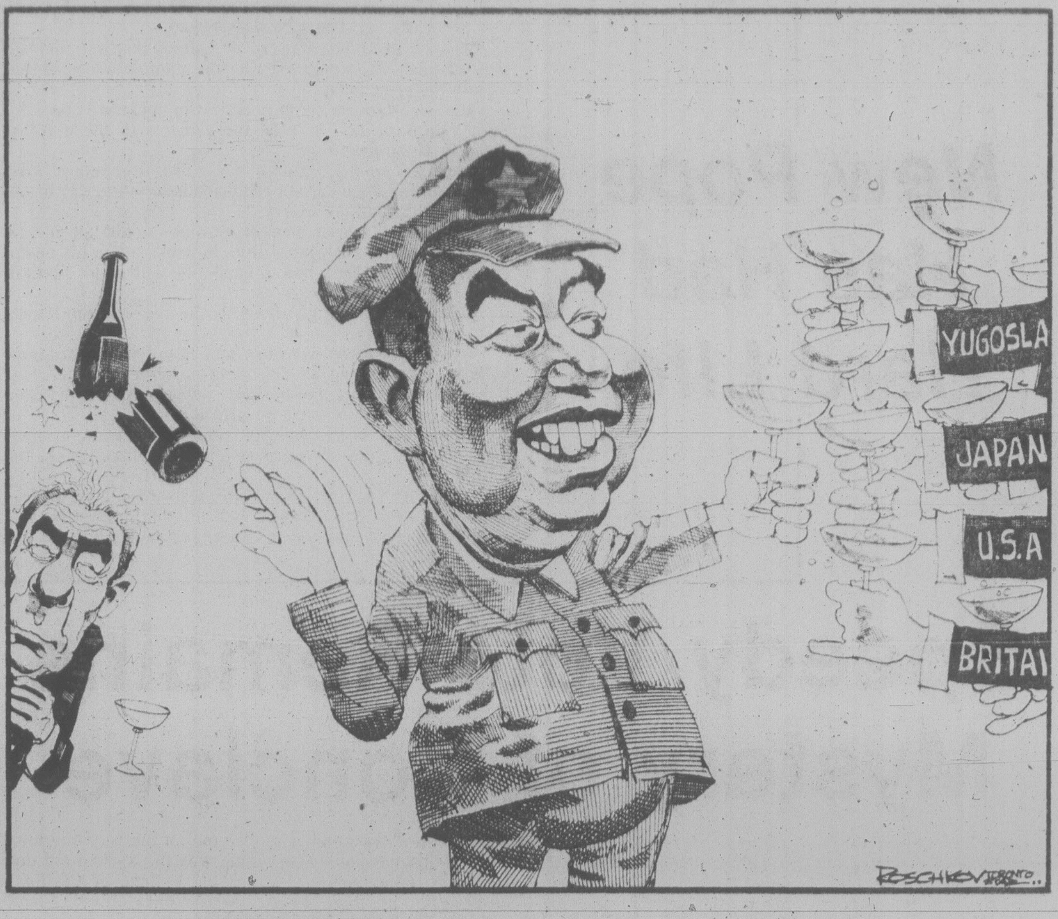
To lay such charges might indeed be considered petty, and even irresponsible, on the union's part and might damage its case with the public, but that is the union's problem, not the government's. In any case the laying of the charges would now be nothing like as irresponsible as was Mair's response.

In essence, Mair told the union that if it chose to proceed with the charges, he would consider retaliating by changing the beer tariff structure to end the protection of Canadian beer in B.C. liquor stores. The none-too-subtle hint was that then occurred, more buy U.S. beer would be sold, Canadian beer sales would drop and some strikers might lose their jobs.

The best one can hope is that Mair was not serious about his threat and was using it only to try to "persuade" the union not to go ahead with its plans for court action. In that case he might stand accused only of contemptible behavior in trying to use threats and coercion to get his own way.

Far worse if he was serious about it, for that is to say that a minister of the Crown would would threaten a segment, albeit a small one, of the province's economy and would increase unemployment simply because he was in a tiff over a labor dispute.

Labor Minister Allan Williams should immediately explain to his cabinet colleague that his actions will be worse than useless both in dealing with this individual dispute and in keeping the labor-management climate in the province as a whole on a solid footing.



Senseless Waste

The sudden furore over vegetable "bootlegging" by some Fraser Valley farmers has — again — started people asking questions about the usefulness of marketing boards, whether they are too powerful and if they help or hinder marketing of produce.

Fairly shouting the questions is Social Credit MLA George Mussallem, who represents the Dewdney riding in the valley.

He castigates the Coast Vegetable Marketing Board, which recently refused to allow a Sumas grower to market 7,000 cases of cauliflower while it was selling — slowly — in Vancouver for 79 cents a pound.

"It's an utter disgrace to let good food rot in the fields. It's a travesty on fair play. It's an anomaly to frustrate the consumers."

Mussallem says the marketing boards have become too powerful — they shouldn't be able to tell a farmer where he can sell his produce. Another example of the marketing board's supreme powers was last week's spud seizure at two "farmer's market" style supermarkets in Surrey.

The board said the potatoes had been illegally sold outside the marketing board machinery, and under provincial law it has very wide powers of enforcement. Farmers must sell through the board or at a roadside stand on their own property.

Statistics which Mussallem cites are a stiff indictment of the marketing board system, if they accurately represent what has happened to vegetable farming in B.C. He says that in 1934 when the board was founded, there were 1,400 vegetable farmers in the Fraser Valley, and they grew almost all the produce required by the 250,000 people living in the Greater Vancouver area then.

Now, there are fewer than 200 vegetable farmers and although the population has quadrupled and modern methods have doubled production output, the Fraser Valley produces only half of what it did in 1934. As a result, Vancouver today imports more than three-quarters of its vegetables while Fraser Valley farmers are forced to let good crops rot in their fields because they exceeded a quota.

The people who run the marketing boards are close to exhausting the patience and goodwill of consumers. Many more examples of this "let-it-rot-in-the-fields" mentality and the political pressure to abolish them may be too great for the government to resist.

PM Giving Us the Gears?

OTTAWA — In a hectic, three week splurge of activity, as if they were ants driven by too much formic acid, the Trudeau ministers have been up-ending all their main long term governmental processes.

The over-all work pattern of the Trudeau cabinet during its years of power has been to enlarge very greatly the scale and scope of government programs and activities, correspondingly multiplying the spending required to finance its approach and hiring more and more civil servants to administer what already existed and to invent new avenues of activity. Now it is desperately trying to thrust the gears into reverse.

Programs that required years of study, consultation, debate and revision are undergoing major surgery on an ad hoc basis. The current policy approach, ostensibly as an economic purpose, was launched by the prime minister with no prior consultation of his most senior economic and financial officials. The general strategy and much of the tactics have been the product of his own small coterie at the prime minister's office and the privy council office, with ministers and their officials desperately struggling to catch up and play some role.

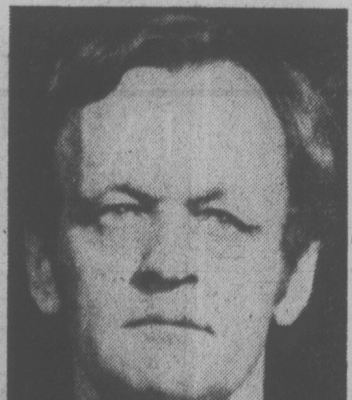
Into Reverse

The purpose of this remarkable period of government is, presumably, to create an impression of great ministerial activity, decisiveness and courage. More and more, however, the actual impression that it is producing is that the government has grown desperate in its fear of the electorate which it must finally face this autumn or in the spring. Policy formation today has very much less in common with normal governmental activity than it does to the hurried formation of an election platform after the campaign has started, an event that actually took place in both 1968 and 1972. The platforms cobbled together in haste then had little to do with the actual actions of government that followed.

All of the best indications still are that Trudeau has not yet made any decision on an autumn election but that a date early in November is under very active review. An election on Oct. 30 is almost out of the question because that would endanger the pension positions of almost 70 members of Parliament. They would just miss the qualifying time necessary for a minimum pension. By chance, more Conservatives than Liberals are in this position but Parliament is a club and normally politicians do not do that sort of thing even to their opponents, let alone their followers.

While it seems to be the case that no election decision has been made, and probably will not be until the first week or so of September, it is difficult to believe that a government would want to face the scrutiny and attack of a hostile parliament with this package. It has been touted around as intended to get the economy going again but so far there are no ingredients that can have any early economic effect. To that extent it is the political equivalent of the old shell game and the ethical underpinnings of the operation are dubious because there is an attempt to mislead the public over the impact of this frenzy.

Finance Minister Jean Chretien made a disastrously poor impression at the press conference Thursday where he announced his part of the play. There was confusion over figures and, in the end, it emerged that the new spending involved roughly cancelled out the savings extracted from the family allowance changes. At the end one correspondent of long experience remarked to colleagues:



JEAN CHRETIEN
. . . abysmal performance

The changes in the family allowance program, if Parliament ever implements them, take it back to the sort of idea that John Munro attempted to put across when he was minister of health and welfare in the earlier days of the Trudeau period. He failed to get his views accepted, was replaced by Marc Lalonde who worked out a totally different approach with Claude Castonguay in Quebec.

The increase in the old age guaranteed income supplement (GIS) is unexceptional and socially desirable during a period of serious inflation. The decision not to proceed with the final agreed increase in the price of crude oil at the end of the year merely postpones the inevitable in economic terms and stirs up trouble with the producing provinces politically. One of the disturbing aspects of this operation has been the lack of consultation with the provinces on actions that affect them.

The prime minister has invited the premiers, through a telexed message, to consult with the federal government over aspects of these changes that affect them. He says Ottawa is anxious "not to amend unilaterally existing contractual or legal commitments." That is strange phraseology because if it means anything it must mean that, whatever its preferences, the federal government would if necessary make unilateral amendments to contractual or legal commitments. That is a strange view of contracts to suggest even by implication.

The real question that arises as this phase of government activity goes on is the likely public response to it. There will certainly be some favorable reaction to the general approach of trimming government spending although, given the total, the effect is marginal. Whether that will offset the demonstration that this government lacks coherenace in its approaches to spending and economic problems is a matter of much greater doubt.

And Next Week . . .

When a government goes into reverse it is necessarily admitting that the thrust of its past actions and policies was unwise. This might not matter if, in 1978, the country had suddenly been overwhelmed by an unpredictable state of acute economic difficulty but that is not the case. The problems with which we are grappling have been with us for years now. Even when the approaches now undergoing panic surgery were adopted earlier in this decade it was apparent that economic conditions had changed greatly from those of the 1960s and had become uncertain.

Is it really possible for a government 10 years in power to bury most of its record under a series of sudden changes when a critical election becomes imminent? Evidently Trudeau and his advisers think it is, which implies a rather unflattering view of public perceptions. If the public will swallow that then it can certainly get some large lumps down its collective gullet without gagging. In a situation that so clearly demands a change of government in the national interest the weakness of the Conservatives and their leader is deplorable.

The cabinet is giving government the appearance of a soap opera. Don't miss next week's thrilling installment. Will Bob Andras abolish the unemployed? Will Jean Chretien regain control of economic policy? Don't miss it.

Shocking Program

I am a Canadian citizen by naturalization. I am proud of our (Canadian) belief in multiculturism. People are different, so social systems are different. National problems are different. Being so different, still how human beings can live harmoniously together, that is the aim of civilized society.

I was shocked to see the half hour program called Insight on Cable 10 on Aug. 4. I was also surprised to see the letter written by Tony McGregor in the Times recently (Racist Society).

Tony remarked on television that immigration from India should not be encouraged. In support of his comment he goes on bragging about discrimination against Harijans in India.

I fail to understand how the Indian social system is going to affect us here in Canada and why immigration policy has to be discriminatory for that. Any intelligent person will understand how nonsensical a statement is which urges discrimination to protest the same in another country.

The Indian problem of the caste system is nothing new and Indian leaders like Mahatma Gandhi and social reformers like Ram Mohan Roy worked hard to put it right. As Mr. Pranab Bhattacharjee has already mentioned in his letter, Indians recognize the fact and they are trying to abolish it. They have proceeded quite far in achieving the goal. Now they have a cabinet minister and high officers who belong to the said caste. I wonder why Tony tries to talk only about one aspect of the system, completely suppressing the other aspect of it. Though he mentioned that high ethical standard of Canadian journalism does not call for suppressing information, he himself is doing it. Needless to say, he does no qualify for that high standard.

I am quite disturbed to see Tony's motto of gaining publicity at a high cost of racial hatred and discrimination. This is deplorable. We have enough problems to solve, he does not have to add fuel to the fire. — Mrs. Kalpana Roy, 3400 Aldridge Street.

Sell the CBC

In regard to the proposed CBC television station for Victoria, we suggest that the premises already being built on Blanshard Street in Victoria be completed, after which it could be sold at cost to private industry for office space. Failing this, perhaps these premises could be offered to an already existing local radio or televison station.

Reasons for this suggestion, and possible solutions, are as follows:

Recent cuts in CBC spending.

This area (Greater Victoria and the lower mainland) is already well covered by CBC.

Selling the building at cost would make total reimbursement possible to the CBC for money already spent. Further, selling at cost would make the purchase of this building more within the financial reach of other interested parties in the private field.

Elimination of another station in this area would release the funds budgeted for the upkeep, salaries, etc. of this proposed station.

This saved money could be directed instead to the far north, where more, or better radio-TV coverage is essential — Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cree, 10774 Derrick Road, Sidney.

They Want Radar

I have just been informed that the board of directors of the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers' Association, meeting in Newfoundland earlier this year, approved a policy recommendation urging that radar coverage be available at all control towers on airports rated A1-2 or above where there is a published instrument flight rules approach. This recommendation has been forwarded to the director-general of civil aeronautics, Department of Transport, Ottawa.

Victoria International Airport is rated A1-2. — Donald W. Munro, MP, Esquimalt-Saanich.

Station Papa

The decision of the federal government to terminate ocean weather station Papa by withdrawing the two weather ships, Vancouver and Quadra in 1979 is premature. Papa is located about 1,500 kilometres due west of Vancouver Island in an area notorious for some of the most severe storms in the northern hemisphere.

This decision would be justified if advances in satellite technology had rendered ocean weather stations obsolete. The fact is that weather satellites cannot sound the atmosphere down through the clouds below, and this places a severe limitation on their usefulness. On the other hand, Station Papa can and does provide twice daily soundings to a height of 40 kilometres irrespective of prevailing cloudiness. These soundings of temperature, pressure, humidity, and wind velocity are needed for the diagnosis of weather systems, an essential step in the prediction process.

This view is shared by all the national weather services, (including Canada and the U.S.), which have a responsibility for providing weather forecasts for the high seas and coastal waters. It is significant that the west European countries continue to maintain their weather stations on the Atlantic Ocean.

Termination of Papa will result in diminished accuracy of forecasts of wind, wave and weather for the northeast Pacific Ocean and coastal waters. As for British Columbia, weather prediction is difficult most of the time, and the task will not be made any easier by removal of the only atmospheric sounding station in the entire northeast Pacific Ocean.

Canada should continue to maintain Station Papa until such time as an alternative system, (using buoy and satellite technology), can be designed and put in its place. Such a system does not exist today but probably could be developed within the next five years.

British Columbians, particularly those engaged in or connected with weather-sensitive occupations, (fishing, aviation, shipping, search-and-rescue, etc.), should consider the implications of the federal governent decision to withdraw the weather ships in 1979. — John L. Knox, 6188 Marguerite Street, Vancouver.

No Publicity

My wife and I have recently returned from a delightful four-day visit in your city, our third in the past several years. We enjoyed delightful weather, fine accommodations, excellent cuisine, and the charm and hospitality of your city was again most enjoyable.

This letter is motivated by our discovery on this trip of your most outstanding and delightful McPherson playhouse and Four Seasons musical theatre presentation of several Gilbert and Sullivan operettas. We were able to see all productions and found them beautifully done with superb direction, delightful production and wonderful casting. Peter Mannering is to be particularly complimented for his most appropriate abridgment of the original production and the entire cast receives our thanks for two delightful evenings of theatre entertainment.

I must, however, raise this point of criticism. We happened on this production practically by chance. Publicity for this presentation was non-existent at our hotel and we saw no advertising in public places in reference to either the McPherson theatre or the scheduled events. With a group of this quality and an excellent facility as the McPherson Theatre, I should think that the city would provide and encourage considerable publicity for this entertainment. Most of your visitors pass through without taking advantage of this outstanding function. — Fred H. Helpenstell, Nampa, Idaho.

Gosley Replies

Ordinarily I wouldn't think of replying to Kevin Bruce's letter to the editor (Aug. 23) regarding the unprofessional conduct of two Camosun College theatre students, but it contains untrue statements detrimental to my character.

The terms of the Youth Employment Program grant, which I was delighted to pass on to them ($2,100 compared to $1,000 they had agreed upon) specifically stated that in no way were they allowed to take on another job or earn money in addition to the grant. This was brought to their notice in no uncertan terms and can be verified by the other members of the Smile Show company.

Had I met their demands these inexperienced young students would have been paid much more than most of the principals.

Kevin Bruce omitted to mention that three days before he issued his unprofessional threat to resign with an hour's warning, he had been given two weeks notice to leave the company. — Jerry Gosley, Smile Show, Empress Hotel.

On the East Coast

There may be good news for the west coast salmon trollers after all! Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc is working very hard for the enhancement of east coast fisheries. If he can run the west coast trollers out of business fast enough (down with free enterprise, by all means), perhaps they can join in the same economic program. — Noreen Teague, 1165 Cloake Hill Road, Sidney.

The Holistic Health Crusade

By RICHARD SALTUS

LOS ANGELES — A diverse band of crusaders from California is descending on the U.S., flying the banner of holistic health and dedicated to treating the mind and spirit as well as the diseased body. Their weapons against sickness are as new as biofeedback and as old as herb potions, as prosaic as massage and as occult as spiritual healing.

But there are reservations about the holistic movement. Critics point to its highly commercialized aspects and to the lack of state guidelines for certification, no licensing for practitioners of holistic health, no medical degree needed although they purport to treat ill people.

The holistic approach is a rebellion from what some consider the "hard" methods: surgery, powerful drugs, costly therapy. Holists advocate a softer approach. They preach individual salvation.

In his book Mind as Healer, Mind as Slayer psychologist Kenneth Pelletier says of current health care: "People have been killing themselves by failing to alter self-destructive habits."

A patient's whole life is to be considered, some holists preach. Thus, at a typical comprehensive holistic health centre, a patient — called a participant or partner — might consult a psychologist, diet adviser, social worker, physical therapist . . . and a doctor.

Treatment might be biofeedback, self-hypnosis, acupuncture, massage, nutritional counselling or body movement sessions.

But if the illness is acute, some holists throw holism out the window. "If I'm run over by a truck, don't stick needles in me or tell me to meditate," says David Bresler, head of the holistically oriented Pain Control Unit of the University of California at Los Angeles. "Get me to an emergency room."

Holism doesn't yet have the approval of health care insurers or government insurance programs, but it's beginning to find support in important places. Dr. James Gordon, a psychiatrist with the National Institute of Mental Health, says: "We're at a crisis point in our medical care. So many people have chronic diseases and treatment is so expensive. We've reached the stage where we've dealt with the most obvious diseases but have come up against those that seem to be resisting. People are looking elsewhere and they're getting relief."

But are they? Holists cite examples of cancer cases cured by visualization, in which the patient imagines his body beating away the disease, or an illness overcome by diet, but not many of the techniques have satisfied scientists.

On the other hand, says Rick Carlson, a consultant on holistic matters to several government agencies, critics "are finessing the fact that very little of what physicians do now has ever been tested" in stringent trials, "and if tested would prove inefficacious."

Some of the best results on the holistic front are reported in the treatment of chronic pain. UCLA's Bresler says patients who have failed to get relief for low-back pain with conventional treatment "get longer lasting, more effective relief with an average of 10 or 11 acupuncture treatments, enrolment in a self-control class where they learn self-hypnosis, guided imagery, relaxation or nutritional therapy."

He says that costs $600 compared with $8,000 to $10,000 a year patients might have to spend, or did spend, on hospital treatment, traction, drugs or surgery.

Those crusaders with a sense of the realities of the health care system are calling for studies to verify holistic methods, mindful that unless insurance companies and the government back the movement it will remain a luxury for the affluent.

Seminars or workshops in rustic retreats, costing several hundred dollars, are frequently advertised. One flyer advertised the "Voyage of a Lifetime" — a 14-day cruise to Greece, Egypt and Israel; an "adventure in psycho-anthropology and consciousness" to "experience new dimensions of knowledge and self-development while visiting the great cultural and spiritual energy centres of the world." Price not listed.

'Treating the mind and spirit'

Dr. Marc Lappe of the California state health department, though an advocate of holistic treatment, testified at a recent hearing that "holistic health today, I believe, is mostly designed to aid the affluent few who already enjoy good health rather than to provide remedial treatment for those afflicted by stress-related illnesses," such as poor people who may be more prone to hypertension, heart disease and cancer because of their environment.

Leslie Kasloff, author of a forthcoming directory of holistic services, estimates there are 100 to 500 centres and clinics specializing in holistic health and 5,000 to 10,000 practitioners who do at least some holistic work.

California, land of new movements and preoccupation with health, leads the way, and the San Francisco area has the densest accumulation of holistic centres.

Lappe notes that holistic medicine is a "stepchild of the ecology movement," attracting a homogeneous group of practitioners. "Some have traditional medical degrees, some are osteopaths, some are chiropractors. They share a homeopathic approach to medicine."

The American Medical Association has taken no official position on holism, although Dr. George Mixter, who answers public inquiries for the AMA, said: "It's like motherhood: we're for it, but what are you going to do about it?"

He says trying to understand a patient's lifestyle in an effort to ward off future disease may be the ideal approach to medicine, but a doctor's time is limited and "the results you get are so remote they're awfully hard to evaluate."

After The Los Angeles Times ran a long article on holism, the newspaper received a letter from Dr. Samuel Bessman, chairman of the department of pharmacology and nutrition at the University of Southern California.

"Holistic medicine is nonmedicine that tends to delay the patient in seeking proper help and feeds off psychological problems," Bessman wrote. "Judging from the financial success of its practitioners, it feeds well."

Bessman blamed the holistics for soothing pain without treating the cause, and he said: "The mystical emphasis on the mind as controller of the chemistry, growth and repair of tissues and organs has its basis in no objective fact."

The last statement sharply conflicts with views of many researchers — not just holists — that much illness is psychosomatic, that is, it involves the mind as well as the body.

A large part of the holistic movement is devoted to finding ways to reduce unhealthy stress. (Some stress is not harmful and in fact necessary for health, researchers say.)

The techniques are various forms of relaxation, often aided by biofeedback, and rearranging of one's life to avoid situations that cause adrenalin to flow and blood pressure to rise.

Dr. Norman Shealy, a Wisconsin neurosurgeon, has converted to the holistic way, but he says he's concerned about the rush of unorthodox practitioners to get in the holistic parade.

"If we don't do something to organize ourselves, it will die as it gets flakier and flakier."

'We Correct Our Own Mistakes'

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — There's a whiff of the Eastern Bloc in the most recent antics of the Trudeau government. No, I do not see Trudeau as a communist or even a cryptocommunist, nor even that very mild form of socialist, a New Democrat in Liberal clothing.

A characteristic familiar to me from visits to the USSR, China and East Germany is known there as "self-criticism." That is, there is no need for other political parties or an opposition, legitimate and functioning openly, because the party and government (they're interchangeable) has the means and the never-ending intention of criticizing itself. In other words, the party-government is a national self-correcting organization.

This is exactly the kind of exercise launched in early August by Trudeau with his surprising TV manifesto.

Do most of us like a reformed sinner? Will we trust even more masters who reveal they have been extravagant or wrong?

Until this remarkable volte-face of Trudeau, given items and dollars and man-years (to be cut) by Robert Andras, it was fair to say the Trudeau government merely seemed aware of mounting antagonism to Ottawa as Fat City.

Its key men knew the public's faith in government programs had eroded. But other than the awareness and some repeated assurances that something was being done to combat waste and extravagance (e.g. the "Paper Burden" gambit) the main argument of this government for a deserved renewal in the election we've been awaiting was on the grounds of national unity. There was also the obvious incompetence of the opposition leadership. Put another way, compared with Pierre Trudeau, Joe Clark as prime minister is a joke. But mainly, the theme has been: Only the Liberal Party can save Canada by saving Confederation in Quebec.

Now the Liberals have added the ultimate argument, so popular in communist countries: We correct our own mistakes.

There are several heavy, concrete examples of self-correction in the Andras list of cuts. I use adjectives like "heavy" and "concrete" deliberately because I detect a jaded skepticism among reporters over the cuts. Somehow they are seen as mere cosmetics put on for the moment.

The sceptics should look at the discontinuance of the "bilingualism bonus" for public servants (worth $35 million) and the $12.5 million cutback in language training for federal officials. These programs have been at the heart of Trudeauism. He has put forward no bigger issue and advanced none with more determination backed by dollars than bilingualism, especially in the public service.

TRUDEAU
. . . reformed sinner?

This is an open retreat down from the lofty heights of the bilingualism summit we had to attain, we were told for over a decade, in order to keep the country.

If this specific example of self-correction doesn't impress you, doesn't the Andras undertaking that 5,000 jobs (no mean figure) shall be eliminated from the public service?

After all, this is a government dedicated over the past five years in budget after budget, ministerial speech after speech, to creating more jobs and tackling unemployment. Now in one swift promise, 5,000 jobs are to be eliminated.

The day after Andras gave the details to what I hear was a gloomy but essentially passive cabinet, I asked one of the insiders if the drama since Trudeau suddenly demanded TV time didn't reflect panic. He is one of the score or so who really knows what has gone into the volte-face.

I conclude with the gist of his assessment:

There's nothing of panic in it. It's been coolly calculated almost entirely by advisers close to Trudeau, certainly not by ministers or deputy-ministers. The calculations were crafty, to the extent that the ministers as a body and as individuals, and all the cabinet sub-committees, were either by-passed or ignored.

Somewhere in the top cadre a conclusion was reached three weeks ago that the country basically wanted harsh measures. If the government and the advisers were to survive, then an abrupt, dictated program had to be put in place.

As my informant put it: "Many of the ministers are cynical. They think it's hokum. Some whom you might expect to protest salve their consciences by concentrating on how best to protect their departments from the cuts; and by the consolation that this is a means to re-election. Once back in power, normalcy will return."

The Kitchen Revolution

THE ECONOMIST

PARIS — Steak with strawberries is certainly original, but who would want to eat it? France's new chefs are working so hard to outdo each other in the quest for stardom that they are beginning to spoil the reputation of what food connoisseurs call "la nouvelle cuisine francaise". The five-year-old revolution in French cooking is getting past its peak.

The new cuisine is the first strong reaction against classical French cuisine, which has lasted virtually unchanged for 150 years, inflating French stomachs and fattening the fancies of foreign culinary snobs. The classic art is heavy, complicated and overlaid with majestic sauces. The new style, by contrast, features light dishes, often barely cooked, with the accent on high-quality fresh produce and the chef's flair for discovering new combinations.

Traditional French dishes such as coq au vin rely on recipes dating from before 1850. Coaching-inns apart, France's first restaurants appeared after the 1789 revolution, when cooks formerly employed by the nobility were thrown out of their jobs. By 1850, as the French middle class found its feet, the restaurant trade was flourishing. It still is, supported by a food-conscious culture which today keeps half a dozen major national food guides going, led by the omniscient Michelin guide.

Enormous special-occasion meals, lasting five or six hours, used to be regarded as an essential ritual by Frenchmen until after the Second World War. It was concern for their health, particularly by people living in towns, that led to the flight from gluttony and prompted modern culinary kings such as Paul Bocuse, Michel Guerard and Alain Chapel to experiment with much lighter, though not less tasty, fare. Five years ago their campaign was dubbed "nouvelle cuisine francaise" by the authors of the Gault-Millau food guide (Henri Gault now says "free cooking" would be more appropriate, but the first term has stuck).

But lightness and simplicity are expensive. Without the camouflage provided by the heavy sauces of traditional cooking, the new breed of chefs must use flawless produce. They also seek out rare and costly foods such as truffles, foie gras and lobster to achieve distinctive tastes. It is the hunt for new tastes that has brought problems.

"Young cooks striving for instant fame are doing horrible things in the name of the new cuisine, like serving raw sweetbreads, churning vegetables into bizarre mixtures, or putting steak with strawberries," says Mr. Gault. Some chefs seeking a short cut to celebrity are now blitzing customers with a string of tiny three-mouthful dishes in fast succession, borrowing from oriental cuisine. This permits restaurants to charge more.

Gilbert Le Coze, the innovative chef at the Bernardin fish restaurant near Notre Dame, thinks the new cuisine will last another five or six years. In his view, all chefs who practise it are becoming stars, and stars fade. Still, he bows to the freshness craze by driving to the Paris wholesale market at suburban Rungis at 2 a.m. every morning, after a night at the oven, to spend several hours carefully selecting his fish.

Alain Sanderens at the Archestrate restaurant on Paris' left bank, where you can eat lightly for a minimum of 300 francs ($70), says he aims to uncover the deepest secrets of human digestion without losing sight of his main goal: to please the palate. Paul Bocuse has public relations agents in New York and Tokyo. An aggressive young cook can hire a press attache to gain in one year the sort of fame that old-time chefs used to take 20 years to achieve. All this is bound to make a heavy impact on the size of the customer's bill. With wine, the lone eater will find it impossible to sample the new cooking for less than 150 francs. Usually he will pay more.

Of the elite band of two- and three-star restaurants in the Michelin guide, three quarters now practise the new cuisine. But of the total of all eating places in France probably no more than one per cent have joined the kitchen revolution (though many more like to assure customers that they have). The expense is just too heavy. Yet the new cuisine has probably had one enduring effect: Frenchmen are unlikely to go back to those gargantuan meals of the past.

100,000 Jobs in Bush?

VANCOUVER (CP) — RCMP and immigration authorities are investigating a scheme which attempted to obtain funds from Indian citizens aspiring to immigrate to Canada.

Immigration spokesman Murray Perry says the scheme, which affected several thousand potential immigrants and operated from Ottawa, involved advertisements in Indian newspapers offering "100,000 bush jobs available in Canada."

The ads, which appeared in Hindi and Urdu language publications and were brought to the attention of immigration authorities here by local East Indians, asked applicants seeking further information to send 50 rupees, equivalent to about $7 Canadian, Perry said.

He said the ads were traced to an Ottawa post box number.

Post office officials have collected several thousand registered letters since late July when the box was first sealed off.

Perry said the scheme was designed to lure potential immigrants into believing it would be easier to get into Canada with such a bush job.

"The rule strictly says nobody comes to Canada without a bona fide job letter. And you as well as I know 100,000 bush jobs don't exist here."

RCMP Insp. Lloyd La Rose in Ottawa confirmed that the investigation is underway, but refused to release further details.

No charges have been laid.

TORONTO HOTELS JAMMED

TORONTO (CP) — Visitors planning trips to Metropolitan Toronto in the near future should book accomodation soon, says a spokesman for the city's tourist and convention bureau.

A weekend survey of eight downtown hotels showed only about 12 rooms available and hotel managers expected them to be taken soon.

Port Row Threat To Reputation?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Years of effort to improve the Port of Vancouver's reputation in world shipping circles could be wiped out by the latest labor problems on the waterfront, a shipping industry executive said today.

R. G. Payne, general manager of Empire Stevedoring Co., which operates the Vanterm container facility, said the walkout Friday by 136 National Harbors Board employees in a contract dispute has already resulted in loss of business to Seattle.

He said ships originally bound here are being diverted to the Washington port, which is one of the city's major competitors.

Four years ago, Vancouver had a reputation for work stoppages and wildcat strikes which lost the port many customers, Payne said.

"We've worked very hard in the past four years to show customers that they should use the port," he said. "Now this strike has shown the tiger hasn't really lost his stripes."

The striking employees, members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, local 517, include clerical workers, who handle paperwork relating to customs clearance, and maintenance workers on port installations.

The port's 1,000 longshoremen are not involved in the dispute but their jobs will likely be affected if the strike lasts.

COUP FAILED

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — The chief of staff of Afghanistan's army has been arrested for attempting to overthrow the country's new government, Radio Kabul announced. Maj. CARR ART CAN'T LURE POLITICIANS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Art Gallery is trying to gain funding for restoration and repair work to its Emily Carr collection, but chances of government support look unlikely, considering the number of political no-shows Sunday.

Premier Bill Bennett, Tourism Minister Grace McCarthy and Mayor Jack Volrich had been invited to look at the collection, but none of them showed up.

The gallery has 172 works by Carr, the largest collection in Canada. A gallery spokesman said about 60 of them need repair work.

Despite the lack of political support, the gallery reports that its fund-raising "Carrwash" Sunday was a success.

Probe Set On Waves

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP) — The solicitor-general of Canada has authorized an investigation into reports of high levels of low-frequency radio waves in the Kirkland Lake area.

In a recent letter to Mayor Tom Boland, Jean-Jacques Blais said he was extremely concerned about the reports and that a summary of the investigation will be sent to the mayor.

Dr. Harry Asseimhein of the National Research Council in Ottawa has said the area is being bombarded with high levels of electro-magnetic pollution.

Andrew Michrouski, an amateur communications enthusiast with the secretary of state department, has said the radio waves are coming from the Soviet Union and are affecting the health of local residents.

Mental Health Joins Funding Cut Outcry

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA) will band together with other voluntary service organizations to protest if the federal government tries to cut off their funding, according to George Rohn, general director of the association.

An end to federal funding would be of great concern to the association because "it is saying that the government is beginning to speculate that the use of volunteer organizations is simply not a good investment," he said.

Medical sociologists Mort Warner of the University of British Columbia and Angus Reid of the University of Manitoba earlier quoted civil service sources as saying budget cuts in the department of national health and welfare will mean the CMHA and other volunteer agencies will lose all federal funding.

Rohn said the loss of funding would mean the government is trying to save money on the backs of the helpless people that organizations like the CHMA are trying to help.

"It will simply shift the responsibility to the provinces," he said. "Eventually someone's tax money will have to be used."

Rohn said the government would lose more than it gained by cutting off the funding.

Flasher Riles Marchers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Costumed, painted feminists out to demonstrate female strength and solidarity ran into male flashers, male policeman and male news crews during a two-hour march through the city.

One man following the Friday night demonstration pulled down his pants for the women's benefit. A woman threw a stick at the man's head, then tossed her flaming torch at him.

Only the intervention of a policeman prevented violence. Patrol cars followed the 120 protesters the whole way.

In another incident, police tried to get names and addresses of two women who spray-painted apartment blocks with anti-rape slogans.

They gave up, however, after the women closed in, linking arms, badgering the police and chanting: "If one goes (to jail), all of us go."

The frustrated police finally drove off in a car covered with pamphlets distributed by the women and sporting a wreath on the hood.

The group included members of several women's organizations in the city.

However, what was supposed to be a quiet wind-up party turned into a shrill-voiced frenzy as the women, literally stomped the mannequin to shreds.

Bazowski Making Gains

VANCOUVER (CP) — Peter Bazowski, the provincial government-appointed administrator at Vancouver General Hospital, has only been on the job for two weeks, but already there are signs of dramatic change at Canada's largest hospital.

Bazowski has negotiated the return of three clinical directors of nursing fired in June and talked with the dozen senior nurses who had subsequently resigned. One has already returned.

At the same time, Bazowski does not appear to have given in to all the nurses' demands.

Late last week, he told Bonnie Lantz, former surgical nursing director, who has said she was forced to resign in April, that he will not consider reinstating her until a lawsuit she filed for wrongful dismissal is settled.

Bazowski has not removed hospital president Larry Truitt. The Registered Nurses Association of British Columbia has been demanding Truitt's firing for nearly three months.

This week, Bazowski plans to take up the Medicus report, which recommends hiring 181 more nurses to relieve staff shortages. That will require $3 million from the provincial government.

"People are hopeful," said hospital surgeon Graham Clay. "They're still anxious, but they're hopeful and they're appreciative of the fact that Bazowski came in with what seems to be a very open and appreciative mind."

WEED DETECTS RADIATION

VANCOUVER (CP) — A common weed, the spiderwort, is a foolproof indicator of dangerous levels of radiation and has stalled nuclear development in his country, according to a Japanese radiation and genetics expert.

The tiny flowers of the spiderwort, which normally are blue, change to pink in the presence of radiation, according to Dr. Sadao Ichikawa, who is touring North America to explain he method of using the plant as a radiation indicator.

The phenomenon of the spiderwort, native to North America, was discovered in the 1960s by a New York research team.

Wilderness School Bridges Culture Gap

VANCOUVER (CP) — An innovative wilderness learning program designed to bridge the gap between native Indian and white cultures will begin in September, according to Ed Nicholson, special services co-ordinator for the Sechelt school district.

Nicholson said the Sechelt Native Environmental Studies program, sponsored by the Sechelt Indian band and School District 46, will begin operation at a remote site on Jervis Inlet about 90 kilometres north of here.

Twenty students from three Sunshine Coast secondary schools will spend the fall and winter semester at the NES facility at Deserted Bay.

The students were selected by a committee from 63 applicants presently enrolled in grades 9, 10 and 11.

A basic program will be offered, with some electives available, including a course in native Sechelt Indian dialect.

The students enrolled in each semester will return to their original school upon completion of the program.

The staff will include two teachers, a teacher aide-boat operator, a cook and a caretaker.

Facilities on the site include two 12-bed dormitories, a staff cabin, a caretakers' cabin, a combination kitchen-dining room and a portable classroom.

Funds totalling about $500,000 have been obtained from the Indian affairs department, Manpower, the provincial ministry of education, the secretary of state, the Sechelt band and the school district.

The program will operate from Monday morning to Friday noon, with both staff and students returning home each weekend.

No Air Canada flights were coming into the airport.

Steeves said the PWA flights are expected to be quite heavy and all employees will be kept on the job to handle the load, for the time being at least.

He added, though, "there will be a gradual number of people placed on non-operational status if the dispute continues."

A union spokesman said the Victoria situation is unique because of the contract with PWA. He had no comment when asked if any job action was planned here.

Today's negotiating meeting was arranged as federal Labor Minister John Munro came under fire for remarks that the IAM was divided within its ranks over French-English language problems.

In a weekend television broadcast Munro said the IAM negotiating committee had lost control of its membership because the Montreal local resented the preponderance of English-speaking representatives on the IAM negotiating committee.

"Rubbish!" said Shaw.

"He's all wet," said Rheal Vaillancourt, president of the union's Montreal local, where more than half of the total IAM membership is based.

Munro's remarks were "really ill timed," Vaillancourt said. "I don't know where he gets his information. But it is definitely not true at all.

"We have no racial or language problems now."

In addition to having their travel plans thrown in disarray, Air Canada customers for further bad news today when the airline announced it would not pay the difference in cost for its passengers forced to pay more expensive fares on other airlines to continue their journeys.

The government-owned airline said it cannot afford to pay the fare differences resulting from its shutdown.

Spokesman said Air Canada will refund 50 per cent of the ticket cost for passengers who have used only half of a return ticket.

The impact of the decision will be felt by those who purchased charter-class fares on Air Canada, the spokesman said.

These fares, which must be booked 30 days in advance, are much lower than regular fares. Most passengers in North America will be forced to pay regular fares to return home, he said.

"I'M NOT DEAF"
"I just don't understand some words or what some people say."

Seniors Live It Up, on Air

By CAROL SPELLER
Times Staff

CBers, move over.

The South Vancouver Island Senior Citizens Amateur Radio Group is here.

And these radio hams can out-monitor you young upstarts with the flip of a frequency switch.

"We want to make a more active and pleasurable life by creating an interest — so one has a place in life," says president Rupert Grant.

"Some people lose hope when they retire."

The group has only 14 members south of Nanaimo and on Salt Spring and Pender islands, but Grant says membership could reach 300.

They applied for a federal grant through the New Horizons program in March and last week got the good news — $18,781 worth.

To be eligible for the grant they needed 10 members, all over 65 years of age and out of the work force. They had to prove they would be of use to senior citizens and must report to Ottawa every six months.

The seniors' radio group provides a backup operation for the Provincial Emergency Program, which endorsed their request for the grant.

They also teach at the Canadian Institute for the Blind, would like to help the handicapped and give lectures on amateur radio, satellites and how televisions work.

"We enjoy our hobby and that's it," Grant says.

About 80 per cent of the money will be spent on equipment and establishing their own repeater station on Mt. McDonald near Goldstream.

They have been using the forestry department's station.

The group would also like to buy receivers for members when they're in hospital.

They handled communication for the Royal Victoria Yacht Club's Swiftsure race, the Totem Bonspiel and "a number of those kind of things."

Grant is a retired electronics sales manager and engineer and says having a hobby keeps him younger.

He is also vice-president of the Victoria Short Wave Radio Club, local director of the Quarter Century Wireless Association, and a memeber of the Victoria Repeater Group.

"People ask me, 'well, what do you do all day?'

"And I don't have enough time to do everything."

A federal test is required for a licence and it must be renewed every year.

The average age of members is 70 and most of them have spent 30 to 50 years in amateur radio.

Grant has chalked up 43 years and said there was a time when "we operators had to build our own equipment."

He has had visitors from Dallas, Texas following a radio conversation and has made friends around the world through his radio.

Grant doesn't like the word 'ham' because he says it implies amateurism.

And after 43 years in the business, we can't blame him.

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

Figures released by Statistics Canada showing spiralling increases in July food prices clash with a provincial survey that found supermarket prices that month actually dropped 1.24 per cent.

Ministry of agriculture marketing information unit official Wendy Levert told the Times that in some cases StatsCan just blew the figures in its mid-August announcement and in other instances used figures so old the whole situation had changed by the time the report was made public.

On Aug. 15 StatsCan made headlines across the country when it released figures showing a 17.8 per cent jump in the price of fresh fruit and vegetables in July was largely responsible for the fastest growth rate in consumer prices since 1975.

StatsCan said the July increase was largely due to the replacement of depleting domestic supplies of apples and potatoes by higher-priced imports.

Beef prices jumped by 3.9 per cent, the federal agency reported.

Levert said she is getting out a ministry publication showing local food prices dropped by 1.24 per cent in July when the StatsCan information was published.

She said her first thought was that she had blown all her research until she analysed the the two widely different sets of figures.

First, StatsCan bases its figures on a country-wide survey, while the market information unit studies supermarket prices in Vancouver only, and B.C. has a better domestic supply of fruits and vegetables than most provinces.

But more important, the federal agency undertakes its monthly survey in the first week of the month and doesn't release those figures until the middle of the following month. Hence the StatsCan analysis of July food prices, released Aug. 15, was based on a survey in the first week of July.

Levert could offer no explanation why StatsCan would suggest depleting supplies of apples and potatoes took place in July.

Local vegetables, including new B.C. potatoes, started coming on-stream in mid-July and were accompanied by a marked drop in price. Local apples hadn't even reached supermarket shelves in July since the B.C. harvest doesn't really start until September, she said.

Timing was again the factor in the reported increase in beef prices.

Prices were high at the beginning of the month, but began falling so that from June 28 to July 26, the price of beef declined 5.62 per cent.

But the high early-July figures were already in the StatsCan computer leading to the erroneous report of a 3.9 per cent increase for the month.

(The marketing information unit figures are backed by Calgary livestock figures, the prices released by the Canadian Cattlemen's Association and a separate survey undertaken by the Anti-Inflation Board. All showed a July drop.)

Levert is responsible for publishing a new monthly report analysing retail food prices in B.C. The publication is based on up-to-date food prices and is to be made readily available to the public.

The first one was released late last week.

North Island Rescue Boat Needs Studied

Capt. Jack Ickringill, coast guard rescue officer in Vancouver, said today the need for search and rescue facilities in the Campbell River area is under review.

Meanwhile, Bob Somerville, coast guard volunteer rescue agent at Campbell River, has written to Transport Minister Otto Lang and Defence Minister Barney Danson urging action be taken soon.

Since mid-June the 38-foot rescue vessel Relite has been based in Campbell River as a search and rescue vessel but is due to leave there in October.

Somerville says the Relite has already carried out 100 rescues since she arrived at the up-Island centre. "This is more than the Bamfield coast guard station; it is more than the 95-foot coast guard cutter Ready," Somerville tells the ministers.

In his 23-foot craft Christina Somerville says he carried out more than 30 rescues before June and estimates there will be a total of 200 before the year ends.

In meticulous detail, Somerville outlines the type of vessel — between 65 to 68 feet — needed for his area and the equipment that should be supplied.

He suggests the vessel should be moored at CFB Comox and the base's station should be required to monitor Citizens Band radio when the vessel's crew is not aboard and monitoring.

"I am taking the time and trouble to outline the requirements of a coast guard station and vessel for our area and, on behalf of the mariners in these waters, demand its immediate construction before we lose any more lives," Somerville says, adding that since 1966 the total of deaths by drowning has reached 101.

Railway Buffs Meet Sunday

The National Railway Historical Society's 38th annual convention will visit Victoria on Sunday as part of its Labor Day weekend festivites.

More than 300 railroad enthusiasts will attend the international event titled Inter Rail '78.

The visitors will tour Victoria, the B.C. Forestry Museum near Duncan, Vancouver, Portland, Dalles and Cottage Grove, Seattle and Pemberton.

Garden Shed Catches Fire

A fire early Sunday morning caused an estimated $4,500 damage to a shed at 3160 Weald Rd.

A passer-by noticed the fire about 1:10 a.m. and roused owner Dr. Robert Gale.

Sunday afternoon, two juveniles were apprehended after a lumber pile worth about $500 caught fire in The Bay parkade, causing about $200 smoke damage.

BATmobile Makes a Haul

The BATmobile patrolling the Colwood-Sidney-Sooke-Shawnigan area since Wednesday has resulted in 17 persons being charged with impaired driving, four for refusing to take a breathalyzer test, 72 24-hour licence suspensions, four people charged for driving while under suspension and nine for other minor motor vehicle infractions.

ALL GROWTH HURTS: MAYOR

There must be general recognition in Saanich that every major development proposal is bound to have a negative impact on the environment, Mayor Mel Couvelier said today.

The mayor said that is the fundamental point to bear in mind when council decides at a special meeting Wednesday whether to call a public hearing on the Saanich-initiated proposal for an industrial park on Interurban Road.

A planning department report assessing the impact of industry in the area has found 23 reasons why the site is unsuitable for such development, but Couvelier said that was only to be expected.

He said he cannot imagine any major development proposal having a positive impact on the environment.

"There is no doubt in my mind that all the impacts would lean heavily toward the negative.

"Once we accept that fact, we have a choice: either we do nothing (as far as major development is concerned) in Saanich for ever more, or we apply a weighted perspective to the various impacts presented to us.

"There is no other way."

The impact report on the proposed Interurban industrial park is the first such study undertaken in Saanich.

Extra Sailing at Midnight

Traffic was so heavy Sunday that an extra ferry was brought into service for the first time since B.C. Ferries put on a midnight sailing from Tsawwassen to Swartz Bay.

Traffic manager Bill Bouchard said today the traffic surge was caused by a rock concert at the Pacific Coliseum in Vancouver which drew 43,000.

The Queen of Tsawwassen, which normally handles the 12:15 a.m. run, left at 12:42 a.m. carrying 225 passengers, five commercial vehicles, eight overheight vehicles and 97 cars.

The Tsawwassen-based Queen of Saanich was pressed into service to handle the overload. She carried 667 passengers, one bus, two commercial vehicles, five overheight vehicles and 180 cars. She left Tsawwassen at 12:30 a.m.

The 12:15 a.m. run from the Mainland will continue until Sept. 6, after which a final evaluation of the late Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay run will be made.

To accommodate holiday traffic on the Labor Day weekend Bouchard said the Queen of Sidney and the Queen of Tsawwassen will carry out normal Sunday service on the Monday.

This will mean that the Queen of Tsawwassen will leave Swartz Bay at 5:45 p.m., carrying little traffic, to pick up a load at Otter Bay on north Pender Ialand, en route to Tsawwassen.

Bouchard said no extra sailings are planned for the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay runs which are now working at full capacity.

Lottery Digits Are a Gamble

Numerology-minded people may have trouble choosing their favorite combinations in Provincial and Western lottery tickets, but officials do try to give purchasers a variety of prefixes.

Commenting on a complaint from a frustrated ticket-buyer, S.J. Fisher of Victoria, lottery commissioner Jack Stewart said today the Western mixes its numbers between provinces so that no single area is allotted tickets bearing too many similar prefixes.

Fisher said he tried at four or five ticket-selling locations last week to get numbers starting with anything but 45 or 54 prefixes in time for Sunday's draw. He had to settle for 45 or 54 tickets.

Watching the draw on television, he was disturbed to see that the five winning numbers began with 12, 19, 26, 43 and 48 — not a 45 or a 54 among them.

"It is terribly frustrating that no one in Victoria had an opportunity to buy any tickets other than those numbered from 54 or 45," Fisher said. "I was assured that these were the only ones available in Victoria."

Stewart said that may be partially correct as far as the Western is concerned.

If a province requires more tickets beyond its initially well-mixed allotment, he said, then a block of consecutive numbers with the same prefix may be sent out from Ontario for local distribution.

People who buy tickets just before the draw may be getting those numbers. Anyone with a preference for certain numbers has a better choice if he buys early

'OLD BOY' CLUB TO AID GRADS

A career assistance program for University of Victoria students has been started by the UVic Alumni Association.

The alumni association, made up of graduates of the university, the old Victoria Normal School and Victoria College, started the program to help students get the kind of work they're training for.

UVic students may be able to get help from graduates practising in their fields and make contacts in the areas they want to find jobs, according to Margaret Dempsey, the association's program director.

UVic graduates are responding enthusiastically to the program, she says.

The association has already received more than 300 replies from alumni who want to participate.

Responding alumni are filed by profession and degree so that students who want information about a specific field may contact people working in that field and find out how they put their university degrees to work finding jobs.

Volunteer counsellors have stepped forward from every professional field, but most of the people responding are in the teaching profession.

Students who want to use the service should apply in person at the alumni association office in University House or be referred by the campus counselling service.

This Is The Time of Golden Abundance

WE COME NOW TO THE time of year when we don't fish for sport alone. The coho salmon dancing on the end of a long line, and later with luck stowed under a wet sack in our baby-bath fish box, represents so many pint jars of prime winter eating.

At the landing, I clean these canning fish with special care, trimming off head, tail and fins to leave a solid block of good red flesh.

Next morning, Win reduces the salmon to jar-sized sections. To each jar she adds half a teaspoon of salt and a dash of ketchup to enhance the color and flavor. Then on go the screw-down lids, and the jars are ready for the canner.

We made do without a canner for years. When we had fish, fruit or vegetables to put away, we could always borrow one of the big, pressurized pots from an obliging neighbor. But finally we bought a canner of our own . . . a sleek and gleaming aluminum number complete with pressure gauge and safety outlet . . . which sits in state for most of the year on an upper cupboard shelf.

Then comes mid-August, and with it the season of plenty. Perhaps the people of the black-sheep ranch down the road who named their place 'Abundance' had this golden time in mind when they bestowed that lovely name. For abundance is everywhere apparent.

The vegetable gardens have completed their long transition from promise to fulfilment. Even our little patch is now ripening more vegetables than we can keep up with.

This year, by some happy miracle, we grew a profusion of truly noble carrots. Our two short rows of potatoes rewarded us beyond our hopes, with large, smooth-skinned tubers. We have been harvesting masses of green bush beans and sheafs of scarlet runners long in the pod.

The kohl rabi, a useful vegetable that tastes like a mild turnip but which resists the maggot more effectively than any turnip, stands on its leafy stalks like a row of baseballs.

Confronted by such a profusion of good things, the countryman's instinct to squirrel away for darker days runs strong.

It is also a time of gift-giving. Abundance can become too much of a good thing. It may then be necessary to work off some of your excess of riches on your friends.

Your tomato vines are burdened with field-ripened tomatoes far beyond your capacity to use them? There's always someone up or down the line who will welcome, or at least give house-room, to your surplus.

The same for zuccini squash, a vegetable for which I entertain a deep-rooted hatred. I groan when some good-doing neighbor turns into the access road with one of these vastly overgrown cucurbits tucked under an arm.

All this makes work for the canner, and also for the freezer, that invaluable catch-all into which goes so much of our garden plunder. Which reminds me: It's high time we were dropping down to a farm in the lush Comox, where each year we buy a sack of corn to lay away blanched and frozen in the freezer.

Last year, we harvested our own corn. Drove our car bouncing and rocking to the end of a dirt lane that threaded the field, then lost ourselves in corn-rows that stood considerably higher than our heads.

When we break out a couple of cobs to thaw for dinner, I remember that day: the muggy heat between the rows of stalks, the well-ripened ears tipped with their tufts of frizzled silk, and over head always a lane of deep blue sky.

I have just wandered into the kitchen for coffee, only to be shooed away from the stove.

"I'll heat the pot for you," Win said. "You might joggle the canner."

The canner sat royally on a front burner, pregnant with seven jars of red plums from an Island orchard. The shiny dingus that regulates the pressure jingled musically as it did its little war-dance, and I gave it a respectful berth.

Those plums will go well for dessert on some winter night when the golden season is only a memory and a promise of good times returning!

Nov. 6 Vote Date Forecast by Tory

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau will call a federal election for Nov. 6, according to Conservative finance critic Sinclair Stevens.

Stevens, in Winnipeg to address the western regional conference of Young Conservatives, added, however, that any of three developments could cause Trudeau to delay the election until spring.

The MP for the Toronto riding of York-Simcoe said in an interview that unfavorable public reaction to recently-announced federal spending cuts, unsatisfactory opinion poll results, or further declines in the Canadian dollar on international exchange markets could make Trudeau pull back from a fall election.

Trudeau has until July 8, 1979, to call an election, but he must call 16 federal byelections before the end of October.

Stevens said he believes Trudeau will announce the election "within the next week to 10 days," and Nov. 6 — the first Monday in November — is the most likely date for a fall election.

Nov. 13, the second Monday of the month, is an unlikely date because the Ontario municipal elections fall on that date.

He predicted that the falling Canadian dollar will be taken as "a gauge of how the Liberals have been mismanaging the economy," even though they are trying to claim it as a virtue.

Many economists believe the role of a government's intervention in currency exchanges should be to prevent sharp drops in currency fluctuations, but Stevens said there is no doubt in his mind the Liberals are trying to intervene to keep the dollar from moving lower.

The Bank of Canada has spent hundreds of millions of dollars in recent months to support the Canadian dollar.

Stevens said Canada would need to register a $600 million trade surplus each month for the rest of the year to achieve the $5 billion surplus predicted earlier this year by Industry Minister Jack Horner.

FIRST TANK ARRIVES

HALIFAX (CP) — A single Leopard C-1 battle tank arrived by ship Sunday, the first of 128 Leopard tanks the Canadian Armed Forces has purchased from West Germany.

The tank is destined for Canadian Forces Base Gagetown, N.B.

Two more Leopards are to arrive at dockside in Montreal on Sept. 3, headed for Canadian Forces Base Borden, Ont. Six others will arrive in Halifax in mid-September enroute to the combat training centre at Gagetown.

Brig.-Gen. E. A. C. Amy, commandant of the Royal Canadian Armoured Corps, greeted the first arrival here.

Leak Timing Sours Viau

HALIFAX (CP) — President Jacques Viau of the Canadian Bar Association Sunday criticized the Toronto Globe and Mail for reporting during the recent royal visit that a constitutional report for the association recommended the Queen no longer be head of state in Canada.

"This association and I personally were embarrassed by a leak of the study to a Toronto newspaper," Viau told members of the governing council of the association at their annual meeting here.

"The timing of that leak also caused embarrassment to others and I regret this unfortunate occurrence."

Viau said he had investigated and was satisfied that no member of the committee that produced the report, or anyone working with it, had leaked it.

Viau said it was "in bad taste" for The Globe to run the story beneath a photo of Queen Elizabeth as she visited Canada to open the Commonwealth Games in Edmonton.

His statement came as the association prepared for a floor battle on Wednesday, with tempers already showing.

"I am confident that the lawyers will be objective and will discuss it in a quiet mannner," he said in an interview.

He would not comment on a resolution by Ian W. Outerbridge of Toronto, president of the Ontario section of the association.

The Outerbridge resolution, seconded by Peter Power of Red Deer, said that the "study paper" produced by the constitutional committee has been "misunderstood and misrepresented by some as being a report of the Canadian Bar Association on 133 separate and often contentious issues, which it obviously is not."

As there had been "very grave misunderstandings" about the position of the association with respect to the monarchy, "be it resolved that this association and its members affirm their allegiance to Her Majesty as monarch and head of state."

Clyde K. Wells of Corner Brook, Nfld., a member of the constitutional committee, said its report was obviously a study.

But he said the resolution was a "gross error."

"I don't need Outerbridge or anyone else to tell me I'm loyal to Her Majesty," Wells said in an interview.

Gallery Plans Firm Protest

OTTAWA (CP) — The Parliamentary Press Gallery executive plans a formal protest to Prime Minister Trudeau about arrangements for recent major statements on the economy, according to gallery president Jean-Marc Poliquin.

He said he has informed Trudeau by letter that the gallery executive will meet Monday to frame the protest. There was concern among the 240-member gallery that the timing of recent policy statements suggests news management and a threat to clear accurate reporting.

Poliquin, a Radio-Canada journalist, said a number of complaints followed Finance Minister Chretien's economic statement Thursday night. That was suddenly scheduled for 6 p.m. PDT with no advance media access of the kind normally arranged for important statements such as the budget.

It is known that an advance briefing was arranged for a selected group of representatives of news organizations including the CTV TV network and the Toronto Globe and Mail.

NDP leader Ed Broadbent Friday accused the Liberal government of media manipulation. The Progressive Conservatives said in a statement that three recent major announcements have all occured at night and "while there is no apparent legitimate reason for the timing of the statements, evening announcements put such pressure on press and broadcast deadlines that intelligent criticism . . . does not appear until some time after the announcement."

The start of the events was the surprise Trudeau address to the nation Aug. 1 and Clark and Broadbent protested to the CBC, which carried the prime minister live, when the network granted Trudeau's request for national time.

Churchill Dockers Return

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — All but 30 of Churchill's 108 dockworkers were back on the job in this northern Manitoba port during the weekend.

Alan Johnson, president of the Churchill local of the Public Service Alliance of Canada, said he expects most of the rest to be back Tuesday, "if they're coming back."

About 35 workers stayed for the duration of the strike that halted grain loading for 13 days, shortening the port's already-brief shipping season.

CUT PRICES: OCRED

EDMONTON (CP) — All retailers should be asked to reduce prices by 25 per cent as a means of fighting inflation, according to the president of the National Social Credit party.

Lorne Reznowski said Sunday the retailers would be reimbursed with debt-free credit provided by the Bank of Canada.

SHUTTLE DELAYED

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The maiden voyage of the space shuttle Enterprise will not take place before Thanksgiving of 1979, a delay of at least five months in the space agency's plan for the spacecraft.

The second postponement in a schedule that originally called for the first orbital flight next March, the new delay is the result of continuing development troubles in the testing of the space shuttle's main engine. The engine tests are more than six months behind schedule, and are no more than one third of the way to being complete.

"Our progress in being able to bang off the tests and accumulate the time we need is slower than we'd hoped," said J.R. Thompson, space shuttle engine manager at the Marshall Space Flight Centre in Huntsville, Ala.

The space shuttle engine is the most advanced rocket engine ever built. Made to burn supercold liquid hydrogen and oxygen, the engine has a rated thrust of 350,000 pounds. Its high-speed turbine blades spin at 36,000 revolutions per minute. The amount of energy released during combustion in a space shuttle engine is the equivalent of 60,000 horsepower.

Carter Cuts Stay

GRAND TETON NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — President Jimmy Carter announced Sunday he will cut short his vacation to personally direct the fight for natural gas compromise legislation from the White House.

After two years of fighting and compromises, the measure that Carter considers the keystone of his energy policy is in danger of failing.

Carter is expected to return to Washington Wednesday. He had originally planned to stay in the national parks of the West until Friday.

"We view this fight on natural gas to be as difficult as any we have ever faced and the culmination of the energy policy," said White House Press Secretary Jody Powell.

"It has been a difficult uphill fight, but one we believe has tremendous import for the country — and we don't intend to lose out if there is any possible way . . ."

Congress has wrestled for nearly two years over an energy bill, and a major roadblock has been how to decontrol natural gas. Early this month, a deal was reached that would phase out price controls by 1985.

This would eliminate a complicated pricing structure and will allow higher priced gas — formerly kept within state boundaries — to be shared by all states. This will provide more gas at higher prices — perhaps $13 billion more, depending on how much the supply rises.

Supporters say increased revenues will lure gas companies into spending more money to seek and drill new wells.

But the compromise was a fragile one. And last week, men that the White House had counted on announced their opposition.

A filibuster was threatened by an unlikely alliance of liberals and conservatives, one Powell ridiculed Sunday as he talked to reporters with the president.

"With all due respect to the amalgamation of interests against the compromise, it is clear that grouping cannot come up with an alternative," he said.

Killing Pain By Sound Claimed

DENVER (AP) — A noise resembling FM radio static, called pink sound, can replace pain-killing drugs for some patients suffering from cancer, arthritis and other diseases, researchers in Denver and Afton, Va., have found.

The researchers say pink sound produces none of the addiction and unpleasant side effects of many pain-killing drugs.

But Joyce Thomson, co-ordinator of physical medicine and rehabilitation at the Boulder Memorial Hospital pain clinic, said she is skeptical.

"Pain is a popular subject these days and there are all sorts of people trying to cash in on it," she said, adding that she attended a presentation of a sound device, but "it seemed pretty hokey."

The Denver-based pink-sound research team is headed by Frank Sullivan, who said: "Academics are skeptical, but the man in the street is tremendously open to it. To me, what works, works."

Rae Bowman, a Topeka, Kan., engineer still bedridden at Denver's Mercy Medical Centre following surgery for cancer, said the pink sound, in conjunction with breathing exercises, counting patterns and a series of associations taught by a psychiatrist, can minimize severe pain for periods of three to five hours.

Robert Monroe, who heads the Monroe Institute of Applied Sciences in Afton, Va., said the right and left hemispheres of the brain will produce the same kind of electrical impulses at the same time when various carefully selected sound pulses are transmitted through earphones to a patient.

Gov't 'Face-Lift' in Iran

Washington Post

TEHRAN — Iran's new prime minister Sunday presented a government of "reconciliation" to give the country's harried leadership an Islamic face-lift and try to stem the tide of opposition violence.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, who named Jaafar Sharif-Emami as prime minister Sunday, said the new government would stress "Islamic principles." It featured several minor concessions to moderates of the powerful Moslem religious opposition.

Diplomatic sources said there are signs that the conciliatory gestures will be accompanied by a hard crackdown on extremist elements in an effort to divide the opposition. And the shah, still firmly in charge, is evidently not giving up any of his own authority.

Faced with increasingly serious opposition violence for the last eight months, the shah named former senate president Sharif-Emami, 68, to replace Jamshid Amouzegar, 55, who held the post for little more than a year.

Sharif-Emami is known for maintaining contact with the Moslem clerical leadership. He is also considered an able politician who can serve as a compromise figure to appese the moderate political opposition.

The major surprise in the cabinet switch was the dismissal of veteran Foreign Minister Abbas Ali Khalatbari. He was replaced by Amir Khosrow Afshar, a career diplomat.

Five ministers retained their posts, including Finance Minister Mihammed Yeganeh, who doubles as Iran's chief representative in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, and War Minister Gen. Reza Azimi, who has survived several Cabinet shuffles in the past.

Sharif-Emami said the new government would "create an atmosphere of reconciliation among all classes of the people." Warning that "the homeland is in danger," he called on Iranians to rally around the constitution and country under the teachings of Islam.

'UNCLE OF SAM' ARSONIST HELD

ZEPHYR COVE, Nev. (UPI) — A series of 23 fires believed the work of an arsonist calling himself "Uncle of Sam" was brought under control Sunday in the Lake Tahoe Basin.

Delputy sheriffs arrested Fred Thaheld, 49, Saturday evening near where several of the fires started as he emerged from the forest behind Whittell High School.

Thaheld, who operates a small plastics company, was charged with multiple counts of third degree arson and was held in lieu of $200,000 bail.

A man calling himself Uncle of Sam called a Carson City newspaper last week to claim responsibility for more than 30 forest fires in the Tahoe basin since April. He said the governors of Nevada and California must drop lawsuits seeking to block the area's development or "the forests of both states will really start to burn."

Firefighters said most of the 23 blazes Saturday were "spot fires" of less than one-quarter acre. A total of 10 acres was blackened.

If Thaheld is convicted, he could be held accountable for $50,000 in firefighting costs as well as for the value of timber.

Kenya Power Shift Smooth

NAIROBI (Reuter) — A smooth transition of power in Kenya continues, diminishing fears that the death last week of President Jomo Kenyatta would plunge the moderate, pro-Western country into disarray.

After Thursday's state funeral, expected to be Africa's largest, a successor to Kenyatta will be chosen by the Kenya African National Union (KANU), the only political party.

Interim President Daniel Arap Moi, 54, is the favorite, but rivals are expected to emerge from Kenya's dominant Kikuyu tribe. Moi, formerly vice-president, comes from the minority Kalenjin tribes.

Life in the Kenyan capital is subdued following the death of the revered leader who ruled during the 15 years of independence from Britain. Bars, nightclubs and cinemas are closed for a period of mourning and the usually vibrant streets of Nairobi are hushed at night.

Thousands of people, many weeping uncontrollably, have filed through the State House to view Kenyatta's body.

At a memorial service here Sunday, Moi told the huge congregation he would follow in Kenyatta's footsteps in ruling the country.

Moi said the foundation laid by Kenyatta is one of the strongest in the world.

There were fears that without the unifying force of Kenyatta the country would fall victim to the divisive tribal rivalries which have marred handovers of power in all but a handful of black African states in recent years.

The tall, reserved Moi has chaired cabinet meetings and consulted the commander of the army, the head of the civil service, the director of the intelligence service and the police chief since the president death last Tuesday.

He has also displayed a relatively informal style of rule compared with the majestic Kenyatta. Moi eats in public restaurants, talks to reporters and appears before the people.

The British government has announced that Prince Charles and Foreign Secretary David Owen will attend the funeral.

How to build your own $100,000.00 bank account

Complete the questionnaire below to find out if you have what it takes to accumulate more money than you ever dreamed possible.

It will take just 3 minutes to complete the test below—these few moments could well prove to be the most important and lasting investment you have ever made.

Test your wealth potential here

1. Have you spent many years and a lot of hard work at school and on the job, training yourself for a job that provides you an above-average income? Yes ☐ No ☐
2. Would you like to know how to exploit every financial situation to your own advantage so you can beat inflation and runaway taxation once and for all? Yes ☐ No ☐
3. Would you like to know how to make high-return, low-risk investments using someone else's money—but where you reap the profits? Yes ☐ No ☐
4. Do you agree that you have never really had any special training to learn the skills and techniques necessary to manage the $500,000 to $1,000,000 you will actually earn during your working career? Yes ☐ No ☐
5. Do you agree that when you get right down to it, it's up to you—and nobody else—to learn how to build your own personal nest egg and protect it from the ravages of taxes and inflation? Yes ☐ No ☐
6. Are you prepared to spend some time, some effort, and a little money to be taught by a whole team of non-biased financial professionals how to build your personal fortune the safe, sure way? (You'll do it on your own time, at your own pace, in the comfort of your own home.) Yes ☐ No ☐

Learn step-by-step exactly how to:

- Make money using borrowed money
- Plan your estate to avoid needless taxes
- Save legally on your income taxes
- Negotiate low-cost loans
- Make profits in commodities
- Make big profits in real estate and mortgages
- Plan for a prosperous retirement
- Make big stock market profits
- Save hundreds of dollars every year on interest payments to others
- Beat inflation through sound money management techniques
- Size up any investment opportunity
- Determine how much insurance you need, and what kind to buy
- Invest in Coins and Currency
- Pension Plans—how to save taxes while you save money
- And hundreds of other ways to build your fortune the safe, sure way!

A startling fact about money

If you were to invest $88 a month at a return of 15% and started at age 30, it would add up to over one million dollars by the time you retire. Incredible, but true. If you're over 30, you can still make your million by increasing your investment or getting a higher rate of return. And you can do both these things if you know how. So why isn't everyone getting rich? Well, the main reasons are these:

1. Few people are aware of their long range potential for wealth.
2. Most people think they can't afford to invest.
3. Most people don't know how to get maximum returns for their money.

The truth about getting rich

The truth is, you can learn how to get rich. There are ways to get money for investment purposes from the income you have right now without reducing your standard of living. You can learn how to get excellent returns on your money without unnecessary risks.

If you're serious about accumulating wealth

. . . your next question will be, "Where can I get this kind of know-how?" Not so long ago, it just wasn't available. Amazing as it sounds, no college or university offers a single unified course to teach the techniques of making money. The program we offer is the only one of its kind.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Plunging oil issues sent the Toronto stock market sharply lower today in active mid-session trading.

The TSE 300 index was down 9.61 to 1,220.62 with losses in all four of its most heavily-weighted groups.

Oil and gas stocks declined 36.54 to 1,541.7, metals and minerals 10.07 to 1,030.05, industrial products 4.64 to 999.39 and financial services 2.05 to 1,143.02.

Management companies fell more than 13 points to lead the eight losers among the other 10 groups within the 14-unit composite index. Real estate and construction shares, up almost 24 points, and communications and media issues were the only gainers.

Volume of trading by 1 p.m. totalled 2.07 million shares, half the 4.13 million at the same time Friday.

Declines more than doubled advances 267 to 105 with 205 issues unchanged.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved lower today even though the government moved to ease two of Wall Street's major worries, the weak dollar and inflation.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 4.24 at noon New York time to 891.29. Declines led advances by a slim margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. NYSE volume totaled 13.32 million shares in the first two hours of trading, down sharply from the two-hour tally of 15.92 million Friday.

The Federal Reserve Board made it easier for banks to borrow funds in the Eurodollar market — dollars held outside the United States. Board economists said increased demand for Eurodollars could push up interest rates and encourage holders of forqign currencies to trade them for dollars they could lend at attractive rates.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were broadly lower in moderate afternoon trading today on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Volume at 2:30 p.m. Montreal time was 369,800 shares traded, compared with 549,800 exchanged up to the same time Friday.

Power Corp. was down ⅛ at $19, FCA International five cents at $3.10, Shell Canada ¼ at $14⅞, CP Ltd. ¼ at $22½, Bank of Montreal ⅛ at $23⅞ and Bell Canada ⅛ at $59⅞. Texasgulf was up ⅛ at $24⅝.

All London markets are closed today on account of a bank holiday.

CATTLE

CALGARY (CP) — Monday's light sales at the Calgary public stockyards of 42 head were mostly slaughter cows of average conditon. Moderate demand was shown for all available classes. There were no slaughter steers or heifers on offer. Slaughter cows traded steady to last Friday's close with sales to 42.50. There were no bologna bulls on offer.

D1-2 cows 42.42.50, D3 38-40.50, D5 35-38. There were no feeder cattle on offer at Monday's sale.

R-D Plans To Leave Quebec

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Owen Sound, Toronto and London, Ont., are being considered as a new location for Reader's Digest Association (Canada) Ltd., which plans to move its offices out of Montreal, a company spokesman says.

Bruce Woodcock said the company's planned move from Montreal was for business reasons and not because of the political situation in Quebec. The Montreal operation is unwieldy and inefficient because the company's offices are scattered over four locations, he said.

He said the company will make a decision on relocation by March, 1979. If 90 per cent of the company's employees indicated they did not want to move, the company would consider another location in Quebec, he said.

CIL Expands Fertilizer Plants

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Canadian Industries Ltd. has announced plans for an $18-million expansion of its Lambton plant for production of solid nitrogen fertilizer.

The company said the expansion will not result in any significant increase in jobs at the plant which currently employs 390 workers.

The expansion involves the construction of a urea liquor plant to produce 77,500 tons a year; a 130,000-ton-a-year plant to convert urea liquor to solid granules, as well as storage facilities.

The new plants are due to begin commercial production early in 1980.

Dobbie Joe a Winner

Rosemary and Keith Linton paid $2,300 for Dobbie Joe for no other reason except "we needed a horse."

Dobbie Joe, a nine-year-old gelding, has turned out to be a bargain purchase and one of the standouts of the current harness race meet at Sandown Park.

A winner only once in 16 starts in 1977 and once in five starts before entering the Lintons' stable this year, Dobbie Joe scored his 11th victoryfor his new owners in the sixth race Saturday.

Only 10 of the wins are recognized officially. A disqualification cost Dobbie Joe a recent victory. In his other five starts at Sandown, Dobbie Joe was runnerup four times and finished fourth on another occasion.

It's been a remarkable turnaround.

The pacer was purchased in Ontario last Monday with Ray Gemmill doing the honors on behalf of the Lintons. It was, for the Lintons, a blind purchase but career winnings of just over $20,000 indicated Dobbie Joe had some ability.

The horse had a past history of choking, breaking his stride or "just being plain ornery" but owner-trainer-driver Keith Linton straightened out his Ontario recruit.

Dobbie Joe's victory Saturday was the second of the for Linton, Sandown's leading driver. He scored with Dons Florico in the first race.

Sandy P, driven by Morley McCallum, scored a mild upset in the featured ninth, covering the mile in an impressive 2:03 1/5 to beat out Steady Nick and the favored Trevor John.

The major upset, however, came in the eighth when Four Score, paying $36.40 for a $2 win ticket, hooked up with the also-overlooked Bald Scott for an exactor return of $575.80.

Bad 'N Big Best in Mile

Times News Services

Bad 'N Big, piloted by Bill Shoemaker, eclipsed the local talent Sunday at Renton, Wash., to earn a three-quarter-length victory in the $100,000-added Longacres Mile, the richest race ever run in the U.S. Northwest.

Bad 'N Big came north from California to tour the Longacres oval in one minute, 34 seconds, matching the stakes record despite high weight of 128 pounds.

Smiley's Dream, a Victoria-owned horse, finished second with Run 'n Prince, a 72-1 outsider, running third.

The race card marked Shoemaker's first appearance at Longacres since he rode Irene's Angel to a second-place finish in the 1949 Mile when he was an apprentice.

The 10-race card eclipsed all previous records in attendance and handle at the track. The crowd of 19,672 wagered $2,003,482, shattering the previous record of $1,523,691.

At Vancouver's Exhibition Park Saturday, Five Star General which, like Smiley's Dream, is owned by the Jawl brothers of Vitoria, came from off the pace to win the $16,500-added British Columbia Derby Trial for three-year-olds.

In his last start at Ex Park—the Hopeful Handicap two weeks earlier—Five Star General was beaten by 15 lengths. Since that race, however, Five Star General had finished a closing second in the Longacres Derby Consolation in Seattle.

In the Derby Trial, Five Star General came from next to last in the eight-horse field at the half-mile to take the lead leaving the backstretch and drew out to win by nine lengths, covering the 1 1-16 miles in one minute, 48 1-5 seconds on a muddy track.

The winner earned $11,380 out of the Derby Trial for the Jawl brothers, who bought the colt at Chicago in July. Season earnings of the horse are $44,943.

Another 'General' had a turn in the spotlight during Saturday's racing on United States tracks.

General Assembly, ridden by Darrel McHargue, rushed through the stretch to win the 74th running of the Hopeful Stakes for two-year-olds at Saratoga Race Course before a crowd of 27,160.

General Assembly finished 6¾-lengths ahead of Exuberant as he covered the 6½ furlongs in 1:16 2-5. Third, another half-length back, was Fuzzbuster.

At Arlington, Key to the Saga, closed strongly to score a 3½-length victory in the $57,750 Pucker Up Stakes.

At Monmouth, Strange Proposal rallied strongly through the stretch to win Monmouth Park's $44,850 Choice Handicap, a 1 1-8 miles event for three-year-olds.

Touch Football Meeting

Touch football, which involved approximately 2,500 men and women on 180 teams throughout British Columbia this past spring, is growing.

A provincial organization — Touch Football B.C. — has been formed and anybody interested in setting up a fall league in the Greater Victoria area is asked to attend a meeting at 7 tonight at Cedar Hill Park.

The provincial body has applied to join the Canadian Touch Football Association and the B.C. Amateur Football Association. If successful, a playoff format will be devised to send a provincial representative to the Canadian final in Toronto.

Spriggs Leads

Spriggs, riding a Yamaha, topped the class with 37 points under the reverse-scoring system for his fourth straight victory in the annual event and sixth win over the eight years of competition.

Ron Wilson, aboard a Bultaco, placed second in the class with 50 points and Gary Nordstrom, riding a Yamaha, was third with 87.

YONKERS TROT TRIUMPH

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Speedy Somolli, the 6-to-5 favorite, won the $233,594 Yonkers Trot by an impressive two-lengths over Doublemint on Saturday at Yonkers Raceway and became the early favorite for the Hambletonian.

DUTCH RIDER ROAD CHAMP

ADENAU, West Germany (AP) — Gerrie Knetemann of the Netherlands edged defending-champion Francesco Moser of Italy by inches at the finish line to win the professional men's world cycling championship road race Sunday.

Jorgen Marcussen of Denmark was third, about 100 metres behind.

Knetemann and Moser sprinted away from a dozen other cyclists on the last half of the final lap of the gruelling race that lasted about 7½ hours on the hilly Nuerburgring auto race circuit.

New Amateur King In Class By Himself

LAVAL-SUR-LE-LAC, Que. (CP) — With the runaway victory in the defence of his Canadian Amateur golf championship behind him, strapping Rod Spittle of Niagara Falls realizes he faces a pair of major challenges within the next two months.

Spittle, a 23-year-old graduate of Ohio State University, put on a one-man show as he slammed his way around the par-72, 6,521-yard Laval course and finished the 72-hole tournament with a 12-under-par 276 Saturday.

That was 10 strokes better than runner-ups Gary Cowan of Kitchener and Bob Mase of East Lansing, Mich. Cowan said afterwards the championship had been comprised of two fields — Spittle and the rest.

Spittle, Cowan and Mase, were the only three in the 73-man field to finish under par for the tournament. The champion, who won the title from Jim Nelford of Burnaby last year after trailing by four strokes going into the final round, had two 70s before finishing with a pair of 68s.

Dave Mick of Victoria, closing with a 72 to complete "a fairly consistent four rounds," finished at 289 and a tie for fourth place with Yves Tremblay of Quebec and Glen Johnsol, another American.

Another Victoria amateur also performed well. Rick Gibson, only 16 and the B.C. high school champ, finished in the top 30 with a 73-76-73-76 — 298 showing in his first appearance in the men's tournament.

"I've never been 12 under before," said Spittle of hiq tournament play.

But the apparently even-tempered Spittle admitted he faces a new challenge this week when he plays in the United States Amateur at Plainfield, N.J.

Then after New Jersey, Spittle faces his second big hurdle. He will apply to attend the Professional Golfers' Association school in the U.S. and try for his pro card in Arizona in October.

"I had something to prove here," he said. I had to prove I could do it if golf is going to be my profession."

"He has nothing further to prove as an amateur," said Cowan, a two-time winner of the U.S. Amateur who has steadfastly rejected the lure of the pro ranks. "If he is going to play golf he might as well play for money."

Seaboard Grabs Provincial Crown

Seaboard Construction, sparked by the pitching of Barry Wilkin and Randy Jackson, has returned the British Columbia senior "B" men's softball championship back to Victoria after a seven-year absence.

Seaboard, winning in 1971, was the last Victoria team to capture the "B" honor.

A costly throwing error by pitcher Gord Moore, who also allowed only one hit, enabled Glen Kilduff to romp home with the winning run in the top of the seventh. Kilduff had coaxed a walk from Moore with one out and advanced to second on Tom Robertson's sacrifice.

Pinch-hitter Clive Johnston then hit a hard bouncer to the pitcher. Moore couldn't hold the ball but recovered quickly and threw wildly in an effort to catch Johnston at first base for the final out. That enabled Kilduff to race home with the game's only run.

Unbeaten in the 13-team, double-loss-elimination tournament, Seaboard advanced to the final earlier in the day by tripping Kamloops in another well-played, 1-0 game. Jackson, allowing only two hits, out-duelled former-Victorian Gord Warren.

Kamloops bounced back from that setback by clipping Port Alberni Athletics in the losers' bracket final, a 1-0 in an 11-inning thriller. Lorne Campbell scored the winning run after leading off with a double, moving to third on a wild pitch and then scoring on Bob Custance's sacrifice fly.

Moore and Bob Corrigan combined for the six-hit shutout while Bill Polz was the hard-luck loser. Also a former Victorian, Polz hurled a perfect game for nine innings, retiring 28 straight batters, before Len Knight singled with one out in the 10th.

SOFTBALL TOURNEY AIDS BENEFIT FUND

Macdonald Men's League won the Wayne Bull Benefit softball tournament and approximately $1,100 was collected to help the injured Sidney Men's Association player Sunday at Sanscha Park.

Bull, who suffered a broken neck in a swimming mishap while on a team outing at Comox Lake near Courtenay, is paralyzed and still undergoing tests at Shaugnessy Hospital in Vancouver.

Heywood Men's League placed second in the all-star tourney and Sidney was third.

The Sidney Association will continue to collect money to help Bull and has scheduled a dance for 8 p.m. Sept. 30 at Sanshca Hall in Sidney. Tickets are $10 per couple and may be picked up, starting Wednesday, at the Prairie Inn or Harvey's Sporting Goods.

Hughes Keeping Capitals in Race

The bats are keeping Victoria Athletics on top but Dave Hughes' arm is keeping Capital Builders in contention for the Heywood Senior Men's Softball League championship.

Teams split a Sunday doubleheader at Heywood Avenue Park and Athletics now lead the best-of-seven final 3-2. Game No. 6 is scheduled Tuesday.

Hughes, who tossed the first-game victory, posted his second victory when Builders struck for five runs, three on Barry Milne's homer, in the final inning to defeat A's 7-5.

Their batters lifted the A's back on top with a 10-4 victory in Sunday's second game. Athletics have totalled 48 hits in the first five games.

Builders	000 020 5 — 7 8 3
Athletics	000 103 1 — 5 10 2

Larry McKinnon, Nicholas (6) and Ryan Talbot; Hughes, Bill Clifford (1), Marv Carver (5) and Kraeling. Home run: Builders — John Thompson.

Saskatchewan Tops Tourney

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan won the Canadian senior women's softball championship Sunday by defeating Ontario 1-0 in the second game of the A-B final.

Ontario had won the first game 3-1 to force the extra contest. Saskatchewan, as the A-division winner, had only to win one game to take the championship, while Ontario needed two victories.

Ontario's Doris Coultes, 2-0 in the round-robin with an earned-run average of 0.00, an was named the top pitcher of the tournament. Eileen Costello of British Columbia, with an .800 batting average, was the top hitter and also the most-valuable player.

Ontario had reached the final with a triumph over Quebec, which had upset defending-champion British Columbia 1-0 earlier Sunday.

B.C. LAWN BOWLER WINS TIE-BREAKER

HALIFAX (CP) — A British Columbia win in the singles division was all that stopped Ontario from completely dominating the Canadian women's lawn bowling championships that ended here Sunday.

Ontario took the gold in both the pairs and triples Saturday with 8-0 won-lost records in each event.

British Columbia went to a tie-breaking final to win the singles, as Nell Hunter of North Vancouver defeated Margaret McKelvey of Calgary, Alta. 18-14 for the gold on Sunday. McKelvey had beaten Hunter 21-17 in Saturday's play to leave both women with 6-2 records and force Sunday's sudden-death playoff.

British Columbia (7-1) was second in pairs. Prince Edward Island was runner-up in the triples event.

Taiwan Keeps Title

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Right-handed pitcher Chao-Min Pan struck out 13 batters and hit a two-run homer as Pintung of Taiwan defeated Danvillle, Calif., 11-1 Saturday to win its second straight Little League World Series baseball championship.

Pintung jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the top of the first when its first two batters walked and shortstop Wen-Chu Pan singled home a run. Another single by centrefielder Kuo-Chin Li brought home a second run and another scored on a passed ball.

Danville, representing the San Ramon Little League, scored its only run with two out in the bottom of the first inning, when Pan walked three batters and right-fielder Mike Myers brought home pitcher Erik Johnson with a single.

Pan settled down, however, picking up strength as the game wore on. He allowed only four more hits and four walks.

WHY A HONDA CAN HELP SELL YOU ON A MAZDA.

If you were to put a Honda Civic beside a Mazda GLC Deluxe and compare both hatchbacks point by point, chances are the Civic would start to sell you on a GLC. How do we know?

Because a little while ago, a Mazda dealer did it.

He put a Honda Civic on his lot full of Mazda GLC's last summer and invited people to test-drive and compare both cars. Shortly afterwards, his full lot wasn't so full anymore.

And here are some reasons why:

First off, the GLC is bigger and roomier than a Civic. In fact, the GLC has a total of 86 cu. ft. of passenger and cargo space while the Civic has only 74 cu. ft. (Some people said the thing that bugged them about the Honda was they didn't know what to do about their left foot when driving, because the footspace was very cramped. The GLC gave plenty of leg room for both legs.)

Second, the GLC has 43% more window area than a Civic so there's better visibility all around. (People said they felt safer in the GLC because they could see more.)

Third, the GLC Deluxe offers standard features a Civic doesn't. For example, the GLC Deluxe comes with a rear window wiper and washer–standard. Civic doesn't.

The GLC Deluxe comes with split rear seats, electric hatch release, big 13" whitewall tires and a unique walk-in device in the front seat–standard. Civic doesn't. The GLC also offers a 3-speed automatic model that gives the best overall gas mileage of any automatic car today (mileages of 69 km/gal on the highway and 59 km/gal in the city*). Honda only offers a 2-speed semi-automatic.

Last but not least, the GLC gives you a choice of a 2 or 4-door hatchback. Civic doesn't. It seems after comparing both cars, a lot of people admitted the GLC came out ahead. Their biggest surprise was that the GLC wasn't as popular.

Well, consider this. Honda may be recognized as being the most popular small car in Canada. But it's not the most popular small car in the world. In fact, in countries like Norway, France, Australia and Switzerland there's another small car that completely outsells Honda Civic.

The Mazda GLC.

And if that doesn't sell you on a GLC, maybe this will. The GLC Deluxe costs less than a Civic Hatchback. About $300 less.

NOW IT'S ON TO THE MANN CUP FINAL!

Conquering Rocks Display Maturity

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

COQUITLAM — Maturity was the key word here Sunday. Victoria Shamrocks had it. Coquitlam Adanacs didn't.

That's why today the Shamrocks are getting ready to leave for the East and the Mann Cup Canadian lacrosse championship.

That series opens against Peterborough Red Oaks next Monday.

Shamrocks won the Western Lacrosse Association championship and their first berth in the Mann Cup final since 1957 by defeating the Adanacs 14-11 to sweep the best-of-seven final series in four straight games.

They won the first game easily, 19-10, and the last three, double tough, by coming from behind.

Which demontrates that maturity.

"We didn't have it, and they did," said coach Bob Salt of the Adanacs. "We thought we had them beaten in three games, but they were just like a machine—they kept coming back."

The first comeback came Thursday. The A's had a two-goal lead midway through the final period. The Rocks scored four goals in a row to win that one 11-9.

On Saturday at Victoria's Memorial Arena, the Adanacs twice had a three-goal lead in the third period. The Rocks scored three goals late to tie that one and then won 12-10 in overtime on goals by Norm Baker and Charn Dhillon.

Sunday, it was more dramatic—for the Shamrocks, and more heartbreaking for the A's.

This time the A's twice got ahead by five goals in the second period and the second time as late as 16:15.

But the Adanacs, who had played a slashing, intimidating game until then and had success doing it; and had scored four goals in the space of one minute and 51 seconds in their most successful moments, suddenly ran afoul of their own design. They were about to die by the sword.

Dave Cochrane, for no apparent reason and with his team holding a man advantage, levelled Shamrock veteran Ivan Thompson with a vicious high-stick at centre floor and was given a major penalty.

Seconds later, Gerry McKenna of the Rocks and Randy Delmonico of Coquitlam went off together and it was while the teams were all even that Mark Valastin scored for Coquitlam to put the A's ahead 9-4.

But then the Rocks had the odd man on that major; and, given a break, they responded.

Ron MacNeil, who later was to be named the Most Valuable Player in the playoffs, potted a power-play goal. Dan Green followed with another just 56 seconds later and MacNeil got his third of the night another 50 seconds later and the Rocks were back in business.

Leading 9-7 entering the final period, the A's got burned again by bad penalties.

Valastin took a slashing call away from the play at 2:09 and Frank Neilson another slashing penalty 31 seconds later to leave his club two men short.

Bang! Bang! The Rocks, through MacNeil and Baker, had two goals in 27 seconds, the score was tied 9-9, the Adanacs no longer had control and the crowd of 1,562 was strangely quiet.

Gordie Lyons then electrified that crowd, at least the small contingent of Victoria fans that made the trip, by breaking the length of the floor and outracing two Coquitlam defenders to score the goal that put the Rocks ahead for the first time.

After Rhys Parson brought the Adanacs even, Jerry Kustaski scored his second to restore the one-goal margin.

Lyons then hit Doug Angrove with a clearing pass and it was 12-10 Shamrocks.

That was at 11:41 and brought on the departure of Coquitlam goalkeeper John Lewis in favor of Greg Thomas.

Thompson scored on the first shot against Thomas, and the Rocks were home.

Through it all there was another hero. Goalkeeper Scott Marshall, who had come off the bench to relieve Larry Smeltzer in the third period of Saturday's game, and gave up only one goal in 20 minutes, went all the way in the finale.

And, except for that one brief spell in the second period during which he didn't get too much support, he turned in an exceptional performance.

MacNeil, a tower of strength in the playoffs, had four goals while Thompson had three and Kustaski a pair. Singles went to Norm Baker, who had five assists, McKenna, Green, Lyons and Angrove.

Paced by the oldest veteran of them all, Ranjit Dillon, the Rocks did a victory lap around the Coquitlam Arena. Later it was a champagne shower in the dressing room.

Coach Nirmal Dillon of the Rocks said after the game that goalkeeper Mac Maude of Nanaimo Timbermen would join the club as a third goalkeeper which is required in the Mann Cup. It is also possible that former Shamrocks goalkeeper George Grover may be added to the team as Smeltzer is suffering from a stretched achilles tendon and may not be able to play. Grover was backup to Marshall on Sunday.

Larry Bell and Rick Baker are also on the injured list.

The Shamrocks can pick up one other player and it will be either Brian Evans of Nanaimo or Dave Durante of the Adanacs.

Late Dolphin Surge Turns Back Raiders

Victoria Dolphins thrilled a home-opener crowd of about 500 fans with a tightly-played, come-from-behind 14-13 victory over Richmond Raiders in a B.C. Big Four Junior Football League game Sunday at Royal Athletic Park.

Down 13-7 with five minutes remaining in the fourth quarter, Kym Clarke opened the scoring play by running the ball 14 yards. Quarterback Bernie Kid then fired a 38-yard pass to rookie Jim Boyd, who ran it to the Richmond two-yard line.

Cowan had given Dolphins an early lead by booting two field goals in the first quarter, but Danny Clark scored a touchdown and John Cooper converted to give Richmond a 7-6 edge at half time.

Cowan tied it up with a single on a missed field goal attempt in the third quarter but Ed Van Geel plunged over from one yard out later in the same frame to put Raiders back on top. Dolphins managed to block the conversion attempt.

The fourth quarter of the sometimes-chippy game belonged to Dolphins and persistence finally paid off in the dying minutes.

Jim Lochead played a strong game, both offensively and defensively, for Dolphins while defensive halfs Brian Scotney and Brian Edgington were also standouts.

Dolphins fared well in the statistical department with 154 yards passing to 84 for the Raiders and led in total offense with 250 yards to 202.

Richmond had the best ground attack, 118 yards to 96.

Dolphins had 14 first downs, completed 11 of 22 pass attempts, suffered two interceptions, lost their single fumble and led with 10 punts for a gain of 322 yards.

The visiting squad had 13 first downs, completed six of 16 pass attempts, were intercepted three times, lost all four fumbles and had seven punts for 215 yards.

Penalties proved costly for the Dolphins. The Victoria club was assessed 12 penalties for the loss of 138 yards while Richmond was handed eight for 93 yards.

Nancy Right There For Medal in Relay

WEST BERLIN (CP) — The troubled summer of 1978 for Nancy Garapick is ending on a high note.

Injured last spring in a pool-deck accident, her training disrupted by the cast on her leg, the 16-year-old Halifax swimmer was a forgotten member of Canada's Commonwealth Games and world championship teams.

Forgotten until Saturday, anyway, when she swam the fastest freestyle relay leg of her career to help Canada to a bronze medal in the women's 400-metre freestyle relay.

"I guess this makes up for some of the things I've been through," she said with a broad grin after receiving her medal with relay mates Wendy Quirk, Gail Amundrud and Sue Sloan.

The United States foursome of Tracy Caulkins, Stephanie Elkins, Jill Sterkle and Cynthia Woodhead did their thing, setting a world record of three minutes, 43.43 seconds in winning the gold. East Germany was second in 3:47.37.

Caulkins was also a winner in the women's 200-metre butterfly where she equalled the world record of 2:09.87 held by East Germany's Andrea Pollack. Pollack finished third in 2:12.63.

Vladimiar Salnikov of the Soviet Union won the men's 1,500-metre freestyle in 15:03.99, while Joe Bottom of the U.S. took the men's 100-metre butterfly in 54.30.

Dan Thompson of Toronto was fifth in the 200 butterfly in 55.43, while Quirk and Kelly Albright of Toronto were fourth and sixth respectively behind Caulkins in the 200 butterfly.

The relay medal gave Canada six in swimming and eight overall.

On Sunday, Canada's entry in the team competition of synchronized swimming won a bronze medal to up the total to nine.

Diver Janet Nutter of Toronto had a disastrous day Saturday in the women's tower competition, falling from third to 14th place because of badly missed fifth dive.

Macoritti Breaks Field Goal Record

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders' logged their first two points in the Canadian Football League's win column Sunday as Bob Macoritti kicked a record seven field goals to lead the Riders to a 31-10 victory over Toronto Argonauts.

Victory breaks a string of six regular-season defeats for the Riders and it is coach Walt Posadowski's first since he took over the club from Jim Eddy, fired two weeks ago. Posadowski lost his first game against Calgary.

Macoritti, who contributed 23 of Saskatchewan's 31 points, set a new mark for the number of field goals kicked in a single game, surpassing the former record of six shared by Gerry Organ of Ottawa Rough Riders, Lou Passaglia of the B.C. Lions and Edmonton Eskimos' Dave Cutler.

The Rider kicker also added a single point on a missed field goal and a convert on Saskatchewan's only touchdown, scored by defensive back Paul Williams.

Williams intercepted a pass thrown by Argo starting quarterback Rodney Allison and ran it back 41 yards for the touchdown. The Riders picked up two more points on a safety touch.

Chuck Ealey, who relieved Allison in the third quarter, engineered Toronto's only touchdown, a six-yard pass to Terry Metcalf.

Calling it a great team effort, Rider coach Posadowski said all 33 of his players had a hand in the win. The touchdown by Williams, after he picked off Allison's pass intended for Mike Harris, provided the spark for the Riders' 18-point second-quarter.

Though Saskatchewan's offensive unit under quarterback Ron Lancaster failed to score a point, Argo coach Cahill came away impressed.

"They moved the ball on us very effectively," he said. "Although they didn't score any touchdowns, they retained the ball an awful long time."

Stone, Ker Victors

Stone won the longest race of his career, taking the lead on the 25th lap and then holding off a strong challenge from Dave Morris of Nanaimo during the final 20 laps in the featured 60-lap stock car main event.

Ker managed to post his fourth straight victory in the 35-lap super-stock main event after taking the lead on the fifth circuit of the Langford oval.

Running second after 20 laps of the super-stock main, Caudwell ran into Jim Gibbs, who spun out. Gibbs rebounded back into Caudwell on the home stretch and the latter driver had to withdraw with a badly-damaged vehicle.

COSMO MACHINE WRECKS ROWDIES IN TITLE BATTLE

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — They come from so many backgrounds and nations, speak so many languages and earn so many dollars. They are the players, the gears, that make New York Cosmos a championship machine.

The machine worked to near-perfection Sunday before 74,901 at Giants Stadium, pounding out a 3-1 victory over Tampa Bay Rowdies to win its second consecutive North American Soccer League title.

"Class counts in the end," said Dennis Tueart, the Englishman who scored twice while Italy's Giorgio Chinaglia scored once. "You can't penny-pinch when you want to buy class."

Team management knows that. It bought world-class players the way a chef buys gourmet groceries..

There was Tueart, hampered by injuries early in the season and maddened by frustration, but a six-goal scorer in the playoffs.

There was goalie Jack Brand, a benchwarmer most of the year but a star in post-season contests ith a shutout streak of 378 minutes, 50 seconds.

There was Steve Hunt, who set up the first goal of his final game with the team and cried when it was over. He was to return to England today to fulfill his lifelong ambition of playing with Coventry City of the First Division.

And there was Eddie Firmani, who coached Tampa Bay's 1975 champions but left last season to become foreman of the Cosmos' wrecking crew.

"Once you get to live with the players, you get to know the predictable ones, the unpredictable ones, the ones that can win games for you," said Firmani, who fielded a lineup so strong Sunday that NASL rookie of the year Gary Etherington was left in street clothes. "It's my job to put the right players on the field."

Tampa Bay coach Gorpon Jago was robbed of that opportunity when star forward Rodney Marsh decided he couldn't play. Marsh had been spiked in the right leg Wednesday night before scoring the goal that gave the Rowdies the American Conference championship, and when the wound became infected, running was impossible.

The only Rowdie to score was Mirandinha, who sent an 18-yard shot past Brand at 73:34. But Tueart had scored at 30:42 and Chinaglca had connected at 44:30, and Tueart tallied again just 3:16 after Mirandinha's goal to insure the Cosmos' third NASL title.

Mussels In Battling Mood

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

Victoria Mussels may have opened on a disastrous note, but they're not closing that way.

Instead, they seem bent on winding up their first season of professional baseball in a dogfight with the Northwest League's Northern Division Leaders.

Sunday night, for example, Mussels battled Walla Walla Padres on even terms until the ninth inning before dropping a 7-6 heartbreaker before 185 at Royal Athletic Park. Padres needed three ninth-inning runs, two of them on wild pitches by loser Doug Hogan (2-2), to prevail.

It was right in keeping with what happened at Athletic Park Saturday when the teams split a doubleheader. Mussels won the opener 2-1 by scoring twice in the seventh and final inning but lost 8-4 in a scheduled seven-inning nightcap that went 16 innings and took four hours to complete.

It was also a far cry from Mussels' home debut last June when they rolled over 19-1 to Bellingham Mariners.

Victoria built a 3-0 cushion Sunday for starter Dave Cheadle against the Padres, who are fighting Grays Harbor Loggers for the divisional title and a berth in a best-of-three championship playoff against the Southern Division winner on Labor Day weekend.

The margin evaporated, though, with a three-run seventh inning by Walla Walla. Mussels regained the lead in the home half of the seventh when Greg Schultz, who had singled, worked his way around to third and scored on a passed ball.

Padres knotted it again in the eighth on Al Richmond's bases-empty homer, his 17th of the season, only to have Mussels go ahead 6-4 in their half of the inning.

Padres won it their last turn at bat when Mussels lifted reliever Scott Harding for righthander Doug Hogan with runners at second and third. Hogan promptly wild-pitched Jerry Johnson in from third, yielded a run-scoring single to Richmond, gave up another single to Doug Gwosdz and wild-pitched Richmond home with the winner.

Saturday's first-game hero was Al Alpaugh, who singled in the winner after Mike Carey had tied the score at 1-1 with a sacrifice fly. Until then, Walla Walla was nursing a lead that came on Greg Pastors' 12th homer of the year in the second inning. Winner Roy Moretti relieved in the fourth after starter Matt Reeves fainted on the mound, the victim of a flu virus.

In the second game, a pair of singles, two wild pitches, a hit batsman, a walk and an error produced four unearned Padre runs in the 16th inning to seal the outcome.

Mussels and Padres complete a suspended game tonight at Athletic Park, Victoria needing three outs to preserve a 6-4 win that was denied them when curfew halted play after eight innings July 23. The clubs play tonight's regularly scheduled game immediately following with action starting at 7.

Vilas Doubtful Starter In Open

Times News Services

Harold Solomon stormed back from a 3-1 deficit in the second set Sunday and outlasted third-seeded Corrado Barazzutti of Italy, 3-6, 6-4, 6-0, to advance to the final of the 51st United States pro tennis championships at Brookline, Mass.

Solomon, seeded sixth, will vie for the $32,000 top prize with defending champion Manuel Orantes of Spain, who needed an hour to beat Arthur Ashe, 6-3, 6-2 in the day's other semi-final match.

Guillermo Vilas of Argentina withdrew from the $30,000 Lionel round-robin tournament at Somers, N.Y., because of a stomach virus and was considered a questionable entry for the United States Open which starts Tuesday.

Vilas defaulted to Cliff Richey, paving the way for the 31-year-old American to gain entry into tonight's final against Peter Fleming of Chatham, N.J. Fleming won his division of the round-pobin with a 6-1, 7-6 victory over Ilie Nastase of Romania. The 23-year-old Fleming allowed only 10 points to Nastase in the first set.

In Mahwah, N.J., Virginia Wade rebounded to beat Kerry Reid, 1-6, 6-1, 6-4 in the finals of the $75,000 Bergen County women's tournament at Ramapo College.

Third place went to 15-year-old Tracy Austin, who beat Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia 7-6 in a single-set playoff.

And in Toronto, Australian Bill Lloyd, the No. 1 seed, defeated Dale Power of Toronto 5-7, 6-3, 6-3 to win the Canadian National Exhibition pro invitational tournament. It was the third win of the year for Lloyd, who won $1,000.

'DESERVING' ANDRETTI READY TO TAKE JACKPOT

ZANDVOORT, Netherlands (AP) — Two decades after he started car racing, veteran U.S. driver Mario Andretti looks like he's ready to hit the jackpot and win the Formula I world championship following an easy victory in the Dutch Grand Prix.

"Mario has got the world title sewn up and he deserves to win it," Austria's reigning world champion Nikki Lauda said after Sunday's race on the Zandvoort circuit, where he lost his last hope of defending the title.

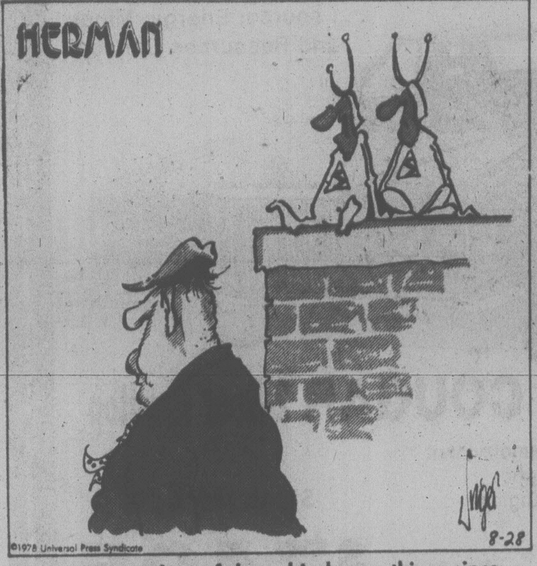
The only man who can cath Andretti, 38, in the three remaining races is his Lotus teammate Ronnie Peterson, but the Swede is bound by his contract to play second fiddle to the American and has promised he'll do just that.

Andretti led the Dutch event from start to finish with Peterson tucked in behind him all the way in second place. Lauda, driving a Brabham-Alfa, finished third, 12 seconds back. The victory gave Andretti 63 world championship points, followed by Peterson with 51. Lauda is third with 35.

If he wins the world title, Andretti will be the first American to do so since Phil Hill accomplished the feat in 1961.

Andretti's next race will be the Grand Prix at Monza in Italy on Sept. 10.

Fourth and fifth spots were taken by Irishman John Watson (Brabham) and Brazilian Emerson Fittipaldi (Copersugar). Canada's Gilles Villeneuve finished sixth, moving him into a 10th-place tie with former world champion James Hunt of England and Italian rookie Riccardo Patrese.



"I've seen a lot of those big lumpy things since we got here—but so far, no real people."

Victoria Clipped In Western Final

PORT COQUITLAM (CP) — Dwayne Lalor pitched a four-hitter and Rod Huern scored the winning run on an error in the fifth inning as Red Deer, Alta., edged Carnarvon Park of Victoria 3-2 Sunday to win the Western Canada Pony League baseball championship.

Host Port Coquitlam was third, while Gilbert Plains, Man., was last in the four-team tournament.

Red Deer fell behind 1-0 in the first inning of Sunday's final when Bob Bogoscowski doubled, then scored on an error.

Consecutive singles by Brad Kucak and Dan Vincent in the second gave Alberta a 2-1 lead, but Victoria tied the game in the third when Steve Dietrich scored on Ryan Campbell's single.

Red Deer beat Victoria 4-2 Friday, then stopped Port Coquitlam 7-2 Saturday. Victoria defeated Gilbert Plains 5-2 and Port Coquitlam 3-2 to advance to the final.

Castaways Tie Alcos By Trimming Nanaimo

Castaways moved into a tie for first place with Alcos in the tight Victoria and District Cricket Association race with a four-wicket victory Sunday over Nanaimo at Beacon Hill Park.

In the other league match, Albion downed Saanich by 57 runs at the University of Victoria.

On Saturday, Alcos downed Oak Bay by 57 runs in a regular league match at Windsor Park and Incogs tripped Cowichan by six wickets in a CJVI 40-overs match at Shawnigan Lake.

Incogs, Oak Bay and Albion share the lead in the CJVI competition with 3-1 records. Castaways are 2-2, Alcos are 1-3 and Cowichan is 0-4. Each team has one game remaining.

Home Run Trips Vicettes in Final

KAMLOOPS — A home run in the sixth inning gave Nanaimo a 4-3 triumph over Victoria Vicettes Sunday in the final game of the British Columbia women's senior B softball championship tournament.

Nanaimo had advanced to the final with wins over Kamloops, Vancouver and Victoria, which rebounded from the semi-final loss to defeat Vancouver Fraser Arms 5-3 and earn another shot at Nanaimo in the final.

In earlier games of the double-loss-elimination tourney, the Vicettes had scored three shutout victories, downing Vernon 3-0, Richmond 6-0 and Prince George 5-0.

Hornets Start By Blasting Farmers 48-0

Guy Prevost set the pace for Hornets with five touchdowns while Kim Munro, who also kicked two field goals and five conversions, and Martin Wyman scored single TDs.

A scheduled game between Nanaimo and Juan de Fuca in the Hub City was postponed because of officiating problems.

EDMONTON (CP) — Gar Hamilton of Toronto celebrated his 29th birthday a day late Sunday by collecting the $3,000 first prize at the Alberta Open golf championship.

The fifth-year Canadian professional, now making his home in Indianapolis, came in with a final-round 72 and a 54-hole total of 209, four under par over the tough, 6,600-yard Windermere course here.

Hamilton was one over par in the closing round but that was good enough to withstand a late rally by his nearest pursuer, Cec Ferguson of Victoria, who ended three shots back at 212.

Ferguson, six strokes behind Hamilton at the turn Sunday, birdied four of the first six holes on the back nine, and climbed to within a single shot of the struggling Hamilton, who bogied the 16th hole.

It was a good tournament for Victoria pros as two others finished in the top five. Victoria's John Morgan fired a 70, one under par, to finish in third place at 215, but was never a threat to the leaders. And southpaw Bob Beauchemin of Victoria closed with a 70 to tie veteran Moe Norman for fourth place, both at 216.

Mike Zichy, a former Victorian now living in Salmon Arm, was the top amateur with 72-75-72 — 219.

The Windermere course gave up only six sub-par rounds in three days of play.

"I said after I shot the 66 that I was trying to be more aggressive," said Hamilton, who led all the way after an opening five-under round.

"But I started to slide back today—to a point. Until I realized Cec was only a shot back. Then I made a couple of important putts."

It was the first tournament victory in nearly three years for Hamilton, who has spent most of this year sharpening his game in Europe.

Willie Misses

TORONTO (CP) — Dream Maker, getting all the cover he needed, collared favorite Governor Skipper in midstretch and went on to score a surprise victory in Saturday night's $89,500 Canadian Pacing Derby at Greenwood.

The five-year-old Dream Maker paced the mile in 1:56 1-5, the fastest mile ever recorded at Greenwood, finishing 1¾ lengths in front of Governor Skipper. Rambling Willie, the Derby's defending champion and former track record holder with a mile of 1:57 1-5, missed in his bid to become the sport's all-time money winner in pacing.

The eight-year-old gelding needed to finish fourth or better to surpass the record of $1,201,470 held by Albatross.

PUTTING WHIZ ADDS TO HIS REPUTATION

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland (AP) — Ken Brown, a lanky 21-year-old Briton, one-putted the last four greens for a final-round 70 and a seven-under-par 281 to win the Irish Open golf championship on Sunday.

It was the first major title for Brown, known in Europe for his accurate putting. He won $19,500.

Local favorite John O'Leary, the third-round leader, shot a par 72 Sunday to finish one stroke behind at 282 along with Spain's Severiano Ballesteros, who broke the course record by two strokes with a 65.

Hamlin Crashes Winner's Circle

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Shelley Hamlin sank a six-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole Sunday and took advantage of two double bogeys by Kathy Whitworth to win the $75,000 Patty Berg women's golf tournament at Keller Golf Course.

Hamlin shot a four-under-par 69 for a 54-hole total of 208 to edge Whitworth by one stroke. The 11-under-par performance gave Hamlin her first tour victory and was worth $11,000.

Sandra Post, former native of Oakville, Ont., now living in Florida, had a 74 in the final round, to go with earlier scores of 68 and 72, for a total of 214 to earn $1,950. Dale Shaw of Victoria shot a 76 in the final round for 221 and $290, while Quebec's Jocelyn Bourassa had a 76 for 225. Shaw had earlier scores of 72 and 73 while Bourassa had earlier rounds of 74 and 75.

Whitworth, the LPGA's all-time money-winner, appeared to take charge with birdies on her first four holes to assume a three-stroke lead over Floyd but ran into grief with double bogeys on the 14th and 17th holes.

Being Honorable Sometimes Hurts

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Tom Watson is the year's leading money-winner again, holder of four 1978 tournament titles, in position to gain another Player-of-the-Year title and closing in on other ambitions such as the Vardon Trophy and Ryder Cup.

At least some of those good things can be attributed to the instant, iron-clad and unhesitating adherence to the rules of golf by Tom Kite, who called a self-imposed penalty for an infraction no one else saw, a penalty that eventually knocked him out of a playoff role and let Watson escape with the Hall of Fame tournament.

"That cost me the tournament," a disconsolate Kite said Sunday, then responded to a question: "You're damn right it hurts."

The incident, which occured well out of the range of the national television cameras and wasn't even observed by Kite's playing partners, Hale Irwin and Howard Twitty, took place on the fifth hole of the final round.

Kite had missed a 15-foot birdie putt. He had a tap-in of less than a foot for a par. As he set the club down, the ball rolled, "about this much," he said and held thumb and forefinger less than one-quarter inch apart.

Under the rules, it was a one-shot penalty. Kite immediately stepped back from the ball and told Irwin: "I'm calling a penalty. My ball moved."

Neither Irwin nor Twitty saw it. Those three eventually tied for second behind Watson—by the margin of the one-stroke penalty Kite called on himself.

The victory was worth $50,000 and pushed Watson's earnings to a leading $303,429. He also moved ahead of Lee Trevino in the Vardon Trophy standings for the leading stroke average on the tour, 70.18 to 70.31.

And, with his previous wins in Tucson, the Bing Crosby and Byron Nelson, he's won more American tournaments than any other player this season.

BOOKS ADD COLOR, WARMTH TO ROOM

LINE GRAVES

Books evidence a civilized and cultured person. They also add warmth and color to a room. And bookcases, whether free-standing or built-in, are important to a room's decor because of size alone. But not always can a room handle a large furniture piece, even when the room's function claims the presence of books to round out the over-all scheme.

Such was the case in the room seen here, by interior designer Carole Eichen. The needed furniture, such as couch, desk and chairs, took up all the floor space, and just one wall was free of architectural features. This provided the only possibility for shelves, even though they couldn't stand on the floor. They took to the wall instead, in a design that appears to be totally suspended. But the end pieces, against the side walls, go from floor to ceiling and give good support. Angle irons and brackets help also.

The shelves travel around the wall perimeter, leaving a 6-foot wide space in the centre, framing the sofa below. In fact, the bottom shelf is 12 inches above the sofa back. The other shelves are 16 inches apart, and they are 31 inches wide, made of 1''x10''s which look heavier because of the 2-inch facing that fronts the entire structure.

Stained a dark color, the structure balances the heavy upholstered pieces and the dark furniture used elsewhere in the room. Decoratives and seldom used books occupy the top shelf for obvious reasons. Reference and needed books are on the lower shelves.

Death Study Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Doctors and hospital workers do not know how to ease the pain of terminally ill patients, says an official of the Ontario Advisory Council on Senior Citizens.

"Many patients want to talk about death but all they are told is, 'Oh, you'll be fine next week,' " council chairman Hope Holmested said in an interview. "This just drives them further into themselves."

Although the health professions are largely to blame for this unnecessary suffering, society in general is avoiding its responsibility, she said.

"We're going back to putting the old person out on an ice floe with a bowl" as in the Eskimo culture, she said.

Miss Holmested said the two-year training given most nurses is not enough to prepare them for the problems of older people. Doctors shy away from geriatrics because "it's not a glamorous enough specialty."

In a report released this week, the advisory council recommended the government set up units in hospitals similar to those in Montreal and London to help dying patients.

The report also recommended that community and religious groups be used to help terminal patients, and that the health ministry impose a daily charge for room and board to discourage patients from using the more costly chronic care paid for by Ontario Health Insurance Plan.

The council also asked the education ministry to check textbooks to ensure they exclude stereotypes of old persons.

Miss Manners

Some Promises can be Broken

By JUDITH MARTIN
Washington Post

You may have heard that a California judge recently ruled that a young man who was stood up by a young woman with whom he had a dinner and theatre date was not entitled to compensation for his time and expenses.

You may think this means you may break any social engagement you choose without notice. You think wrong.

Judge Richard P. Figone of the San Francisco Small Claims Court may have been correct when he ruled that "the promise to engage in a social relationship for one evening in exchange for affection and-or one evening at the theatre is unenforceable under the law of contracts and torts."

But he should have consulted Miss Manners before he went on to write that "the promise to attend a social engagement is always conditioned by the promiser's ability or disposition to attend the event."

Not always. There are social engagements that may be broken, and those that may not.

For example, a time-honored method of indicating you do not wish to fulfill an engagement to be married is to fail to show up at the altar. It is a dramatic and effective way to indicate that your ability or disposition to go on has changed. However, it is quite another thing to fail to show up at the altar if you have promised to be a maid of honor or a best man. That would be truly unforgivable.

In the matter of dinner engagements, the following may not be broken under any circumstances short of sudden death: seated dinners for 10 people or fewer, dinners at which you have been requested by the hosts to help entertain a difficult guest, and restaurant meals when you have promised to meet one other person and cannot notify him or her that you will not be there, leaving that person to sit there playing with the napkin for everyone to see.

As for theatre engagements, it depends on how hard it was to get tickets.

Miss Manners Responds

Q: When eating stewed prunes, where is the proper place to put the pits? I am assuming that the whole prune is put into the mouth. Is the pit eased as unobtrusively as possible back onto the spoon and then put in — on — where?

A: Stewed or not, you must take inedibles out the way you put them in. The rule is that, if you put it in your mouth with your hand, you must take it out with the hand; if you put it in with the spoon — and let us hope that in the case of stewed prunes, that is what you did — it comes out onto the soon. (The exception to this rule is fish bones. Fish never do anything like anybody else, which is probably what comes of breathing water. But that is another story.) The skill here is to get the pit clean while it is still in your mouth, so that what comes out has no food attached to it. It is fun to watch the facial manoeuvres of a person trying to do this. Now — where do you put the pit? On the plate under the dish in which the prunes were served. If you were thinking of slipping it under the table to the dog, forget it. The dog would have a worse problem with it than you.

Q: I received a reminder card for a dinner to which I never received an invitation. There is not even a telephone number on the card I can call to find out who these people are. I have the feeling this is a clever manoeuvre to make me feel obliged to go to a party given by people I don't know and don't wish to know. Do I need to inform them that I'm not coming?

A: Send them a reminder card to remind them of this fact.

Q: My sister is getting married and does not want to invite my father's second wife because the relationship between the second wife and our whole family is poor. Also, the reception is being held at my mother's home.

A: Good for your sister. With any luck, she can start a quarrel that could last for generations. And after all, what are weddings for?

Q: I believe that ceremonies of the table add greatly to the proper tone of dining with friends. So, I always study the correct manner in which to carve the main course. My source book is generally good, except on one course. It says that for tongue, it is "cut across in tolerable thick slices." My question is, how great is a tolerable thick slice of tongue?

A: There seems to be confusion of tongues here. There is the tongue on the platter, right? And there is the tongue in your head. It is the latter tongue to which your source is referring in connection with toleration. Cut the slice to a thickness that you think would be pleasantly tolerable on your tongue.

Feeling incorrect? Address your etiquette questions (in black or blue-black ink on white letter paper) to Miss Manners, c/o the Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C., V8W 2N4.

Cheese should be served at room temperature. remove it from the refrigerator at least half an hour before you want to serve it to bring out its full flavor.

The 20-page illustrated booklet, Dutch Treats with Holland imported Cheese, offers interesting serving suggestions and imaginative recipes. Some of the recipes have been adapted to the metric system. In addition, you will find tips on how to buy. store, slice, shred and serve cheese, as well as instructions on how to create professional looking garnishes, such as Carrot Daisies, Radish Fans, Celery Curls and Lemon Twists.

The booklet tells you that the main difference between Edam and Gouda cheese is their butterfat content. For Edam this is 22 per cent and for Gouda 25 per cent.

Edam is left to age for two to three months; Gouda ripens in from three weeks to more than six months, depending on whether it is meant to be mild or strong. Both cheeses are semi-soft, mellow and buttery and have a nut-like flavor. Edam has a slightly firmer texture.

Also included in the booklet is a chart which shows the nutritional values of Gouda and Edam compared with Beef, Halibut and Egg Yolk.

'My Hands No Longer Worked'

LONDON — Seven years ago Jacqueline du Pre stopped playing the cello that had occupied her life since she was four years old. "My hands no longer worked," she recalled, in a matter-of-fact manner. "I simply couldn't feel the strings."

Since then she has confronted the facts that she may never play again, nor stand unaided, nor dress herself, nor cook meals, nor travel freely with her peripatetic husband, the conductor-pianist Daniel Barenboim.

Her symptoms were quickly diagnosed as multiple sclerosis, defined by Webster as: "A diseased condition of the brain, or the spinal cord, or both, in which parts of the nerve tissue degenerate and become replaced by patches of hardened neuroglial tissue. It is associated with partial or complete paralysis, jerking tremor of the muscles, headaches, and other symptoms, depending on the location of the lesions, and is often fatal."

Its onslaught was sudden. One day Miss du Pre, who is now 33 years old, was described as a strapping, jet-setting musical whirlwind and months later she was in bed, paralyzed. "In the beginning it didn't register," she remembered. "I didn't know that it meant never playing."

Until her illness, music had filled her life, and her marriage to Barenboim, himself a Wunderkind, was synergetic in its enhancement of both careers.

"They were the most golden musical couple to capture the public attention since Clara and Robert Schumann," one noted music critic said recently.

In her home in a quiet Knightsbridge mews, Miss du Pre reflected on how she was now expending her artistic energies, dealing with frustration and anger of helplessness, developing new interests and renewing personal relationships.

At first, questions about the future had overwhelmed her: "Did it mean staying in hospital? Could we get attention at home? And what on earth am I going to do now?"

She was faced with having to remake her life mentally. Her past 10 years had been spent as a performing artist, much in demand everywhere. Now she was immobilized in a wheelchair. "What you must do is rechannel the artistic energy," she said. She has been teaching a master class of a dozen students in her living room.

"I've tried to put my energy into teaching, which isn't easy because most teachers teach by demonstration," she reflected. "Since I learned music instinctively I never had to think about it. Now I am forced to be totally articulate because I can't demonstrate."

She attempts to transmit, verbally, her feelings about music. "I try to remember what I loved and I've learned how to put these thoughts into words," she said. In the living room her cello sits atop the baby grand and, in the corner is a photographs by Lord Snowdon of Miss du Pre playing.

Du Pre and her beloved cello

Besides the sadness of no longer being able to play, Miss du Pre also endures the problems common to sufferers of this disease. For the first four years of her illness she was in and out of hospitals in London and New York. Then, three years ago, she met Margot Fonteyn, whose husband is a paraplegic, in New York. "When I returned to England I was completely paralyzed and had to go directly into hospital," Miss du Pre said. "Margot heard about it and 10 days later we were installed in this house."

The three-storey structure, which belongs to Miss Fonteyn, has a ramp outside the front door and an elevator inside. Miss du Pre, who has been in a wheelchair for a year, cannot negotiate either on her own.

"The house wasn't built with a wheelchair in mind," she observed.

"I can't get into the lift myself. The main floor toilet is too narrow and everything in the kitchen is a bit too high." She burned herself severely on her first attempt at cooking.

Nothing is done spontaneously. "One can't help a certain amount of regimentation," she said. "You just have to lump it." A full-time nurse lives in the house. "I often want to be alone so I have to plan that, too."

Although she tires easily from her structured day, which begins with a daily visit to the doctor, then physiotherapy several times a week, she reads avidly and has developed an interest in the theatre.

This, too, takes careful planning, as do sorties to concerts. "I can't take a taxi because the step's too high," she said. "And there aren't many theatres that have accommodation for wheelchairs, so you need someone to lift."

Going for outings in the wheelchair also had its problems. "When the wind is blowing it might not seem cold to a person who's walking but you can get frozen," Miss du Pre explained. "You're static."

For a mentally active person, this is painfully frustrating but Miss du Pre has learned to deal with her anger. "One can't walk off," she said. "One has to try mentally to deal with it."

She is sanguine about the future. "Nobody knows if I'll ever regain mobility," she noted. "It could be that next week I'll find myself walking down the road. I believe in realistic optimism but not wishful thinking."

Miss du Pre shows a quiet gratitude and affection to those friends and family who support her. "One learns to cherish very much what and whom one loves," she said simply. "You have the time to do that.

By MICHAEL LAMM

Dear Mike: I've been flushing my engine, trying to stop a tapping noise that's audible for five to six seconds after start in the morning. The car is a 1972 Barracuda with 76,000 miles. The tapping remains audible as long as the red oil-pressure light stays on. When the light goes off, the tapping stops. I've flushed the crankcase with a five-minute flush; also have removed the rocker covers and scraped out the sludge. Should I take down the pan to get the crud out? I'd like to save the engine before it's too late. — TAPPING.

Dear Tap: Flushing your crankcase might help if the problem were a sticky valve lifter, but I don't believe it is. Your description indicates a loose bearing that's dry when you start the engine and then gets cushioned with oil when the pressure rises. I can only suggest that you drive very cautiously and let the engine warm up slowly each morning before you take off. Eventually you'll probably need an overhaul.

Dear Mike: I'm having a radiator problem with my 1968 Cougar. After I park and turn off the engine, water leaks out the radiator overflow tube. I have changed caps. I don't overfill the radiator, but I have to add about a gallon of coolant a week. The radiator is new and doesn't leak. — BAFFLED.

Dear Baffled: Perhaps a cap with a higher pressure rating will help. Surely a recovery system will, and you can now buy one for about $3 at most auto stores.

Dear Mike: I'm the original owner of a 1970 Ford LTD. The car runs great, but the transmission is acting funny. It works fine just driving along, but when I want to speed up and push down hard on the accelerator, the engine just races and the car doesn't gain speed right away. Can you tell me what's up? — RACING.

Dear Racing: Check your fluid level. It might be low. Also smell the fluid on the end of the dipstick to see if it's been burned from overheating the transmission. If both those checks turn out all right, you'd best see an automatic transmission specialist.

You're invited to send your automotive questions to Michael Lamm, Box 7607-B, Stockton, Calif. 95207. Not all questions can be answered personally. Those of broadest reader interest will appear in future columns.

Bio-dex

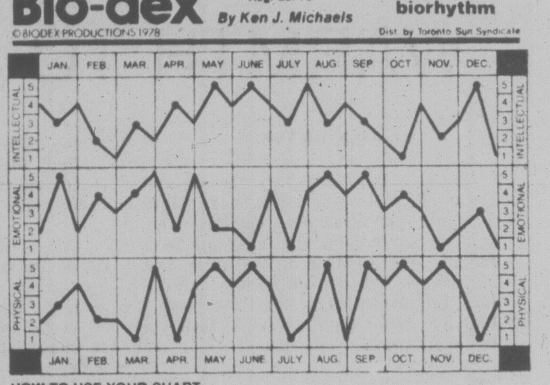
Aug. 29/78

By Ken J. Michaels

Your computerized biorhythm

© BIODEX PRODUCTIONS 1978

Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	You may feel tired more easily these days. Be sure to eat well and get plenty of sleep.

There's no sweeter music than the sound of hundreds of silver dollars cascading out of a Las Vegas slot machine. The comment by the winner sounds fascinating: "My Bio-dex must be high!" Sorry, but I don't believe the machine knows the difference. The only advantage of a high Bio-dex at that point is to help you make the right decision. Head for the airport while you are ahead!

Should you have to pick a few green tomatoes because a storm or animal knocked them from the vine, don't place them in direct sunlight to ripen. The added heat can deteriorate a tomato's quality. Direct light isn't necessary to ripen such tomatoes, but a little light helps to increase their color.

A mustard stain on a plastic counter top is a stubborn one. Don't use scouring powder or toilet bowl cleaners; they're too strong for the plastic. Daub a little household bleach or lacquer thinner onto the stain, says a plastic counter maker. Then rinse quickly and polish dry.

Diet Control, Drugs Ease Blood Pressure

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Hypertension, or high blood pressure, stands out as one of the major public health problems. Unrecognized hypertension and delay in treatment can be responsible for heart and stroke complications. These and other sad by-products of untreated high blood pressure can all be materially lowered if patients do not interrupt the regimen of diet control and medication.

One of the areas of greatest concern that doctors have is the carelessness with which prescribed medication is taken. Far too often, when patients seem to feel better, they have a tendency to stop medication altogether. Yet for those who are careless or forgetful about taking medicine, it is true that a loss of weight by a rigid diet over a long period of time can be most effective in lowering blood pressure. This, mind you, even without taking medicine.

A group of doctors at the Tel Aviv Medical School in Israel found that loss of weight effectively lowered blood pressure in a large group of patients under their supervision. So significant are their findings that they consider weight loss the first step in the active treatment of the overweight person with high blood pressure.

In the New England Journal of Medicine, Dr. Efrain Reisin states, "Weight control seems to offer an efficient low cost means of blood pressure control that is free of side effects. With weight control, there is a lessened need for large doses of medicine."

This is an interesting contribution to the control of high blood pressure. Yet it must be emphasized that the ideal way to treat hypertension is by rigidly conforming to the total program of drugs and weight control.

Parents can relax a bit because of the general reduction of violence now seen on television. A study sponsored by the American Medical Association and the National Institute of Mental Health showed that television violence reached an all-time high in 1976. Because of pressure groups and educational campaigns, the major television networks are respecting the advice of these educators and are assuming a greater responsibility to their young viewers.

Study profiles show that many parents (even those without psychological training) can correlate their children's behavior in terms of the degree of violence that they are exposed to. Let us hope that this is the beginning of a new era where hate, anger, violence and revenge are not glorified on children's television programs.

AA 'Saves' Most

CHICAGO (UPI) — Former alcoholics simply cannot risk trying to be social drinkers, even though a few have succeeded, a physician who treats alcholics says.

"While some day we may be able to offer goals of controlled drinking to selected patients, at our present level of knowledge, we should continue to recommend abstinence as the treatment that offers the best chance of optimal functioning," Brian R. Nagy of the Southern Tier Alcoholism Rehabilitation Service, Elmira, N.Y., wrote in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Nagy agreed with Alcoholics Anonymous, which has long espoused abstinence as the only goal for anyone who has had problems with alcohol.

"Without question, AA has 'saved' more alcoholics than any other treatment, organization or institution," Nagy wrote.

The Rand Corp. in June 1976 issued a report on alcholism that seemed to imply that alcoholics could return to social drinking, Nagy noted. However, he said the Rand report did not say alcoholics could safely return to social drinking.

"Since many alcoholics are apparently going to return to some degree of drinking anyway, and since there is still a sizable group that for whatever reasons has not benefited from other alcoholism treatment or AA, can alcoholics be taught to drink in a more normal fashion, ie, can they return to social drinking without the adverse consequences?

"This is an important and legitimate research question, and responsible research into this area should be encouraged."

"The patient may choose to return to some degree of controlled drinking," Nagy said. "If he is able to control his drinking, all will rejoice."

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: Since statistics show that 98.3 per cent of all child molesters are heterosexual, I'm organizing a crusade to prohibit heterosexual teachers from instructing children of the opposite sex.

I don't want my daughter molested by heterosexual male teacher, or my son seduced by a heterosexual female teacher. I'd appreciate your comments.

CONCERNED PARENT

DEAR PARENT: Your statistics are correct, but banning all heterosexual teachers on the chance that one might molest a child is unfair. However, if you proceed with your crusade, be sure to enlist the help of Anita Bryant — since she wants so desperately to "save" our children.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 38 years and my problem is my mother-in-law. Mums has been a widow for 10 years. She lives 400 miles from here, and spends most of her time and money just traveling around visiting relatives.

We have a guest room, but Mums prefers to sleep on the living room sofa where she can see and hear everything. And she snores so loud we can't hear the TV.

She complains about my coffee, my cooking, our children and our grandchildren. She soaks her false teeth in one of my best china cups, and when she leaves I have to throw the cup out.

We never now when she's coming. She just calls us from the bus depot and tells us to come and get her. If we had plans to go out of town ourselves, it's too bad. We can't leave her in our home alone because she never locks a door. She's not forgetful — just trusting.

I have a strange feeling she's headed this way and I don't think I can stand another one of her visits. When she comes she stays anywhere from three days to three months. Help!

HAD IT WITH MUMS

DEAR HAD IT: A telephone call to Mums would put you at ease. Call her and find out what her plans are.

Next time she comes, tell her where you want her to sleep and where to soak her false teeth, and also set a time limit on her visit. And while she's in your home, be firm with the crusty old girl. She sound like she'd rather enjoy going a few rounds with her family.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very personal problem I need help with, but I want to be sure you get my letter.

Where shall I send it? Thank you.

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: Write to Abby, P.O. Box No. 69700, Lost Angeles, Calif. 90069. And please enclose a stamped (15 cents), self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BARBARA: If you marry him for his money, you may have to divorce him to get it.

'Movie Maggie' Reported Missing Children

NEW YORK — People magazine again has cornered the market on Margaret Trudeau and made her its latest cover girl.

As she approaches her 30th birthday, the estranged wife of the Canadian prime minister is fighting loneliness, dating, making movies and finding, "Hey, I can survive," the weekly magazine says.

In its Sept. 4 issue, People publishes an interview with Margaret by free-lance writer Alan Markfield in the south of France where she is filming her second movie.

She'll be 30 on Sept. 10.

Margaret is reported least certain of all about leaving the Prime Minister Trudeau and their three sons — Justin, Sasha and Michel. The magazine says filming on location in Cassis near Marseille has made it impossible for her to fulfil her usual 10-day monthly visit with the children.

"I miss the children terribly," Margaret is quoted as saying. "And I love my husband. It's the best relationship I've ever had in my life. There was no time limit put on our separation — it was simply a statement of freedom."

Her first film, a psycho-drama called Kings and Desperate Men, was shot in Montreal.

She'll spend her birthday on the set of her second movie, L'Ange Gardien, a light romance being shot on the French Riviera and directed by Jacques Fournier.

SIMPLE RITES SET FOR ACTOR BOYER

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — A simple graveside ceremony was prepared todayfor Charles Boyer, the French-born actor who never uttered the line for which he was most famous in the minds of a generation of moviegoers — "Come with me to the Casbah."

He died Saturday, just two days after the death of his wife of 34 years, and two days before what would have been his 79th birthday.

He was found unconscious by a maid Saturday morning at the home of a friend in Scottsdale, Ariz. He was believed to have suffered a heart attack.

The couple was married in February 1944. Their only child, Michael, died of a self-inflcted gunshot wound in 1965 at the age of 22.

Nixon Takes Political Step

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — Backed up by a pool-side buffet and a strolling mariache band, Richard Nixon took his first step back into party politics Sunday by hosting a $100,000-plus Republican party fund-raiser at his estate.

It was the latest in a series of carefully spaced public appearances by Nixon and the first time he had involved himself in Republican party affairs since Watergate forced his resignation from the presidency in August 1974.

DUBLIN, Ireland — Actor and writer Robert Shaw, perhaps best known for his role as the shark hunter in Jaws, collapsed by a roadside Sunday and died of a heart attack, police said today. He was 52.

MONTREAL — Hollywood actors and international cinema directors partied under the stars on the weekend at an unusual block party held on the largest movie set ever built in Canada.

The off-beat event was thrown by Sandy Howard and Harold Greenberg to honor the second World Film Festival which opened here during the weekend.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — Former president Isabel Peron has moved into a new private prison that has a swimming pool and riding stables. Mrs. Peron has been a prisoner since the March, 1974 bloodless coup that ousted her.

NEW YORK — Joan Crawford's adopted daughter, Christina, says her mother beat her on the head with a can of cleanser when she was a child because she had failed to clean a closet to her mother's satisfaction.

OTTAWA — External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson will leave his Newfoundland constituency of Burin-Burgeo Tuesday for the funeral of Kenyan President Jomo Kenyatta in Nairobi, a spokesman for the minister said today.

MOSPORT, Ont. — A crowd of 110,000 persons sitting on the grass inside the track of Mosport raceway attended the $1-million Canada Jam, a day-long rock concert.

STRATFORD, Ont. — William Hutt, Canada's most distinguished Shakespearean, held an opening night audience wrapt for nearly three hours Saturday in the title role of the rarely performed Titus Andronicus.

GENEVA, Switzerland — Geli Dneprovsky, accused by U.S. and British diplomats of being a Soviet KGB secret police officer, has taken over the post of personnel director of U.N. European headquarters.

AJACCIO, Corsica — Former Italian Crown Prince Victor Emmanuel, 41, a well-known European jetsetter, was released from jail Saturday pending trial on charges he shot a 19-year-old German tourist during a scuffle near the prince's yacht.

NARSSARSSUAQ, Greenland — Japanese adventurer Noami Uemura relaxed Sunday after being taken off the Greenland ice cap by air at the end of a lone 1,875-mile dog sled trip from the northernmost tip of this vast Arctic island.

Korchnoi Fears Radioactivity

BAGUIO, Philippines — Challenger Viktor Korchnoi has protested a mysterious increase of radioactivity in the hall where the world chess championship is being played.

Viktor Baturinsky, chief representative of champion Anatoly Karpov, said a senior Korchnoi aide raised the issue during a meeting Sunday of the world chess jury.

"Today at the jury meeting, there cropped up a new question," Baturinsky said at a party Sunday evening for Karpov after he scored his fourth win Saturday.

"I'd like to inform you officially that I have not thrown the atomic bomb in the Philippines," Baturinsky said.

Filipino military authorities said at that time it was a "false alarm."

But specialists from the Philippine Atomic Energy Commission were called to Baguio to examine the charge.

During a match last year against Russian Boris Spassky, Korchnoi charged the Soviets were bombarding him with secret rays to disturb his concentration.

Study Bridge

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — The cities of Copenhagen and Malmoe, Sweden, are discussing building a bridge over the 31-kilometre Oeresund between them. Mayor Egon Weidekamp said a joint committee has been set up to study the possibility of forming a private company to build and operate the bridge.

At Stake: The World's Future

God may be in his heaven, but according to the consensus reached by the national conference of World Federalists of Canada over the weekend, there's a lot wrong with the world.

After three days of lengthy and at times ponderous discussion on such subjects as disarmament, depletion of reserves, and world poverty, the 200-plus delegates meeting at Lester Pearson College of the Pacific, agreed that change can only be brought about through massive public support and education.

At stake, they said, is the future of the world, or at least the role mankind will play in that future.

The delegates concluded man has no future whatsoever unless the awesome proliferation of arms is curbed, pollution effectively combatted, the spiralling population growth stemmed, and a fairer sharing of resources and wealth realized.

It was time, said delegate Dr. Norman Alcock at the final session on Sunday, to end the timid, mouse-like approach characterized by concerned citizens up to now. They are going to have to raise hell to effect change, he said.

The conference sounded the clarion for more people to get involved in the political process, to question, for example, Canada's intended expenditure of $2.25 billion on new fighter planes or the government's performance in selling arms and nuclear reactors to potentially powderkeg countries like South Korea and Pakistan.

He said the dramatic price increases in recent years of oil and petrochemical based fertilizers has assured the failure of development programs in under-developed countries.

Moreover, he added, the need for more land for cultivation purposes will spell doom for countless animal species.

"It saddens me to know such animals as zebra, giraffe, elephant, tiger, lion, and chimpanzee, to name only a few of the larger and better known animals, will probably cease to exist in nature as natural functioning populations.

"They will go the way of the passenger pigeon — totally extinct — or the way of the North American bison — existing only in zoos or small enclosed areas.

"The next 30 years, barring nuclear war, will see a most dramatic change to the existence of the animals and birds, and even fish populations, that the world has ever seen.

"It will be animal genocide on a massive scale."

He said only about 30 per cent of the world enjoys good water supplies and less than 20 per cent has adequate waste disposal systems.

He pointed out a population the size of Ottawa or the entire Greater Victoria area is dying every day from dangerous water-borne diseases.

The lack of irrigation and flood control is creating enormous problems in maintaining an adequate level of food production in Third World countries.

Yet, he said, those countries have neither the capital nor the technical wherewithall to come up with solutions.

He was optimistic, however, that world attention is now being focussed on the problems, but the question of whether enough money can be raised — $6 billion for water supplies and $3 billion for waste disposal schemes — remained unanswered.

Dr. Hugh Kennleyside, who chaired one of the panel discussions, quoted a statement made by British economist Barbara Ward who said at the Habitat conference in Vancouver two years ago that if one tenth of one per cent of the money spent on military purposes were diverted to water projects over the next 10 years, every person in the world would be provided with a good safe water supply.

The capitalist economic system also came under the gun of delegates.

In an emotional outburst, one delegate, Dr. P.C. Simon of Vancouver, a native of India, said the system was keeping the poor countries poor and widening the gulf with the rich, developed nations.

"Instead of buying the things we produce, you give us charity," he implored, waving his hands.

"Well, I say charity is degrading," he shouted. "Down with charity."

"The Third World is angry," said Dr. J. Mac Dube of Nanaimo, a panelist on world poverty problems. "Help has to be based on more than charity."

He said trade decisions are made at the expense of under-developed countries.

Why should India be forced to grow tea, he asked, when the country can't produce enough food to feed its millions? Why should Bangladesh be made to grow jute when its masses our starving? And why should Senegal, where there's drought and famine, continue to produce cotton and groundnuts for export?

"The colonial experience has put these people in a certain straightjacket of development," he said.

Another panelist, Rev. Gerry Grant of Chicago, called for a new international economic order.

"The Third World nations are not demanding a resharing of the wealth; they are not asking us to give up our standard of living, but merely to admit them to the trade markets on an equal footing to ourselves," said Grant, council chairman for the World Association of World Federalists.

Grant said one of the reasons Third World nations remain poor is the monetary system and suggested there should be but one currency.

He said tariffs, too, limit the capacity of under-developed nations to improve their lot.

"They (the tariffs) allow for a double standard in the market place. They create two systems of weights and measures."

He blamed big corporations for many of the problems. "We have no control over them. They do exactly what they want."

However, the big corporations found a defender in another panelist, Stanley Burke, a broadcaster and publisher of the Nanaimo Times.

"The modern corporation isn't quite the devil some people think it to be," he said. "As institutions affecting technological change, they are more efficient that governments."

He suggested the role of the corporation should be re-examined.

Grant agreed corporations manage their affairs well "but they manage well only for their own benefit . . and leave behind the wreckage of distorted lives and ruined countrysides."

The conference wound up on Sunday. Among the resolutions for action approved was one proposed by David Anderson who felt letters outlining WFC concerns should be sent to every candidate in the next federal election.

Anderson is running as the liberal candidate in the Cowichan-Gulf Islands riding.

Victoria Roman Catholic Bishop Remi de Roo delivered the final address. He called for a convergence of all groups striving for a new world order and said the ultimate aim is to help people ask the right questions.

"Not until people start asking some deeper questions," he said, "will we be on our way towards effective solutions."

World Vote on Disarmament His Goal

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Jim Stark is a man of vision but he's set himself a seeming impossible task.

He's out to convince the nations of the world they should hold a referendum on the question of nuclear disarmament.

The way Stark, a 35-year-old sociologist from Toronto, sees it, a global referendum is the most logical — and most achievable — way of bringing pressure to bear on the superpowers to force them to dismantle their nuclear weaponry.

"If the issue was put to people of all nations, and approved, it would be legally binding and provide an irrestible mandate," Stark said in an interview. He was in Victoria over the weekend to attend the national conference of the World Federalists of Canada at Lester Pearson College of the Pacific.

Stark has been working on the idea for several years. In April, 1977, he formed a group, Operation Dismantle, under the banner of the WFC movement.

With a team of six full-time and 13 part-time workers he has canvassed churches, factories, schools, and homes mainly in the Toronto area to measure public opinion. The group has written to 950 municipal councils across Canada, getting 35 replies, including one from B.C. — Merritt — in which the councils agreed to officially endorse the idea.

Operating on a shoestring budget funded in part by the Ontario government, but mostly by private donations and proceeds from a monthly newsletter, the Dismantler, the group has collected more than 26,000 ballots on a proposed global referendum.

The referendum reads: I am requesting the United Nations to impose total and permanent disarmament upon all the nations of earth, to offer an effective peacekeeping force automatically to any nation that needs it, and to set up whatever principles and procedures it takes to establish and maintain a world without war.

Significantly, he said, the wording comes from a joint statement signed by the United States and USSR in 1961.

The results are encouraging — more than 95 per cent voted in favor.

Even more encouraging has been the group's success in enlisting the aid of Gallup Poll.

Earlier this year the poll company, impressed by the idea of a referendum and the energy of Operation Dismantle supporters, conducted a survey of 1,031 Canadians asking the same set of questions.

The results showed 70 per cent of Canadians are in favor of a world-wide referendum carried out by the UN. Slightly fewer — 67 per cent — indicated they would vote for total nuclear disarmament, while 78 per cent agreed the UN should establish a peace-keeping force and 76 per cent approved a referendum on reorganizing the UN to allow them to take whatever measures are required to maintain global peace.

Gallup will decide later this fall whether to extend the poll to any of the 87 other countries in which it operates.

Stark said his group's next step is to get the support of the federal government.

He would not only like to see Canada propose a world referendum to the UN, but also take the initiative in offering to host a UN conference to hammer out the wording of a ballot.

In addition, he wants Canada to commit itself to be the first country to run the ballot as soon as the wording is agreed upon.

"What it depends on is momentum," he said. "First we run it in Canada, then, say Australia, then, say, Iceland. As the results come in, other countries whose national governments resist the idea of a referendum, will be pressured into falling into line."

He said the wording of the ballot could be worked out by 1980, a national ballot by 1981, and the world-wide referendum completed within five years.

The cost, he said, would be about $1 billion. But he added, that's less than one half what Canada will be spending in buying 125 new fighter planes.

"People," he said, "feel so powerless in dealing with nuclear disarmament.

"I think it can only be solved by a world authority or a world-wide political action campaign."

Nobody's got it like Pontiac's got it!

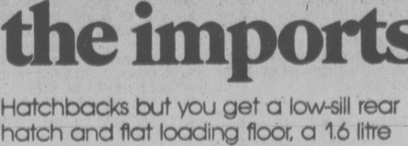
Acadian $4001.
Priced the imports lately?

If you have already, you'll know what we're talking about. If you haven't, we'd better prepare you for a shock.

Would you believe over five grand for a VW Rabbit?! And the other popular imported Hatchbacks are all up there over four grand!

Now you're probably thinking, "Okay, if that's the kind of money you have to put out to get the kind of standard features you want, well, what can you do?"

You can get down to your Pontiac dealer and check out the '78 Acadian. Not only does Acadian set you back less than the four leading imported Hatchbacks but you get a low-sill rear hatch and flat loading floor, a 1.6 litre 4-cylinder overhead-cam engine, four-on-the floor, centre console, reclining buckets, AM radio, carpeting, body side molding, whitewalls, wheel covers, and more, as standard equipment.



Pontiac Acadian: a cure for foreign shock.

PRICE THE HATCHBACKS*
Pontiac Acadian	$4001.
Honda Civic	$4645.
Ford Fiesta	$4727.
Toyota Corolla 1200	$4973.
Datsun B210	$4985.
VW Rabbit	$5275.

*Prices are based on Manufacturers' Suggested Retail Prices and specifications for 2-door hatchbacks with standard equipment obtained from readily available published sources and believed to be in effect August 1, 1978. Standard Equipment may vary with each manufacturer. Dealer may sell for less.

Manufacturers' Suggested Retail Price for a 2-door Acadian Hatchback Coupe with standard equipment. The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

"Freak" hands are the bane of every expert tournament player's existence, for a very simple reason: systems of bidding are designed to take care of normal, recurring types of hands and when freakish hands come along, guesswork replaces systemic precision. Thus the expert's chances of arriving at the optimum contract are reduced. Hence his edge over his non-expert competitors decreases.

In today's deal, which was played in a tournament, there was a variety of final contracts, for there simply was no "scientific" way of bidding the South hand.

North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
6 ♠	Pass	7 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead; Eight of ♠.

In tournament play, in this day and age, the opening bids of two spades, two hearts and two diamonds are employed as "weak" bids, showing a six-card suit within a hand containing 6-12 high-card points. On hands which, in years gone by, one opened with a strong, game-forcing bid of two in a suit, he now opens, artificially, with two clubs, and shows his real suit later on. Thus, in those cases where the weak opening bid of two in a suit was employed on this deal, South was forced to open the bidding with two clubs.

At virtually every table, over the opening two-club bid, a non-vulnerable West made the pre-emptive overcall of three diamonds, to deprive North-South of bidding space. North, not knowing what to bid although he had a good hand, elected to pass since South would bid again (North, of course, didn't know that South's best suit was spades). East, almost invariably, leaped to five diamonds. It now became almost impossible for North-South to arrive at a grand slam.

The top result was achieved by the South player who opened the bidding with six spades. From North's position, he knew that his club ace figured to be worthless. But if South could bid six spades all by himself when missing the king of spades, then that card rated to be the 13th trick. So North bid seven spades.

"We didn't start level, Mom," said Keith. "Doug had a bit more than me."

Mary smiled. "And you played only two games? You were lucky to win."

"I only won a dime," the boy replied. "Each game the loser had to pay the winner. The first game I paid Doug half what I had, and the second game he paid me 25 cents. So I ended up with 1 cent more than him."

How much did each start with?

(ANSWER TOMORROW)

Lupins Like Morning Sun.

Lupins may have been one of the common plants to be a problem to several gardeners this passing summer. Usually this handsome perennial with stately spires of pea flowers does well in this coastal area where humidity is supplied by breezes from the water and temperatures are seldom over 25 deg. C.

The best planting of lupins locally seen was a few years ago in a circular bed which centred a large driveway. I remember looking at the close-by forest trees to the west and figuring that their shade would reach the lupins soon after one o'clock.

Since scattered tall trees were nearby to the east as well, the circular bed was really only exposed to full sun for a few hours across noon. Although that is the hottest part of sun heat, it would not be a case of gradual building up, and when the sun passed the zenith, there would again be shade. In a low location, with ample moisture in the soil the air when cooled was quite humid.

All this comes back to me while pondering the problem of lupins losing their flowers and failing to open the whole spike.

The flowers have been just dropping off, some while still in the bud stage.

Sweet peas, Broad beans and Scarlet Runner beans have been acting in a similar way in some gardens. Is there a link between lupins, broad beans, and the Scarlet Runner beans? We find that they belong in the same botanical Family of leguminosae — legumes, or the Pea Family.

Some of the 500 or more members of the family like hot summers but those plants are not so commonly seen in this latitude as are peas, broad beans, lupins and Scarlet Runners beans. The bush beans (French beans), soy beans and lima beans do better in warn summers than the normally cooler ones here but this year all these produced fine crops.

Perhaps we should with experience divide the commonly grown legumes into two groups when planning our garden plantings.

Out of those few mentioned here, lupins and sweet peas can be counted on to flower well if planted where the heat of summer sun does not reach them. Give them an eastern exposure by choice.

With the edible legumes, sow broad beans and peas as early in the season as possible so they miss the heat of summer when flowering although varieties of peas have been selected for hot weather cropping; and the early kinds can again be sown in early August to flower and pod well in cooler early fall days.

It took the report of lupin flowers failing to fill the spikes to trigger this little bit of thinking. Perhaps the results will help another year when planning to grow these lovely flowers. Give them a place in morning sun only and watch the spires rise to their full beauty.

Open House Sat & Sun. 1:30-4:30 3365 Doncaster Dr. Roomy But Reasonable $54,900

From the outside it looks like a small bungalow but there is over 1500 sq. ft. of comfortable appealing living space in beautifully updated Colonial style home. Situated on a 50x175 ft. (av) tree fringed lot, the fully fenced back garden offers privacy and a woodsy atmosphere seldom found ight in town. Pillared entrance invites you to step inside the graceful foyer where glass panelled doors lead to the bright LR. Mantelled, brick FP, and wooded casement windows echo the Colonial style. Roomy kitchen has been marvelously updated with work and dining areas handsomely separate by golden ash and leather cabinets and breakfast bar, yet left open enough for easy conversation. Laundry room with good storage is ideally located off. Master BR, 12'x2"x11'3" has a nice woodsy outlook, and 2nd BR has 9x3 ft. closet for extra storage. Upstairs there are twin 14x8 ft. BR's to delight any youngster plus a large play, office or sewing area. Large, separate garage (wired) provides a good sized workshop for the handyman or craft oriented person.

Proudly Presents

DEAN PARK ESTATES

In a class by itself, this fabulous development consists of fully serviced lots with a minimum area of 15,000 sq. ft. ranging in price from $32,000 to $44,000. In a beautiful natural setting — some with panoramic views of the Gulf Islands, Mount Baker and a parade of sailboats and ships.

Located in North Saanich, on the side of the mountain adjoining John Dean Provincial Park. Underground hydro and telephone services; complete underground sanitary sewage system and treatment plant, underground domestic water system with 200,000 gallon reservoir for year-round water supply. Fully paved and curbed streets; fire hydrants and attractive street lighting.

Now is the time to choose your personal home site in this exclusive residential community that will carefully grow here. There may never again be a development like this on the Saanich Peninsula.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your adveertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Friday; 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

Soviets Try New Eye in Sky

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union is believed to be testing a new type of spy satellite that can stay in orbit and photograph the earth for a month at a time.

This would double the time that Soviet reconnaissance satellites stay in orbit. Western space observers say that Soviet space reconnaissance has always been limited by the "stay time" of Soviet satellites, until now no longer than two weeks.

The Satellite is identified by Western space experts as Cosmos 1028, launched Aug. 5. It is still in orbit, following a path that takes it as close as 110 miles to earth.

The satellite is in an orbit that inclines it a little more than 67 degrees to the earth's equator, which means it follows a path that takes it over most of China, Western Europe and the United States. The Satellite completes an orbit of the earth every 89.28 minutes.

More Tokyo Water Cuts

TOKYO (UPI) — Alert housewives headed to the hardware stores to stock up on water buckets today while the government prepared to tighten water rationing in the Japanese capital's worst drought in five years.

Stores reported a run on buckets that can be used to store water in periods when service is cut off.

The drought has not yet reached that stage, but starting today, the government is imposing a 10 per cent cut in water supplied to major industries and households in most parts of the city.

The latest cut in water supply follows a 7 per cent reduction carried out Aug. 11.

The government's Construction Ministry, which is in charge of the water problem, Sunday reported six storage dams on the Tone River, major source of water for Tokyo, now hold only 70.53 metric tons of water. That is about 20 per cent of their capacity.

The Tokyo Gas Co., the city's largest water user already has cut consumption by 43.7 per cent.

The drought results from an unusually short monsoon rain season in early summer. The summer rain period in the Japanese islands normally lasts six or seven weeks, but was only 10 days long this year.

Weather forecaster say there is no rain in sight for the main Japanese island of Honshu, where Tokyo is located.

Saudi Arbia Top Buyer Of U.S. Military Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Saudi Arabia has become far and away the biggest customer for U.S. arms and military construction aid, spending more than Iran, Israel and Egypt combined.

The latest U.S. State Department arms sale figures indicate that two new facts of life in the Middle East — high-priced oil and expensive, modern arms — have entwined the economies of the United States and Saudi Arabia.

The figures also point to another troubling trend: All sides are rapidly acquiring modern weapons of war and, if the Middle East negotiations fail, the stage could be set for a clash involving the most destructive and expensive conventional weapons.

Of the five top arms customers of the United States, four — Saudi Arabia, Iran, Israel and Egypt — are Middle Eastern states. The fifth is South Korea.

According to State Department estimates for the current year, the Saudis will spend $4.9 billion for American arms, technical aid and the construction of naval ports and airports.

That will partially offset the estimated $6.4 billion a year the United States spends for Saudi oil.

Some of the Saudi money will go for the top-line 60 F-15 jet fighters (list price: $17 million each) approved by the administration and Congress this year, plus the ground support equipment, spare parts and technical training that go with them.

According to the State Department figures, Iran, the largest U.S. arms customer in 1977 ($5.8 billion), has slipped into second place, partly because the shah was told he could have either the warplanes or the naval frigates he wanted, but not both.

He probably will take the planes and get the ships in Western Europe.

Iran will spend an estimated $2.6 billion for U.S. weapons and construction in fiscal year 1978.

Rounding out the top five, Israel will buy $1.3 billion worth of U.S. arms and related aid this year, Egypt will spend $800 million and South Korea $500 million. All are buying advanced warplanes: F-15s, F-5E's or F-4s.

SOLDIER SHOT AT WEDDING

TRIM, Irish Republic (Reuter) — A British soldier who married a farmer's daughter was shot on the steps of the church Saturday as they posed for wedding pictures.

Three-Hour Talk For Hua, Tito

PULA, Yugoslavia (Reuter) — Chinese leader Hua Kuo-feng, nearing the end of his unprecedented European tour, conferred with Yugoslav President Tito on the world's trouble spots Sunday as the Soviet Union accused him of seeking to sow discord among Communist countries.

Hua, the first Chinese Communist party chairman to venture farther West than Moscow, and the 86-year-old Yugoslav leader met for three hours at the presidential retreat on the secluded island of Brioni, close to this northern Adriatic port.

Officials said Tito spoke most of the time, concentrating on major international "hotbeds of crisis," such as the Middle East and Africa, as well as the non-aligned movement of which Yugoslavia is a part.

He also spoke in detail about Yugoslavia's unorthodox Communist system of worker self-management.

Hua reiterated China's backing for the non-aligned movement and praised Yugoslavia's role in international politics.

Chinese Canal Surveyed

PEKING (Reuter) — Survey work has been completed on one of the largest construction projects in China's history—a 1,000-kilometre canal to bring the waters of the Yangtze River to drought-prone northern areas.

The project, formally approved by parliament last March, was described by the New China news agency Friday as "the biggest in millenia of Chinese hydro-engineer-

The agency made no mention of when work will begin or how much it will cost.

The new waterway will roughly follow the line of the Grand Canal —started 2,500 years ago and finished in 22 AD—and use sections of the existing but partially silted canal.

The Grand Canal stretches 1,100 kilometres from Peking to Hangchow, south of the Yangtze, and is nearly as big an achievement as China's Great Wall.

The aim of the project is to divert about three per cent of the Yangtze north to the city of Tientsin to irrigate 10 million acres.

Fifteen locks and 30 pumping stations will be needed to lift the water from Yangchow on the lower Yangtze to a channel across the Yellow River. At this point it can flow by gravity to Tientsin.

Another Hijack Hoax?

MANILA (AP) — Two men are in military custody after a weekend plane incident that a Philippines Airlines spokesman said apparently was a joke.

Chandro Ramnani and Johnny Candumon, both of India, were detained for questioning after the pilot of a BAC-III jetliner diverted the flight Saturday night because he thought he had two hijackers aboard.

Ten minutes after the plane took off from Davao City, 980 kilometres southeast of here, Ramnani, 25, was quoted as asking a flight attendant: "Can this plane be hijacked?" and adding, as a man entered the lavatory: "Look at that man. He is going to plant a bomb in the lavatory."

The incident came eight days after a bomb exploded in the lavatory of a Philippines Airlines jetliner, wounding three passengers and hurling the suspected bomber through a gaping hole in the fuselage. The plane was brought down safely from an altitude of 8,000 metres.

The defence ministry said the stewardess reported Ramnani's statements to the pilot, who radioed for clearance to land at Cebu City. Both men were arrested and the plane continued to Manila after it was searched.

Airline spokesman Domingo Abadilla said: "It appears to us like it was just a joke."

Ex-Speaker Weds Former Secretary

Canadian Press

Ed Smith, who resigned in March as Speaker of the legislature after controversy over his appointment of his former secretary Barbara Pennock to the independent auditor-general's office, married Miss Pennock Aug. 18.

The announcement of the wedding, which appeared in Saturday's Victoria Times and Sunday's edition of the Colonist, stated: Mr. and Mrs. Allen Pennock are pleased to announce the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Dean Edward Smith, on Aug. 18, 1978, at Fort St. John.

Smith has been the Social Credit MLA for North Peace River, which includes Fort St. John, since 1966. He was elected Speaker in March, 1976, and resigned the post last March 29 during prorogation of the 31st legislature.

"I have too deep a respect for the chair and the tradition behind it to remain in office when some consider my presence an inhibiting factor," Smith told the legislature in announcing his resignation.

Miss Pennock resigned Feb. 17, saying that her continued employment might cause embarrassment to the office.

SUSPECT IN CUSTODY

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Montreal man wanted in the shooting death last December of Ferdinand Voorn now is in city police custody.

The man was arrested last week in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and taken to Montreal for questioning about a $1.5 million extortion-robbery in February of a Wells Fargo office in Longueil, Quebec.

Canadian Crew To Aid In Love Canal Cleanup

OTTAWA (CP) — Environment Canada will help in the cleanup of the chemically contaminated Love Canal in Niagara Falls, N. Y., says a department spokesman.

The department will use its recently-developed Trace Atmospheric Gas Analyzer to search for dangerous chemicals in the air at a 16-acre housing site near the canal, Gordon Rosenblatt, an employee of the department's Toronto regional office, said today.

The canal was used as a chemical dumping site from 1930 to 1953 and chemicals leaking from rusted drums began percolating to ground surface in 1976, killing plants and burning dogs and children.

Of 82 chemicals oozing out of the drums, 11 are suspected to be cancer-causing agents. Miscarriages, birth deformities, cancer and liver disease are reported common in the area.

"We had already been working on contract in the general area, testing our new device on different compounds around the canal,"

BY-LAW NO. 4148

A BY-LAW

TO ACQUIRE BY EXPROPRIATION CERTAIN REAL PROPERTY BY THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF SAANICH FOR THE WIDENING OF SAANICH ROAD

WHEREAS it is deemed necessary and in the public interest to expropriate the real property hereinafter described for the widening of Saanich Road.

NOW THEREFORE the Council of The Corporation of the District of Saanich enacts as follows:

1. This By-law may be cited for all purposes as the "SAANICH ROAD EXPROPRIATION BY-LAW, 1978, NO. 4148".
2. For the widening of Saanich Road, the Council is hereby authorized and empowered, without the consent of the owners of the real property, but subject to the provisions of Division (4) of Part XII of the Municipal Act by its servants and agents, to enter upon, expropriate, break up, take, enter into possession of and use those certain parcels of real property situate, lying and being in the Municipality of Saanich, in the Province of British Columbia, more particularly described as follows:
    - (a) Those portions of Lot 1, Section 7, Victoria District, Plan 16963 containing respectively 5 square feet more on less and 92 square feet more or less and shown outlined in red on plan of survey prepared by Michael Ecroyde Claxton, B.C.L.S. and sworn to by him on the 24th day of July, 1978, a copy of which is attached hereto.
    - (b) That portion of Lot 1, Section 7, Victoria District, Plan 14547, containing 673 square feet more or less shown outlined in red on said plan of survey.
    - (c) That portion of Lot 2, Section 7, Victoria District, Plan 14547, containing 385 square feet more or less shown outlined in red on said plan of survey.
    - (d) That portion of Lot A, Section 7, Victoria District, Plan 17993, containing 212 square feet more or less shown outlined in red on said plan of survey.
3. The Council is further authorized and empowered, by its servants and agents, to enter upon any real property which may be injuriously affected by the exercise of the powers in this By-law granted for the purpose of executing any works of construction, maintenance or repair in mitigation of injury done or apprehended or in reduction of compensation.
4. This By-law shall, before coming into effect, be published once in The British Columbia Gazette and in a newspaper published or circulating in the Municipality of Saanich, and a certified copy of the By-law shall be filed in the Land Registry Office at Victoria in the Province of British Columbia.

Passed by the Municipal Council on the eighth day of August, 1978.

Reconsidered, finally passed and adopted, signed by the Mayor and the Clerk and sealed with the Seal of the Corporation on the twenty-first day of August, 1978.

Economic Growth Improves to 4.4%

OTTAWA (CP) — The economy grew in the second quarter of 1978 at an annual rate of 4.4 per cent, Statistics Canada reported today.

The growth rate, a substantial improvement over the 2.8 per cent rate recorded in the first three months of the year, was largely due to a strong resurgence in investment and a continuation of moderate expansion in consumer and government spending, the federal agency said.

But the expansion in the economy, as measured by the gross national product (GNP) was still short of the five per cent pledged by Prime Minister Trudeau at last month's summit meeting in Bonn.

A major source of weakness in the second quarter was a marked decline in the merchandise trade surplus. Federal officials have been counting on merchandise trade as a leading component of growth.

The federal agency said a notable feature of the second-quarter figures was a significant increase in demand for goods and services within the country. That component of the GNP had been relatively weak since early 1977.

The growth of domestic demand, coupled with return to a more normal pattern of U.S. demand for Canadian exports, explained the fall in the trade surplus, Statistics Canada said.

Business machinery and equipment investment led the recovery in the investment sector.

The federal agency said the sudden resumption in growth of investment in machinery and equipment was reflected in sharp, widespread rises in imports of those goods.

POPE'S FIRST COMMENT

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul I told the cardinals who elected him, "God forgives you for what you might have done against me," Joseph Cardinal Hoeffner reported today.

Writing in a pastoral letter to members of his diocese in West Germany, Cardinal Hoeffner said the remark was the first commment made by the pope after his election Saturday. The cardinal did not elaborate.

No Future Unless . . .

Mankind has no future whatsoever unless the awesome proliferation of arms is curbed, pollution effectively combatted, the spiralling population growth stemmed, and there is a fairer sharing of resources and wealth realized, according to the World Federalists of Canada.

More than 200 delegates attended the national conference at Lester Pearson College of the Pacific during the weekend.

The conference called for more people to get involved in the political process, to question, for example, Canada's intended expenditure of $2.25 billion on new fighter planes, and to end timid, mouse-like approaches used by concerned citizens at present. See stories on Page 25.

'Bomb' Diverts Jet to Vancouver

VANCOUVER (UPI) — RCMP today held an unidentified woman in custody after a United Airlines jet en route from Denver to Seattle was forced to land at Vancouver International Airport by a passenger who said there was a bomb on board.

The woman was arrested without a struggle by two officers when the plane landed in Vancouver shortly after 11 p.m. Sunday night.

There were no injuries and the DC-8 was refueled and the passengers were flown to Seattle a few hours later without incident, authorities said.

Officials said one of the 159 passengers on Flight 179 had sent a note to the captain saying a bomb was on board and demanding that he divert the plane to Vancouver.

The jet landed and taxied to a secondary runway northeast of the main passenger terminal, airport spokesman Allan Jay said.

SMALLPOX IN BRITAIN

BIRMINGHAM (Reuter) — A 42-year-old English woman has smallpox, the world's first official case in 10 months and the first in Britain since 1973.

Janet Parker, a laboratory technician at a Birmingham university medical school, was reported in satisfactory condition after being admitted to hospital here today.

PRIMITIVE ROCK ART in the form of a hefty, daubed boulder was the surprise awaiting Ron and Pam Cunningham, 6863 West Saanich Road, on their return from a Penticton holiday Saturday. Mrs. Cunningham, examining the rock with sons Troy, 7, and Randy, 11, says the culprits haven't been identified but she strongly suspects her husband's colleagues in the public works department of Central Saanich municipality — specifically trick specialist Al Jordan. The rock face may be Jordan's retaliation for finding for-sale signs around his house when he returned from holiday, she speculates. Cunningham will probably borrow a backhoe to move the rock. AIRCAN, IAM TRY AGAIN

Canada, Europe Air Chaos Reigns

Times News Services

Air travel chaos continued in Canada and many parts of Europe today as Air Canada remained shut down and French air controllers worked to rule.

The Canadian Bar Association's experience reflected the general disruption in the nation's travel patterns. The association's annual meeting opened in Halifax today with fewer than half the expected delegates registered, most of the others having stayed home on account of the Air Canada shutdown.

Meanwhile, thousands of stranded passengers jammed European airports, their flights delayed as many as 26 hours by a slowdown strike of French control tower operators.

Hardest hit were London's Gatwick airport and Spain's Palma de Majorca. Palma closed three times Sunday and today it reported delays running up to 19 hours.

There appeared to be little hope of an early end to the Air Canada shutdown.

Representatives of the airline and ground-service workers began meeting in a Montreal hotel this morning in another attempt to resolve the current impasse over a new contract.

This is the third round of talks between the airline and the International Association of Machnists and Aerospace Workers (IAM), and the first negotiations since Air Canada reacted to wildcat strikes by shutting down its operations Friday.

Two earlier rounds of negotiations failed to produce an agreement acceptable to the union rank-and-file, and both sides appeared to be digging in heels.

Air Canada president Claude Taylor has said the airline will not resume operations until it has assurances there will be no further work interruptions by the ground-service workers.

And Barry Shaw, head of the union's negotiating committee, said the 7,500 ground service personnel would not return to work today despite a resumption in contract talks.

"The only way we see right now to get Air Canada back in operation is with a contract agreement acceptable to our membership," Shaw said.

By midnight Sunday, Air Canada had laid off more than 5,000 of its non-essential staff, including pilots, flight crews and some office personnel.

In Victoria, however, all 51 Air Canada employees were still on the job today and district manager Glen Steeves said no lay-offs would be ordered unless the dispute continued for sometime.

Steeves said Air Canada's Victoria operation is under contract to provide all ground services to Pacific Western Airline flights here, so maintenance and handling work is continuing.

Nicaragua Revolt Spreading

MANAGUA (AP) — Nicaraguans seeking the ouster of President Anastasio Somoza clashed with National Guard in major towns across the country as a general strike gathered momentum and reports circulated of rebellious talk in the National Guard, the country's 7,500-man army.

Sources said there have been open discussions of revolt broadcast over radio stations controlled by the guard. But foreign diplomats said they believe Somoza will be able to retain control.

Officers of the guard are reported upset over Somoza's capitulation to the 25 Sandinista Liberation Front guerrillas who seized the National Palace and more than 1,000 hostages last week and forced the president to let them and 59 imprisoned Sandinistas go to Panama.

Managua was quiet Sunday, but demonstrators erected street barricades and threw bombs at troops in Jinotepe, Diriamba, Esteli, Matagalpa, Leon, Chinandega and Grenada, the largest towns outside the capital.

No deaths are confirmed but the Red Cross said there are dozens of injured and un-

Troops Storm Church

SAO PAOLO (UPI) — Riot troops firing tear gas and wielding clubs charged 2,000 anti-government demonstrators in front of Sao Paolo's Roman Catholic Cathedral Sunday, leaving more than a dozen people injured.

The heavily armed riot troops surrounded the cathedral in the afternoon with police dogs as 8,000 people inside held a meeting protesting the high cost of living in the giant South American nation.

When the meeting, organized by the church-supported Cost of Living Movement, was over, most of the participants left through the cathedral's side doors without police interference.

But a crowd of about 2,000 — mostly students — had gathered on the cathedral's steps, chanting "Down with the dictatorship" and "United, the people will never be defeated."

Postal Deadlock In U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Amid mediation efforts to avert a threatened postal strike, Postmaster General William Bolger refused again today to reopen contract bargaining with postal unions. The Pentagon readied plans to call out as many as 90,000 troops in the event of a strike.

One union threatened a walkout at midnight unless the government reopened bargaining for a new contract, but there was no word from union leaders whether they would honor a no-strike order by a federal court.

Bolger jawboned postal employees against a walkout, warning it could spell the end of the Postal Service's monopoly of first class mail delivery and could jeopardize the future of the service and its employees.

A strike, the postmaster said, would be the "worst possible thing" for the Postal Service and its employees.

Now Swimmer Cindy Eyes Juan de Fuca

The girl who was named Canadian Woman Athlete of the Year for 1977, swam from France to England in an excruciating 12 hours, 15 minutes, 2½ hours outside her own record.

That gave her six crossings and the Channel Swimming Association's Queen trophy which goes to the woman with the most successful attempts.

As things stand now, Cindy plans to take a break from the channel next year.

"Maybe I'll lay off for a year and try the Strait of Juan de Fuca or the Capistrano Swim (off California.)."

After the swim, Cindy said that despite her triumph, she is disappointed.

Cindy, who tied for the Queen title last year when she swam the channel round-trip, had hoped to lower her own record of nine hours, 46 minutes for the east-west trip.

"The tide didn't come through as it should have," she said in a telephone interview from Folkestone.

Captain Val Noakes, skipper of the guide boat, said: "We thought we would make it in about 8½ hours."

Somehow, a tide they had expected to swing Cindy back toward the English coastline didn't act the way they thought it would and the Toronto girl had to drop her hammering 90-strokes-a-minute tempo to 88.

Cindy feels her queen title is safe in that "there was one girl who had three crossings but she has retired."

The Toronto girl had been tied with Greta Andersen, a Dane who swam in the United States during the 1930s and who crossed the channel five times.

MAJOR BREAK IN BEER STRIKE

Members of the Canadian Brewery Workers Union will vote this week on a full contract offer from B.C. breweries.

If the proposal is accepted, the breweries could be back in business within a few days.

The offer, considered a major break in the protracted dispute, came Friday night after five days of intensive negotiations.

Union leaders decided over the weekend to put the contract proposal to the members.

It is believed most locals will vote Wednesday.

A company spokesman said today both sides have agreed not to reveal details of the offer until after the vote.

He said the proposal is for "full and final settlement of all unresolved issues."

The brewery spokesman also said that "Eric Harris, chief negotiator for the companies, says that in the event the offer is not accepted it is unlikely the dispute will be settled for some time to come."

The brewery shutdown prompted the B.C. government to import increasing amounts of American beer. Thousands of cases of a wide variety of brands have been shipped in.

Axe Misses G-G's $2.3M Second Home Annex

QUEBEC (CP) — One week after the announcement of federal spending cuts, excavation has begun on a new $2.3-million extension to the governor-general's second home at the Quebec Citadel, used two or three weeks a year.

The new building, to house a ballroom, kitchen and other facilities, will rise on the ashes of the old residence annex, destroyed by fire in February of 1976.

Next door, renovations worth an additional $900,000 have recently been completed on the governor-general's private quarters, damaged by smoke and water during the same disastrous fire.

Andre Cote, project manager for the federal public works department, says the residence and annex had 125 rooms prior to the fire, and the total will be about the same when the project is completed in 1980.

The governor-general's main residence is at Rideau Hall in Ottawa but there has been a second residence at the Citadel overlooking the St. Lawrence River since Confederation.

Former governor-general Roland Michener visited the home, on the grounds of the historic military base, about four times a year. Gov.-Gen. Jules Leger has come less often, in part because of health problems.

"Last year, he came twice, eight days one time and two days the other time," says Cote.

Gov.-Gen. and Mme. Leger are expected to visit again next month, when the renovated private quarters will be officially inaugurated.

The restoration of the quarters, built in 1826 as officers' quarters, involved replacement of windows, electrical wiring, heating, plumbing and installation of an elevator and sprinklers.

The interior has been tastefully redecorated, with meticulous restoration of furniture in the bedrooms used by the vice-regal couple and 60 staff members who accompany them.

"The fire had a certain advantage," says Cote. "All the furniture was in poor condition and it gave us the opportunity to restore it."

Cote says there has never been any question of rebuilding the destroyed annex, built in two sections, the first in 1895 and the second in 1926.

"It was irrecoverable," he says. "It was extremely ugly."

The second phase of the project is due to begin next February, but Cote says there is "a big question mark" over the balance of the work because of spending cuts.

A spokesman for the department in Ottawa, however, said that for the moment the project is scheduled to proceed until completion.

Once it is ready, consideration is being given to opening the residence and a new terrace overlooking the river to the public.

Seniors Live It Up, on Air

By CAROL SPELLER
Times Staff

CBers, move over.

The South Vancouver Island Senior Citizens Amateur Radio Group is here.

And these radio hams can out-monitor you young upstarts with the flip of a frequency switch.

"We want to make a more active and pleasurable life by creating an interest — so one has a place in life," says president Rupert Grant.

"Some people lose hope when they retire."

The group has only 14 members south of Nanaimo and on Salt Spring and Pender islands, but Grant says membership could reach 300.

They applied for a federal grant through the New Horizons program in March and last week got the good news — $18,781 worth.

To be eligible for the grant they needed 10 members, all over 65 years of age and out of the work force. They had to prove they would be of use to senior citizens and must report to Ottawa every six months.

The seniors' radio group provides a backup operation for the Provincial Emergency Program, which endorsed their request for the grant.

They also teach at the Canadian Institute for the Blind, would like to help the handicapped and give lectures on amateur radio, satellites and how televisions work.

"We enjoy our hobby and that's it," Grant says.

About 80 per cent of the money will be spent on equipment and establishing their own repeater station on Mt. McDonald near Goldstream.

They have been using the forestry department's station.

The group would also like to buy receivers for members when they're in hospital.

They handled communication for the Victoria Yacht Club's Swiftsure race, the Totem Bonspiel and "a number of those kind of things."

Grant is a retired electronics sales manager and engineer and says having a hobby keeps him younger.

He is also vice-president of the Victoria Short Wave Radio Club, local director of the Quarter Century Wireless Association, and a memeber of the Victoria Repeater Group.

"People ask me, 'well, what do you do all day?'

"And I don't have enough time to do everything."

A federal test is required for a licence and it must be renewed every year.

The average age of members is 70 and most of them have spent 30 to 50 years in amateur radio.

Grant has chalked up 43 years and said there was a time when "we operators had to build our own equipment."

He has had visitors from Dallas, Texas following a radio conversation and has made friends around the world through his radio.

Grant doesn't like the word 'ham' because he says it implies amateurism.

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

Figures released by Statistics Canada showing spiralling increases in July food prices clash with a provincial survey that found supermarket prices that month actually dropped 1.24 per cent.

Ministry of agriculture marketing information unit official Wendy Levert told the Times that in some cases StatsCan just blew the figures in its mid-August announcement and in other instances used figures so old the whole situation had changed by the time the report was made public.

On Aug. 15 StatsCan made headlines across the country when it released figures showing a 17.8 per cent jump in the price of fresh fruit and vegetables in July was largely responsible for the fastest growth rate in consumer prices since 1975.

StatsCan said the July increase was largely due to the replacement of depleting domestic supplies of apples and potatoes by higher-priced imports.

Beef prices jumped by 3.9 per cent, the federal agency reported.

Levert said she is getting out a ministry publication showing local food prices dropped by 1.24 per cent in July when the StatsCan information was published.

She said her first thought was that she had blown all her research until she analysed the the two widely different sets of figures.

First, StatsCan bases its figures on a country-wide survey, while the market information unit studies supermarket prices in Vancouver only, and B.C. has a better domestic supply of fruits and vegetables than most provinces.

But more important, the federal agency undertakes its monthly survey in the first week of the month and doesn't release those figures until the middle of the following month. Hence the StatsCan analysis of July food prices, released Aug. 15, was based on a survey in the first week of July.

Levert could offer no explanation why StatsCan would suggest depleting supplies of apples and potatoes took place in July.

Local vegetables, including new B.C. potatoes, started coming on-stream in mid-July and were accompanied by a marked drop in price. Local apples hadn't even reached supermarket shelves in July since the B.C. harvest doesn't really start until September, she said.

Timing was again the factor in the reported increase in beef prices.

Prices were high at the beginning of the month, but began falling so that from June 28 to July 26, the price of beef declined 5.62 per cent.

But the high early-July figures were already in the StatsCan computer leading to the erroneous report of a 3.9 per cent increase for the month.

(The marketing information unit figures are backed by Calgary livestock figures, the prices released by the Canadian Cattlemen's Association and a separate survey undertaken by the Anti-Inflation Board. All showed a July drop.)

Levert is responsible for publishing a new monthly report analysing retail food prices in B.C. The publication is based on up-to-date food prices and is to be made readily available to the public.

The first one was released late last week.

North Island Rescue Boat Needs Studied

Capt. Jack Ickringill, coast guard rescue officer in Vancouver, said today the need for search and rescue facilities in the Campbell River area is under review.

Meanwhile, Bob Somerville, coast guard volunteer rescue agent at Campbell River, has written to Transport Minister Otto Lang and Defence Minister Barney Danson urging action be taken soon.

Since mid-June the 38-foot aids vessel Relite has been based in Campbell River as a search and rescue vessel but is due to leave there in October.

Somerville says the Relite has alreeady carried out 100 rescues since she arrived at the up-Island centre. "This is more than the Bamfield coast guard station; it is more than the 95-foot coast guard cutter Ready," Somerville tells the ministers.

In his 23-foot craft Christina Somerville says he carried out more than 30 rescues before June and estimates there will be a total of 200 before the year ends.

In meticulous detail, Somerville outlines the type of vessel — between 65 to 68 feet — needed for his area and the equipment that should be supplied.

He suggests the vessel should be moored at CFB Comox and the base's station should be required to monitor Citizens Band radio when the vessel's crew is not aboard and monitoring.

"I am taking the time and trouble to outline the requirements of a coast guard station and vessel for our area and, on behalf of the mariners in these waters, demand its immediate construction before we lose any more lives," Somerville says, adding that since 1966 the total of deaths by drowning has reached 101.

Railway Buffs Meet Sunday

The National Railway Historical Society's 38th annual convention will visit Victoria on Sunday as part of its Labor Day weekend festivites.

More than 300 railroad enthusiasts will attend the international event titled Inter Rail '78.

The visitors will tour Victoria, the B.C. Forestry Museum near Duncan, Vancouver, Portland, Dalles and Cottage Grove, Seattle and Pemberton.

Garden Shed Catches Fire

A fire early Sunday morning caused an estimated $4,500 damage to a shed at 3160 Weald Rd.

A passer-by noticed the fire about 1:10 a.m. and roused owner Dr. Robert Gale.

BATmobile Makes a Haul

The BATmobile patrolling the Colwood-Sidney-Sooke-Shawnigan area since Wednesday has resulted in 17 persons being charged with impaired driving, four for refusing to take a breathalyzer test, 72 24-hour licence suspensions, four people charged for driving while under suspension and nine for other minor motor vehicle infractions.

ALL GROWTH HURTS: MAYOR

There must be general recognition in Saanich that every major development proposal is bound to have a negative impact on the environment, Mayor Mel Couvelier said today.

The mayor said that is the fundamental point to bear in mind when council decides at a special meeting Wednesday whether to call a public hearing on the Saanich-initiated proposal for an industrial park on Interurban Road.

A planning department report assessing the impact of industry in the area has found 23 reasons why the site is unsuitable for such development, but Couvelier said that was only to be expected.

He said he cannot imagine any major development proposal having a positive impact on the environment.

"There is no doubt in my mind that all the impacts would lean heavily toward the negative.

"Once we accept that fact, we have a choice: either we do nothing (as far as major development is concerned) in Saanich for ever more, or we apply a weighted perspective to the various impacts presented to us.

"There is no other way."

The impact report on the proposed Interurban industrial park is the first such study undertaken in Saanich.

Extra Sailing at Midnight

Traffic was so heavy Sunday that an extra ferry was brought into service for the first time since B.C. Ferries put on a midnight sailing from Tsawwassen to Swartz Bay.

Traffic manager Bill Bouchard said today the traffic surge was caused by a rock concert at the Pacific Coliseum in Vancouver which drew 43,000.

The Queen of Tsawwassen, which normally handles the 12:15 a.m. run, left at 12:42 a.m. carrying 225 passengers, five commercial vehicles, eight overheight vehicles and 97 cars.

The Tsawwassen-based Queen of Saanich was pressed into service to handle the overload. She carried 667 passengers, one bus, two commercial vehicles, five overheight vehicles and 180 cars. She left Tsawwassen at 12:30 a.m.

The 12:15 a.m. run from the Mainland will continue until Sept. 6, after which a final evaluation of the late Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay run will be made.

To accommodate holiday traffic on the Labor Day weekend Bouchard said the Queen of Sidney and the Queen of Tsawwassen will carry out normal Sunday service on the Monday.

This will mean that the Queen of Tsawwassen will leave Swartz Bay at 5:45 p.m., carrying little traffic, to pick up a load at Otter Bay on north Pender Ialand, en route to Tsawwassen.

Bouchard said no extra sailings are planned for the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay runs which are now working at full capacity.

Lottery Digits Are a Gamble

Numerology-minded people may have trouble choosing their favorite combinations in Provincial and Western lottery tickets, but officials do try to give purchasers a variety of prefixes.

Commenting on a complaint from a frustrated ticket-buyer, S.J. Fisher of Victoria, lottery commissioner Jack Stewart said today the Western mixes its numbers between provinces so that no single area is allotted tickets bearing too many similar prefixes.

Fisher said he tried at four or five ticket-selling locations last week to get numbers starting with anything but 45 or 54 prefixes in time for Sunday's draw. He had to settle for 45 or 54 tickets.

Watching the draw on television, he was disturbed to see that the five winning numbers began with 12, 19, 26, 43 and 48 — not a 45 or a 54 among them.

"It is terribly frustrating that no one in Victoria had an opportunity to buy any tickets other than those numbered from 54 or 45," Fisher said. "I was assured that these were the only ones available in Victoria."

Stewart said that may be partially correct as far as the Western is concerned.

If a province requires more tickets beyond its initially well-mixed allotment, he said, then a block of consecutive numbers with the same prefix may be sent out from Ontario for local distribution.

People who buy tickets just before the draw may be getting those numbers. Anyone with a preference for certain numbers has a better choice if he buys early.

'OLD BOY' CLUB TO AID GRADS

A career assistance program for University of Victoria students has been started by the UVic Alumni Association.

The alumni association, made up of graduates of the university, the old Victoria Normal School and Victoria College, started the program to help students get the kind of work they're training for.

UVic students may be able to get help from graduates practising in their fields and make contacts in the areas they want to find jobs, according to Margaret Dempsey, the association's program director.

UVic graduates are responding enthusiastically to the program, she says.

The association has already received more than 300 replies from alumni who want to participate.

Responding alumni are filed by profession and degree so that students who want information about a specific field may contact people working in that field and find out how they put their university degrees to work finding jobs.

Volunteer counsellors have stepped forward from every professional field, but most of the people responding are in the teaching profession.

Students who want to use the service should apply in person at the alumni association office in University House or be referred by the campus counselling service.

This Is The Time of Golden Abundance

WE COME NOW TO THE time of year when we don't fish for sport alone. The coho salmon dancing on the end of a long line, and later with luck stowed under a wet sack in our baby-bath fish box, represents so many pint jars of prime winter eating.

At the landing, I clean these canning fish with special care, trimming off head, tail and fins to leave a solid block of good red flesh.

Next morning, Win reduces the salmon to jar-sized sections. To each jar she adds half a teaspoon of salt and a dash of ketchup to enhance the color and flavor. Then on go the screw-down lids, and the jars are ready for the canner.

We made do without a canner for years. When we had fish, fruit or vegetables to put away, we could always borrow one of the big, pressurized pots from an obliging neighbor. But finally we bought a canner of our own . . . a sleek and gleaming aluminum number complete with pressure gauge and safety outlet . . . which sits in state for most of the year on an upper cupboard shelf.

Then comes mid-August, and with it the season of plenty. Perhaps the people of the black-sheep ranch down the road who named their place 'Abundance' had this golden time in mind when they bestowed that lovely name. For abundance is everywhere apparent.

The vegetable gardens have completed their long transition from promise to fulfilment. Even our little patch is now ripening more vegetables than we can keep up with.

This year, by some happy miracle, we grew a profusion of truly noble carrots. Our two short rows of potatoes rewarded us beyond our hopes, with large, smooth-skinned tubers. We have been harvesting masses of green bush beans and sheafs of scarlet runners long in the pod.

The kohl rabi, a useful vegetable that tastes like a mild turnip but which resists the maggot more effectively than any turnip, stands on its leafy stalks like a row of baseballs.

It is also a time of gift-giving. Abundance can become too much of a good thing. It may then be necessary to work off some of your excess of riches on your friends.

Your tomato vines are burdened with field-ripened tomatoes far beyond your capacity to use them? There's always someone up or down the line who will welcome, or at least give house-room, to your surplus.

The same for zuccini squash, a vegetable for which I entertain a deep-rooted hatred. I groan when some good-doing neighbor turns into the access road with one of these vastly overgrown cucurbits tucked under an arm.

All this makes work for the canner, and also for the freezer, that invaluable catch-all into which goes so much of our garden plunder. Which reminds me: It's high time we were dropping down to a farm in the lush Comox, where each year we buy a sack of corn to lay away blanched and frozen in the freezer.

Last year, we harvested our own corn. Drove our car bouncing and rocking to the end of a dirt lane that threaded the field, then lost ourselves in corn-rows that stood considerably higher than our heads.

When we break out a couple of cobs to thaw for dinner, I remember that day: the muggy heat between the rows of stalks, the well-ripened ears tipped with their tufts of frizzled silk, and over head always a lane of deep blue sky.

"I'll heat the pot for you," Win said. "You might joggle the canner."

The canner sat royally on a front burner, pregnant with seven jars of red plums from an Island orchard. The shiny dingus that regulates the pressure jingled musically as it did its little war-dance, and I gave it a respectful berth.

Those plums will go well for dessert on some winter night when the golden season is only a memory and a promise of good times returning!

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Plunging oil issues sent the Toronto stock market sharply lower today in active mid-session trading.

The TSE 300 index was down 9.61 to 1,220.62 with losses in all four of its most heavily-weighted groups.

Oil and gas stocks declined 36.54 to 1,541.7, metals and minerals 10.07 to 1,030.05, industrial products 4.64 to 999.39 and financial services 2.05 to 1,143.02.

Management companies fell more than 13 points to lead the eight losers among the other 10 groups within the 14-unit composite index. Real estate and construction shares, up almost 24 points, and communications and media issues were the only gainers.

Volume of trading by 1 p.m. totalled 2.07 million shares, half the 4.13 million at the same time Friday.

Declines more than doubled advances 267 to 105 with 205 issues unchanged.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved lower today even though the government moved to ease two of Wall Street's major worries, the weak dollar and inflation.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 4.24 at noon New York time to 891.29. Declines led advances by a slim margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. NYSE volume totaled 13.32 million shares in the first two hours of trading, down sharply from the two-hour tally of 15.92 million Friday.

The Federal Reserve Board made it easier for banks to borrow funds in the Eurodollar market — dollars held outside the United States. Board economists said increased demand for Eurodollars could push up interest rates and encourage holders of forqign currencies to trade them for dollars they could lend at attractive rates.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were broadly lower in moderate afternoon trading today on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Volume at 2:30 p.m. Montreal time was 369,800 shares traded, compared with 549,800 exchanged up to the same time Friday.

Power Corp. was down ¼ at $19, FCA International five cents at $3.10, Shell Canada ¼ at $14⅞, CP Ltd. ¼ at $22½, Bank of Montreal ⅛ at $23⅞ and Bell Canada ⅛ at $59⅞. Texasgulf was up ⅛ at $24⅝.

All London markets are closed today on account of a bank holiday.

CATTLE

CALGARY (CP) — Monday's light sales at the Calgary public stockyards of 42 head were mostly slaughter cows of average conditon. Moderate demand was shown for all available classes. There were no slaughter steers or heifers on offer. Slaughter cows traded steady to last Friday's close with sales to 42.50. There were no bologna bulls on offer.

D1-2 cows 42.42.50, D3 38-40.50, D5 35-38. There were no feeder cattle on offer at Monday's sale.

R-D Plans To Leave Quebec

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Owen Sound, Toronto and London, Ont., are being considered as a new location for Reader's Digest Association (Canada) Ltd., which plans to move its offices out of Montreal, a company spokesman says.

Bruce Woodcock said the company's planned move from Montreal was for business reasons and not because of the political situation in Quebec. The Montreal operation is unwieldy and inefficient because the company's offices are scattered over four locations, he said.

He said the company will make a decision on relocation by March, 1979. If 90 per cent of the company's employees indicated they did not want to move, the company would consider another location in Quebec, he said.

BRUTE STRENGTH and sheer determination are winning ingredients for any team when contestants take to their inner tubes Sept. 10 for the Great Inner Tube Race, sponsored by the Victoria Times and organized by the Hampton Park Hustlers. All one needs — apart from lots of courage — is to be at least 16 and have a tube, a life jacket and a partner to enter either the men's doubles, women's doubles or mixed doubles race. Money raised through the entry fees goes toward amateur sport.

Ex-Speaker Weds Former Secretary

Canadian Press

Ed Smith, who resigned in March as Speaker of the legislature after controversy over his appointment of his former secretary Barbara Pennock to the independent auditor-general's office, married Miss Pennock Aug. 18.

The announcement of the wedding, which appeared in Saturday's Victoria Times and Sunday's edition of the Colonist, stated: Mr. and Mrs. Allen Pennock are pleased to announce the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Dean Edward Smith, on Aug. 18, 1978, at Fort St. John.

Smith has been the Social Credit MLA for North Peace River, which includes Fort St. John, since 1966. He was elected Speaker in March, 1976, and resigned the post last March 29 during prorogation of the 31st legislature.

"I have too deep a respect for the chair and the tradition behind it to remain in office when some consider my presence an inhibiting factor," Smith told the legislature in announcing his resignation.

The resignation ended a furore over his appointment of Miss Pennock several months earlier to the office of Auditor-General Erma Morrison.

Miss Pennock resigned Feb. 17, saying that her continued employment might cause embarrassment to the office.

SUSPECT IN CUSTODY

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Montreal man wanted in the shooting death last December of Ferdinand Voorn now is in city police custody.

The man was arrested last week in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and taken to Montreal for questioning about a $1.5 million extortion-robbery in February of a Wells Fargo office in Longueil, Quebec.

Canadian Crew To Aid In Love Canal Cleanup

OTTAWA (CP) — Environment Canada will help in the cleanup of the chemically contaminated Love Canal in Niagara Falls, N. Y., says a department spokesman.

The department will use its recently-developed Trace Atmospheric Gas Analyzer to search for dangerous chemicals in the air at a 16-acre housing site near the canal, Gordon Rosenblatt, an employee of the department's Toronto regional office, said today.

The canal was used as a chemical dumping site from 1930 to 1953 and chemicals leaking from rusted drums began percolating to ground surface in 1976, killing plants and burning dogs and children.

Of 82 chemicals oozing out of the drums, 11 are suspected to be cancer-causing agents. Miscarriages, birth deformities, cancer and liver disease are reported common in the area.

"We had already been working on contract in the general area, testing our new device on different compounds around the canal,"

BY-LAW NO. 4148
A BY-LAW
TO ACQUIRE BY EXPROPRIATION CERTAIN REAL PROPERTY BY THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF SAANICH FOR THE WIDENING OF SAANICH ROAD

WHEREAS it is deemed necessary and in the public interest to expropriate the real property hereinafter described for the widening of Saanich Road.

1. This By-law may be cited for all purposes as the "SAANICH ROAD EXPROPRIATION BY-LAW, 1978, NO. 4148".
2. For the widening of Saanich Road, the Council is hereby authorized and empowered, without the consent of the owners of the real property, but subject to the provisions of Division (4) of Part XII of the Municipal Act by its servants and agents, to enter upon, expropriate, break up, take, enter into possession of and use those certain parcels of real property situate, lying and being in the Municipality of Saanich, in the Province of British Columbia, more particularly described as follows:
    - (a) Those portions of Lot 1, Section 7, Victoria District, Plan 16963 containing respectively 5 square feet more on less and 92 square feet more or less and shown outlined in red on plan of survey prepared by Michael Ecroyde Claxton, B.C.L.S. and sworn to by him on the 24th day of July, 1978, a copy of which is attached hereto.
    - (b) That portion of Lot 1, Section 7, Victoria District, Plan 14547, containing 673 square feet more or less shown outlined in red on said plan of survey.
    - (c) That portion of Lot 2, Section 7, Victoria District, Plan 14547, containing 385 square feet more or less shown outlined in red on said plan of survey.
    - (d) That portion of Lot A, Section 7, Victoria District, Plan 17993, containing 212 square feet more or less shown outlined in red on said plan of survey.
3. The Council is further authorized and empowered, by its servants and agents, to enter upon any real property which may be injuriously affected by the exercise of the powers in this By-law granted for the purpose of executing any works of construction, maintenance or repair in mitigation of injury done or apprehended or in reduction of compensation.
4. This By-law shall, before coming into effect, be published once in The British Columbia Gazette and in a newspaper published or circulating in the Municipality of Saanich, and a certified copy of the By-law shall be filed in the Land Registry Office at Victoria in the Province of British Columbia.

Passed by the Municipal Council on the eighth day of August, 1978.

Reconsidered, finally passed and adopted, signed by the Mayor and the Clerk and sealed with the Seal of the Corporation on the twenty-first day of August, 1978.
